

"Almost a miracle"

That is what Rabbi M. Shallit of Edenbridge, Sask., says regarding a cure by Zam-Buk, of which he gives the following particulars:

"A short time ago," said the Rabbi, "a man brought his little son to me and asked if I knew of anything that would cure the child of a terrible skin disease, with which he had suffered for three years. The child's forehead, eyes and ears were covered with sores. The sight was shocking, and the child had not been able to see for two years. As he was an only child, the father said he would give anything to have him cured, but as he had already been treated by many doctors, each of whom had given up the case as incurable, he had about despaired of ever finding a cure. Having great faith in Zam-Buk, I recommended it, and to cut a long story short, perseverance with Zam-Buk has now completely cured the child."

THE FATHER'S ACCOUNT

The following letter from the father of the boy expresses his gratitude: "The Zam-Buk Company, Toronto
Dear Sirs: I beg to testify that my boy suffered for three years with a severe skin disease, which doctors tried to cure, but in vain. The sores on his eyes were so terrible that for two years he was quite unable to see. Zam-Buk, however, has worked a complete and permanent cure.
The Zam-Buk treatment was recommended to me by Mr. M. Shallit, Rabbi of Edenbridge, for which I shall be grateful to him forever.
With hearty thanks to you, I remain, Yours faithfully,
(Signed) E. ROMANUK."

BELGIAN KIDS

BADLY TREATED

Washington, Dec. 3. — Last month just about this time the tragedy of Belgium came home to a group of American, French and Belgian officials in a little town in France.

It was the tragedy of a Belgium crucified by the Huns, crucified because of the needless and wanton sufferings imposed upon helpless children by the conquerors.

Some of these little victims, who had somehow survived, were allowed to come into France by way of Germany and Switzerland. The first friendly faces they saw after their long journey were those of the American Red Cross Infant Welfare Unit stationed at Evian, on Lake Geneva. One of those in the party that greeted them was Mrs. June Richardson Lucas, wife of a Red Cross worker who was formerly a professor in the University of California.

Mrs. Lucas in her diary draws a picture that will make everyone who reads it resolve to keep the curse of German warmakers as far as possible from our shores and our homes and our children.

"Today at 11," writes Mrs. Lucas, "was almost the most dramatic moment of all at Evian."

"Six hundred and eighty Belgian children arrived on the morning train."

"It was indescribable, all these little children — thin, sickly-looking, alone. All of them between the ages of four and twelve. It is impossible to picture — those poor children calling 'Vive La France!' and 'Vive La Belgique!' for the first time in three years."

"Those who stood on the platform could only wave to them—cheering was impossible."

"The boys were livelier than the girls—the little girls of 10 and 12 who cried bitterly. Two-thirds of these children have been taken from their parents because their fathers would not work for the Germans and the mothers were willing to let the children go rather than see them starve.

"I have never seen anything more poignant than those groups of children clinging to each other as they marched down the street the Casino. It was the saddest, cruellest sight. Not one grown-up, just children marching bravely along, some singing, some crying, some doing both."

"As they passed along the repatriates called to them. 'Don't cry, you are going to have meat!' And the boys shouted, 'Meat, meat, we are going to have meat!'"

"Many things flashed into my mind. 'Seven cents a day feeds a Belgian baby.' Do you remember our Belgian Commission cards at home? Here were some of the children we didn't feed, perhaps—the long, long line. It seemed to stretch out for miles before you. You seemed to see that little wavering line of starving children passing on and on over miles of devastated country."

"You felt glad that Herbert Hoover was not there to see that special bit of tragedy he worked so hard to prevent."

"I understand now that look in his face when he talked about Belgian children last year—deepening of those splendid lines about his mouth that made you feel he would never give up his fight to save the Belgian children. 'The Casino was glowing with good cheer. The meta was there, plenty of it, and potatoes, hot chocolate, hot roasted chestnuts. How they ate! Yes, they juts stuffed that good dinner. They were so hungry, and they were children. I shall never forget their hands—little bird-like claws, so thin, and when they sang they waved those pathetic little hands. I shall never forget."

"And such singing! The spontaneity of it. Suddenly they would sing with all their might. Those shrill voices shouted out a song against the Germans. Those songs must have been learned in secret and yet every tiny child knew every word."

"Those children have a look about them that makes you ache—it's so wrong, and then you stiffen. You feel that you will fight for a hundred years if necessary to prove such methods wrong."

Good Bye, Old Time Melodrama!

Ready to see you go, but the new melodrama is here—"THE FIGHTING TRAIL." Greater, bolder, more gripping on the old home hasn't a chance in this, the only kind of melodrama that goes in that of brand new thrills and emotions. And there are dozens of 'em in every episode. William Russell and Carol Holloway risk their necks two dozen times in "THE FIGHTING TRAIL." THAT'S what we call melodrama! Stunts that amaze and thrill. Be sure to see it.

The Ideal Car for All Seasons

WINTER cold and drifting snow do not mar the comfort of motoring in a Ford Sedan, the car that completely protects you from every weather at all times.

High winds cannot blow you "to pieces". Irritating dust and rain can be entirely shut out, while on warm, pleasant days the windows may be lowered, so that the air circulates freely.

The Ford Sedan is a dignified business and family car. It gives the motorist the utmost protection and comfort. Simply to ride in it, is to want it.
