USE THE GRINDER.

Nowadays, when it is necessary to use every scrap of food, patriotism forbids any waste. Many a crust of bread has been thrown away simply because it was too much work to dry it and roll it into fine crumbs that later on might be used for croquettes.

But the vegetable grinder makes the work of crumbling dry bread exceedingly easy.

Slice the bread thin and place it in the oven until it is absolutely dry. It can even be golden brown. Then cool the bread and break it in small pieces and run it through the vegetable grinder. Turn the grinder to coarse for large crumbs of the sort that you sprinkle on baked dishes. Turn it to fine for dust of the sort that you roll croquettes in.

Of course, to be truly economical, you must dry the bread when the oven heat is needed for some other cooking.

Nuts can be ground instead of chopped for cakes and bread.

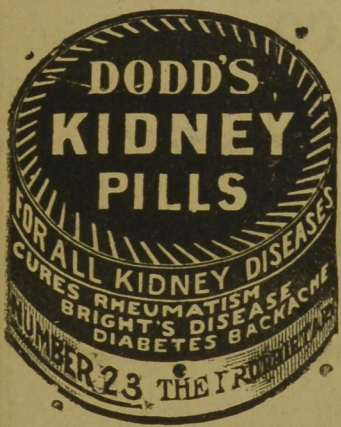

Often meat that would otherwise seem rather tough, may be converted into tender force-meat by putting it through the meat grinder. For instance, sometimes the meat that comes with a soup bone which is usually stringy and tough, may be taken from the soup and put through the grinder, seasoned well and used with rice or bread crumbs as the stuffing for baked peppers or tomatoes.

Often in using the grinder it seems as if we wasted quite a little because of what material refuses to be ground out. The last bits of meat or nuts can be got out by forcing through the grinder a small amount of stale bread and then stopping the grinding just as the bread starts through.

The newest meat choppers are easy to take apart and it should be a rule that the grinder should be completely taken apart and washed and scalded after each using.

TO REMOVE MILDEW.

For mildew, if the fabric is washable, wet with soapsuds and cover the spots with a paste made of soft soap and powdered chalk; then expose to sun for several hours and afterward rinse thoroughly. If one prefers, mildew may be removed by mixing together one part each of soft soap and salt with two parts powdered paste. Spread the layer over both sides of the stained fabric and let it lie on grass or expose to sun and air until the stain disappears. Then rinse out thoroughly.

Hints on the Art Of Poultry Keeping

Make the summer months this year count more than ever. Keep the young chicks growing and as far as possible make every hen do her best. Produce all the summer eggs you can and feed the chicks so that the pullets will lay early.

The Chicks—Every care should be given the growing chicks, not that they should be pampered, but they should be well fed and given range on "sweet soil." The feeding need not be of such a nature that it requires a great deal of work; have some system, but make it simple; use hoppers into which mixed grain may be put and if you have milk be sure that the chicks get all they want.

The Hens—For this year instead of killing off all breeders in June keep those that will pay in summer eggs until they begin to moult in the fall before killing. As a rule, the two year old Rocks, etc., will not pay to keep, though Leghorns might. Kill non-producers, such as old hens and weaklings. Keep only those that will produce.

Broilers—Dispose of as many as possible of the cockerels that are large enough to sell as broilers; towards the end of June the prices will be lower; cockerels which cannot be profitably sold should be kept to sell as roasters. Early selling cuts down the cost of production, gives more room for the pullets, and leaves the market freer in the fall for the roasters that have to be sold at that time of the year.

Kill the Cocks—During this warm weather, gather the eggs two or three times a day. Keep the broody hens off the nests. Break the setters by putting them in a feeding crate or swinging coop. Keep eggs in a cool place and market two or three times a week.

Shade for the Chicks—Get the young chicks into some growing crop that will provide shade, green feed and good scratching ground. Colony houses along the side of the root field or in the corn patch cannot be beaten. It neither is available, get the chicks into the orchard, into a clump of trees, or if you have not shade provide some. The hot sun is very disastrous to the young chicks and ducks.

Plough up the Runs—Early in the summer plough up the runs and sow green feed such as rape. This can be sown broadcast in the same manner as buckwheat, and it is splendid green feed for the chicks in the fall.

Disinfect and Whitewash—Look out for lice. Once a week the quarters should be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected. A hand spray or even a small broom and Zenoleum applied regularly will keep the coops sweet. While you are at it clean out the poultry house the hens were in last winter. Give it a thorough house-cleaning, taking out all the furnishings; leave them in the sun for several days; scrub and clean the house; disinfect and whitewash before the furnishings are put back again.

Special Egg Market—September is a good time to look for a special egg market. It is the time when consumers are coming back to the city and are looking for new-laid eggs. It is also the time when new-laid eggs are the scarcest. If you are so situated that you can ship direct to consumers, see about this trade.

The Early Pullets—In September and October the early pullets will be maturing. Give special care and feed. Get them into their winter houses before they lay so that there will be no break. Feed well, and do not excite them.

Start the Poultry Year Nov. 1.—November 1 is the best time to start the year. It is then that the pullets are commencing to lay and it makes a good division. This year arrange to know what your poultry crop is doing. Make an inventory on the last day of October, crediting to the plant all the stock and equipment you have on hand. Put the poultry plant under the management of some one and keep accounts.

Pay Your Debt To Your Defenders

Turn Your Luxuries Into Comforts
For Those Who Have Sacrificed Most.

"Self-sacrifice, self-denial and service lie at the basis of the highest personal and national development."

Sir Thomas White,
Minister of Finance.

Is it nothing to you that men from all round you have sacrificed home and salary, safety and life, to defend your home as well as their own?

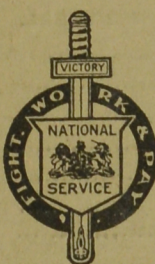

Is it nothing to you that their wives and families tremblingly scan each casualty list, and pale at the step of the postman or telegraph messenger?

Can you see others giving their dearest, without feeling that you must do something yourself? Do you wonder what to do?

You can at least save—and lend your savings to the nation. Canada needs every dollar her loyal sons and daughters can spare, to meet the growing expenses of the struggle.

Every dollar you invest in Canadian War Savings Certificates helps the nation to deal generously with those who are defending you.

Certificates in denominations of $25, $50 and $100, repayable in three years, may be purchased at any Bank or Money Order Post Office at $21.50, $43 and $86 respectively. This means over 5% interest—making them a profitable as well as a patriotic investment.
