AMERICA'S WAR AIMS ARE DEFINED BY THE PRESIDENT

The Nations Must be Freed From Autocratic Domination--Full Reparation Must be Made to Belgium--Asks for a Declaration of War Against Austria-Hungary--President's Address Praised on All Sides.

Washington, Dec. 4. — A definite statement to the world of America's aims and of the basis upon which peace will be considered was made today by President Wilson in an address to congress in which he urged immediate declaration of a state of war between the United States and Austria-Hungary—Germany's vassal and tool. As to Turkey and Bulgaria—also tools of the enemy—he counselled delay because “they do not yet stand in the direct path of our necessary action.”

To win the war the president declared in emphatic and ringing tones, is the immediate and unalterable task ahead. He urged congress, just beginning its second war session, to concentrate itself upon it.

The president sharply dismissed the possibility of premature peace, sought by the German intrigue and debated here by men who understood neither its nature nor the way it may be attained. With victory an accomplished fact, he said, peace will be evolved based upon “mercy and justice”—to enemy and friend—with hope of a partnership of nations to guarantee future world peace.

Peace Terms Outlined.

The war will be deemed won, he declared “when the German people say to us, through properly accredited representatives, that they are ready to agree to a settlement based upon justice and reparation for the wrongs their rulers have done.”

Terms of peace, he added, would not include dismemberment, robbery or punishment of the enemy, but would be based on justice, defined briefly as follows:

Freedom of nations and their peoples from autocratic domination, reparation to Belgium, relinquishment of German power over the peoples of Austria, Turkey and the free Balkan states as well as evacuation of Prussian territorial conquests in Belgium and northern France.

Emphasizing the purpose of the United States not to interfere in the internal affairs of any nation the president asserted that no wrong against the German empire was intended, and that there was no desire to rearrange the Austro-Hungarian empire. He said when he spoke eight months ago of the right of nations to free access to the seas he had Austria as well as the smaller and weaker nations in mind.

Appearing before congress in joint session for the first time since he asked for the war declaration against Germany last April, the president was more than usually warmly greeted, and his speech was received with enthusiastic applause which grew tumultuous when he reached the recommendation as to Austria.

Diplomats, justices of the supreme court and other high officials assembled on the floor joined in the demonstration.

The definition of war aims and peace terms, the most explicit ever voiced by the head of any of the great warring powers, was accepted as the most significant because since his reply to the pope's peace note the president has come to be regarded more and more as a spokesman for all the nations fighting Germany.

By advance arrangements the address was made available for publication today in nearly every corner of the globe. It probably will not appear in full in the Teutonic press, but the papers of neutral countries and the work of Allied aviators will get it to many Germans in unutilized form.

Congress Soon to Act.

The request for a declaration of war with Austria met with virtually unanimous approval and congress tonight was prepared to give prompt response. Passage by the house on Thursday and by the Senate on Friday of the necessary resolution was planned by the leaders, who began drafting the formal document soon after the president finished speaking.

Alleged Shortage of Game.

The alleged shortage of big game in this province and the stories of non-resident hunters that New Brunswick is playing out as a big game country will receive serious consideration from the provincial authorities and correct information on the matter required from those in touch with conditions and competent to judge.

It is a curious fact that in the season in which non-resident hunters complain of a scarcity of good moose heads a resident hunter obtained the record spread of horns, six feet.

Officials in the City.

Premier Foster and Hon. E. A. Smith, Minister of Lands and Mines, arrived in the city this morning and were engaged this morning at the Crown Land Office. Chief Warden L. A. Gagnon of Edmundston, who succeeded Mr. A. E. O'Leary of Richibucto, was in Fredericton yesterday. He has returned to Edmundston.
