Why People Feel Depressed In the Cold Weather

Why is tiredness and languor so prevalent just now? A physician explained that the cold of winter drives blood from the surface of the body to the liver. Normally one-fourth of the whole blood supply is in the liver and when more blood is accumulated in that organ everything goes wrong. No better remedy exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are composed of such vegetable extracts as Mandrake and Butternut, and possess wonderful liver stimulating powers. It's a marvel the way Hamilton's Pills clear the blood of the poisonous humors. They put new life into worn out bodies, build up the appetite, bring back a reserve of nerve energy, tide folks over the cold days of winter the depressing days of spring. For your health and body comfort get a 25c. box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills today.

The Nova Scotia Fishermen Are Well Satisfied

Halifax—If any class of people in Nova Scotia have reason to be satisfied with conditions it is the fishermen of Lunenburg, who control the bank fishery. They are getting $14.50 per quintal for their fish ex-vessel—a phenomenal figure. It does not seem so very long ago, since the price was $4. The leading exporters of Halifax were asked if it were not dangerous for them to load up at such an extraordinary price as $14.50. They replied that they did not think so, for one reason because the world's stocks are not sufficient for more than four or five months' consumption and it must be quite that long before Norway can come into the market with next season's catch. One of these exporters was asked if he was much concerned about the fishing industry next year and he replied:

"No, not from the merchandising standpoint. No doubt next year's catch of codfish will sell at much lower prices, but we are quite accustomed to fluctuations in the fish trade, and we worry very little about them as they come about from year to year. For instance, in 1906, there was a drop of 50 per cent. at the opening of the season, and suddenly, about mid-summer, there was a swing the other way, and prices went up 100 per cent. Of course they shortly broke and some of the trade lost a good deal of money but by the time next season came around we were ready to start in all over again, and with an entirely new situation, which is just what we will have by the time the first of the spring catch of next year has been placed on the market."

"Seein' Things At Night"

TO MOTHERS! Guard your kiddies against torpid liver, sour stomach, constipated bowels which generate poisons. These "inside" poisons circulate to the brain, producing bad dreams, then a feverish head. Unless you "work" out these poisons you will have a real sick youngster shortly. Cascarets are a candy cathartic, ideal for children. Cost only 10 cents a box. Read below!

Children love Cascarets because they taste like candy. When your child has a white tongue, feverish breath, foul stomach, give Cascarets anytime to "work" the nasty bile, souring food and bowel poison from the clogged-up places. You needn't coax even cross, sick children to take these harmless candy "Cascarets." They never gripe—never injure. Cascarets never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box contains directions and dose for children aged one year old and upwards.

The great question for the fish trade of the future is that of production. Overhead expenses have so increased that fishermen will not be able to sell at the old figures should the world's markets demand a reduction, as they no doubt will. The Lunenburg vessels require much larger gross earnings than formerly in order to pay interest on the investment, but with the prospect that prices must go back to about $7 per quintal it is difficult to see how these highly capitalized vessels can make a profit.

Eskimos of the Arctic Now Have Electric Lights

(New York Times)

The Arctic nights of the Eskimos are now made bright by electric lights according to an article in a recent issue of the Eskimo, a magazine published at Nome, Alaska, for the Eskimos of northwestern Alaska.

In the article, Delbert Replogle, assistant teacher and wireless operator at Noorvik, who directed the installation of the electric plant, describes the benefits to the Eskimos of the district. "It seems strange to drive out of the darkness of an Arctic light into the electric blaze of the lights of the Eskimo village of Noorvik on the Kobuk," he said. "The lights stream from the houses, government buildings and street."

"One has to live in Noorvik to find how much the lights mean to the people. Some of the good results are the following:

"There is less eye strain. Many an aged Eskimo woman whose eyes used to become wearied has been able to continue sewing by the soft, sure glow of the Mazda lamp installed in her home. A decided home pride and more cleanliness have come with the new light. And the people now have regular hours of sleep since all the lights are turned off at 9.30, thus causing people to rise earlier and use more daylight in the winter."

"All this has come without any financial expense to the people. The twenty families having lights did the work on the buildings for the light plant and the general village improvement. But the present 2-kilowatt dynamo is too small for the demand and the village has already subscribed $240, with the prospect of more with the government has established, a wireless set and now we can keep in touch with the Nome radio and through it with Mr. Loop (in charge of the Alaskan division of the United States bureau of education at Seattle) and Mr. Shields (superintendent of the Northwest district at Nome).

"Through the Noorvik wireless the bureau of education quickly reaches the other villages in our part of the Northwestern district. Three times a week we relay messages to Selawik, where a receiving station was built by Frank Jones. The towns of Noatak Kotzebue and Shungnak can be reached by messenger. Through this station our department has been able to extend its courtesy to the Eskimo friend the revenue cutter Bear; to the post-office and the department of justice."

"Every day the daily news of the world comes to our wireless station. We make copies of the news bulletins for our own people and for the surrounding villages. The news is always read at the morning exercises of the Noorvik school. It tells them of world events and makes the children interested in geography. And the daily news has awakened the whole village to the meaning of the United States, its people and government. Formerly the government was only Mr. Lapp, Mr. Shields and the local teachers; now the government means the expression of the will of the people and something men are living and dying for."

"The Noorvik people have fittingly expressed their appreciation to Mr. Lapp for the lights and wireless and they are hoping that the people of other villages may soon know the advantages of these latest gifts of the government of the people."

There were over 6,000 women cooks and waiters in the British army when the whistle blew to quit. The introduction of woman cooks at one of the officers' camps reduced the mess charge from sixty-five to thirty-five cents a day. If any of these girls can get home unmarried, it will be because Tommy has had fighting enough to last him a lifetime.

Just because a girl is good and sweet and noble is no reason why she doesn't enjoy watching a movie vampire do all the fascinating wicked things she's always secretly wanted to do.
