EVERY SUGAR MAPLE SHOULD BE TAPPED

Some Interesting and Profitable Facts About Canada's Initial Sugar-Making Process.

Canada's dependence on imported sugar, now a scarce commodity, can be materially lessened by increased production of maple sugar this spring. Except in farm houses in Quebec where it is used on the table, maple sugar has been regarded as a luxury. This should not be so, as it can now be produced on a small scale where no additional help has to be paid for, at a somewhat lower cost than the present retail price of the sugar ordinarily used.

Every pound of granulated sugar that can be exported is needed overseas, and Canadian farmers should increase the production of maple sugar and syrup this spring by tapping every maple tree that is large enough. The sap runs at a time when farm work it as a minimum and no increase in the labor supply is therefore needed.

A mature, thrifty maple will yield about 12 gallons of sap, composed of about 95 per cent. water and 3 per cent. sugar, with a residuum of mineral matter. Large-crowned trees, or trees grown in the open bush, with long trunks, produce the most sap. The ideal weather conditions for sap flow are moderately warm days and freezing nights.

To tap a tree, bore a half-inch upward-sloping hole one inch deep, on the sunny side of the tree. There are many varieties of sap spouts available. The best sap pails are made of tin or galvanized iron, with covers. The sap is gathered at least daily and boiled down in the boiling house, or in the farm kitchen. The process is simply one of evaporating the water content until the sap becomes of the consistency of syrup, or of a weight of 11 pounds to the gallon. The syrup should be strained through flannel, which leaves the product perfectly clear.

In making sugar, the syrup should be re-boiled until it begins to crystallize or 'sugar-off.' This point may be determined by pouring a little into ice water or on the snow. If the syrup becomes waxy, it has been boiled sufficiently. It is best to reduce the syrup to sugar in small quantities. Before pouring it into moulds, stir slowly to reduce the temperature, and thus avoid granulation.

Where production is undertaken on a larger scale, much more elaborate equipment is necessary.

The practice of buying and selling commissions in the British army prevailed until 1871.

CHIEF FINLEY'S REPORT

the auto paying the bills. Early in December these signs were taken into winter quarters and stored as we found that it would cost too much to keep them repaired once the base became frozen fast to the road surface, the pipe connecting the base and top together being frail and easily broken by the slewing of a sled on the icy street when turning sign.

Prohibition's Advantages.
The city is very quiet and has been since the Prohibitory Act came into force in the city and county, as is shown by the fact that during the month of November we had only four arrests for drunkenness and three for the month of December, with only one telephone call for the latter month which, considering the holiday season is very gratifying and should show to our citizens the advantage of Prohibition over the C. T. Act or License Law.

A Real War Time Food Grape-Nuts

Delicious barley flavor. Over 10 per cent. actual grain sugar produced in making. NOT A CRUMB OF WASTE.

Acting under instructions from the Police Commission, I accepted the position of sub-inspector for the city of Fredericton under the N. B. Intoxicating Liquor Act of 1916. And on the 10th day of December, 1917, I was appointed sub-inspector for the town of Devon or parish of St. Mary's, for a period of six months, for which services I am to receive $50 every three months. These checks will be handed to the city treasurer to be used for city purposes. This transaction has also been sanctioned by your Commission and continues until the 10th day of June, when new arrangements may be made that will be satisfactory to all concerned.

In conclusion I am pleased to say that our city has been clear of any serious crime and I trust that this may continue through the coming year.

Thanking your Council for the many ways you have assisted me in my work and I trust that I may be enabled to discharge the duties that devolve upon me in such a manner as will justify your honorable body in continuing to assist me in making our city a cleaner and better city to live in than any other town or city in Canada.

I would also extend my thanks to the Police Magistrate, City Treasurer and Public Press for the many courtesies which have been extended to me during the past year and trust that the same may continue.

Thanking you again, Gentlemen, I beg to remain,

Your humble servant,
W. H. FINLEY,

THERE IS NOTHING FOR THE LIVER

SO GOOD AS Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

They will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, and will tone, renovate, and purify the liver, removing every result of liver trouble from the temporary, but disagreeable bilious and sick headaches to the severest forms of liver complaint.

They are small and easy-acting, do not gripe, sicken or weaken like the old fashioned, nauseating, griping purgatives.

Mrs. A. Kirk, 53 Yorkville Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have tried and tested Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and have received good results, for which I am very thankful. I took them for liver trouble. I came out of the hospital on May 3rd, last, after having had a serious operation which might have been saved had I taken your remedy sooner. I have given some to my sister for biliousness and sick headache, and she has found great relief. A lady who lives in my house has started to take them. I will do my best to recommend them to all my friends."
