OF INTEREST

GLASS OVEN-WARE

If she "keeps house" and is proud of her cooking—why not buy her a set of transparent glass ovenware? There's nothing in the world that would bring greater joy to a house-keeper's heart than a set of these attractive, easy to keep clean and delightful to use baking utensils.

Food cooked in them tastes twice as good—even though it may be the simplest vegetable or a desert that is whipped up in five minutes.

And they save extra dishes, for they may be taken direct from the stove oven to the table and look as much at home on the dinner table as the most sumptuous service of Sheffield plate.

This glass ovenware is impervious to heat—neither heat nor cold affect it. "Out of the icebox into the oven" is a favorite slogan of its makers.

LAUNDRY HINTS

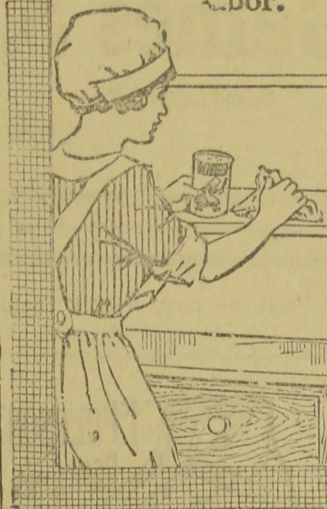

If handkerchiefs become yellow they can be whitened by soaking them, after they have been washed, in a quart of water in which two table-spoons of cream of tartar has been dissolved. Another splendid method for whitening clothes is to add two or three slices of lemon to the water in which they are boiled. Leave the rind on the lemon.

Chamois skin of any kind should always be washed in warm, not hot water, and soap suds, then rinsed through several clear, warm waters. In the last water put a teaspoon of olive oil. Draw through the hands to press out the water and hang in the air to dry. During the drying pull and shape occasionally, and when almost dry rub until soft and smooth.

Former British Food Controller Clymes, in a letter to the press, says that the world's food supply must still for the time give ground for anxiety. The enemy stripped many occupied provinces of their food and means of production. In large territories of Europe there is danger of a famine this winter. The food ministry has already abolished some minor restrictions of this kind, but it will clearly be necessary at least during the winter and spring, to continue the main safeguards to a just and equal distribution of food supplies.

The war cost two hundred billions. What a splendid newspaper might have been established with this sum! A New Yorker has changed his name from Whoriskey to Waters. He should adopt the first name of Strong. After the Huns have time to think it over, they will come to the conclusion that their defeat was a victory for them.

RICH, RED BLOOD
RESISTS INFLUENZA

In the epidemic of la grippe, or influenza, that has swept over Canada in common with the rest of the world, it has been noticeable that its earliest victims were the thin-blooded anaemic people whose power of resistance is greatly weakened because of the watery condition of their blood. When a person is strong, hearty, able to enjoy a brisk cold day, chills and infections are set in defiance. But when the system is run down, when the nerves are shaky and the blood watery, the germs of influenza are quick to seize their opportunity. It is therefore good policy to keep the blood always rich, red and strong, and the nerves well nourished by the use of such a reliable tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. People who take these pills from time to time are usually able to resist colds, influenza and other ailments, and enjoy good health while many about them are weak, ailing and miserable.

To those who have been attacked by influenza, the after effects are more dangerous than the attack itself. They are left at the mercy of relapses and complications. There is a persistent weakness of the limbs, shortness of breath at the least exertion, poor digestion and a tendency to take cold easily. This condition will persist and will grow worse unless the blood is built up and the shattered nerves strengthened. For this purpose there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last these pills make new, rich, red blood, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Thus the lingering germs are driven out, the appetite is improved, and weak, despondent victims of influenza are transformed into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women. If you have passed through an attack of influenza you will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the one thing needed to restore you to full health and strength. If the trouble has passed you, you can further strengthen your self against its insidious advance by the use of this same tonic medicine.

Medicine dealers everywhere sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or you can procure them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Canadian Angle

AN amusing skit on the effect of the new C. P. R. president's hat appears in the Chatham "News"—this effect being produced, doubtless, by the law of suggestion. The hat of Mr. Beatty is said to be tilted at a rakish angle; and the moment that this was found to be the case, the mimicry of that hat became a sacred duty on the part of the employees, according to the story.

In the good old days of Baron Shaughnessy, says the writer, the brisk and businesslike boy who delivers our C. P. R. despatches used to march into the office with his natty blue cap set square across his noble brow.

That cap was a fixture there. We got used to it. It seemed part of the established order of things. One could as easily imagine the boy pushing it to one side or the other, as one could imagine a breeze on the Nile upsetting the great Pyramid.

One day last week we got a shock. Into our office tripped the youngster with his cap tilted rakishly over one ear.

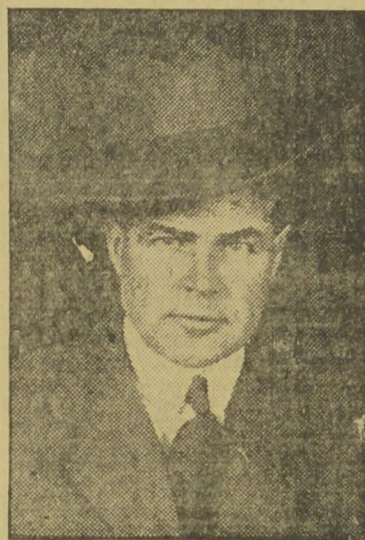

"What's the matter, kid?" we enquired. "Getting the flu?" "Nope," and he bristled out again without troubling to explain. But we have just discovered the truth.

Baron Shaughnessy used to wear his hat square-set across his forehead. But the new resident of the C. P. R.—its first Canadian-born president—Mr. E. W. Beatty, invariably carries his chapeau tilted at a rakish angle.

There are whispers going down the line that sedate firemen and brakemen and conductors all over the 18,600 miles and more of the C. P. R. are giving their headgear a shove to the east.

A commercial traveller through the West, who has escaped the flu, his system being too crowded with nicotine to give the germs even the tiniest foothold, mentioned to us just this morning that he had seen bell-boys in the C. P. R. hotels out there with their caps entirely off their heads and hanging from their ears, like pagan ornaments. He saw that in more than one of the C. P. R. hotels; and what the effect may be if the new practice is prevalent throughout the eighteen C. P. R. caravansaries, it is impossible to gauge.

Telegraph operators in the 15,000 offices of the C. P. R. Telegraphs have been widely affected by the new movement in hats. The workmen in the great Angus car shops at Montreal, and in the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg and Calgary, show, it is said, scarcely one piece of headgear that retains the old Shaughnessy level. The Beatty angle is the thing now.

Even the chaps associated with the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services (representing one of the largest passenger fleets in the world), with the C. P. R. western lands, with their great $17,000,000 irrigation scheme and ready-made farms, and with the mining and smelting interests of the C. P. R. on the Pacific Coast—even the men linked up with these C. P. R. subsidiaries have yielded, it is said, to the lure of the "tilted cap."

It is even whispered that a few of the older locomotives with the wide-brimmed Stetson smokestacks of the vintage of 1889 have taken to wearing their battered crowns a bit to one side.

We asked the kid about it this morning, when he came in wearing his cap at an even Beattyier angle than yesterday. "Do you really expect to be president of the C. P. R. some day?" "Every fellow's got a chance," he rejoined. "But," we explained, "Mr. Beatty went to Toronto University and studied law, and—" "That's just it," he said. "He was only a lawyer to start with and look what he done—just through wearing his cap like this. Don't try to tell me I ain't got a chance—and here I'm starting at the bottom rung and working up." "But," we urged, patiently, "it's better to be right than to be president." "Yep," said the kid, "and it's a beaverdamns better to be both."

He gave the corner of his cap a yank, and went out whistling.

Of all the sad words that tongue can utter, the saddest of these "We're out of butter." Every woman dreads a lover who acts like a husband and a husband who acts like a husband.
