PATRIOTIC PROGRAM—HOLDING THE HOME LINES CARRYING ON

Big Lectures with Big Messages About the Great War.

"THE TRAGEDY OF ARMENIA AND SYRIA" Stirring Lecture by Dr. Frederick G. Coan.The "OLD HOMESTEAD" QUARTET. Third Day at Chautauqua"ROBIN HOOD" by far Most Popular American Opera. Fifth Evening at Chautauqua.

"Robin Hood" is perhaps the biggest single attraction ever given on any Chautauqua program. If Chautauqua patrons were pleased with the "Chimes of Normandy" and "Mikado" in previous years, they will be more than delighted with "Robin Hood." Many remember the famous songs—"Then Hey! For the Merry Greenwood," "Brown October Ale," "Come Dream So Bright," "Tinkers' Chorus," "Oh, Promise Me," "Come Away to the Woods," "Ho! Ho! Then for Jollity," "Ye Birds in Azure Wing," "Armorer's Song," "A Hunting We Will Go," "Ah! I Do Love You," "Sweetheart My Own," "Love, We Never More Will Part," and others. Chautauqua will be the place to hear them in the opera "Robin Hood" presented in full cast.

Sectetary of War Baker Says of Chautauqua

"I am constantly facing the splendid results of the work done by the Chautauqua in this country in creating and sustaining a sound patriotic feeling, and in carrying forward the great national enterprises which the government is necessarily bringing to the attention of our people; and I want you to know that as an officer of the government I not only appreciate the importance of the lecture platform as a means of communication and expansion, but also appreciate the work which you and your associates are doing as a contribution to our national cause."

CANADIAN EDITORS BACK IN LONDON

London, July 30—The party of Canadian newspaper proprietors and editors which has been visiting France has returned to London.

The Paris correspondent who returned with Canadian editors in France since July 24th says there has been a splendid experience, far beyond their own enthusiastic expectations, and will have results in Canada which even the ministry of information and the imperial military authorities, who suggested the trip, could not have anticipated.

The editors shook the hand of every one, from Field Marshal Haig down to Bill Smith, or Bill Jones, from their own particular home town. They lunched or dined pleasantly with Sir Arthur Currie, the Canadian corps commander, or with the heads of the Canadian railway and forestry corps, and on the next day they would share the simpler fare of the men actually in the front line. They were allowed to see everything, and go everywhere and the German shells and bullets, or gas, did not stop them.

As the guests of the imperial government the party were allowed to travel in a military ship. The landed at a Channel port, and immediately had a taste of war, when they were taken to an instruction camp and given a lesson in the use of gas masks and made to march through chambers filled with German poison gases. There were no casualties, but later incidents up the line proved how necessary was the experience.

Said the lady: "When there is a canon at the reading desk, a big gun in the pulpit; when the bishop is charging the clergy, the choir murdering an anthem or the organist trying to drown the choir."

MOVING PICTURE STARS
ARE KEPT ON THE HUSTLE

Are Marshalled Out Doors to Take Advantage of the Sun and Natures Beauties ---Their Existence not the Sinecure that is Generally Supposed---Have to get up at Six O'clock When on Location Work.

Who wouldn't be a picture actress at this period of the year? It must be glorious to romp and frolic in the country and to loiter lazily around the beaches. For such is the call of the camera at present. Directors are marshalling their players outdoors to take advantage of the sun and natures beauties. Now is the time for extroverts and work in the open is quite the fad. Except on rare occasions studio work occurs only when the skies are cloudy or rain drives the players under cover. And the fabulous pay is so alluring. Under such agreeable circumstances, who indeed wouldn't be a picture actress?

But their existence is not the sinecure it seems to the outsider, and one who has observed them closely soon realizes this. The writer found it out when he visited the eastern studios to study these celebrities in their lair. Most of the time they were nowhere to be found. They were out on "locations."

Efficiency System in Vogue

It is the custom at all well regulated studios, especially where the efficiency system is the vogue, for all players however important, to ascertain from the director what time to report for duty the following morning before departing from the studio after a day's work. This dignitary always sets out to complete a feature in record breaking time without injury to the play, that he may please his employers by fattening their pay envelopes.

"Please be ready at 8 o'clock to go out on a location if necessary." The director smiles into the weary eyes of his star. He may have been cross all day, but now he has altered his disposition completely. "Don't forget to wear the same costume."

The company might have just returned to the studio from an exterior set where the players labored all day. It might be 8 o'clock in the evening or later. For the sun sets quite late these days since the extra hour daylight scheme went into force, and furthermore the "locations" are not always close to the studio.

It Means Arising at 6 A. M.

To the player the director's instructions mean that she must rise about 6 o'clock the next morning to be ready for the director at 8. She has still to remove her makeup and change her clothes before she can depart for home and dinner. After dinner her time is all her own to do with as she chooses and she retires early that she might appear at the studio refreshed from her previous day's labors. The camera is cruel and exacting and registers sunken eyes and haggard faces as loyally as bright and radiant countenances and the pretty actress realizes that only too well. So she passes the remainder of the day in sleep.

And so they work day after day, sometimes remaining at the studio late into the night to finish a picture expected for a certain release date.

Mae Marsh Works Till 2 A. M.

"Why, last week we were here until 2 o'clock one morning," Mae Marsh told the writer.

Sometimes between pictures the players have a week or two to "rest up." But there is considerable to do. They must visit the stores and costumers for suitable raiment to be worn in their next picture. They have their part to study and prepare themselves generally for the succeeding play that it might be produced without interruption once it is started.

Yes, it is a wonderful life. Ask any actress. Nothing to do but work from early morning until twilight, and some times deep into the night. As for recreation she will wait until the weekend, when she indulges to her heart's content. Saturday her labors cease at noon and she need not report again at the studio until Monday at 8 o'clock in the morning when her routine starts all over again.

RAILWAY SHOPS DESTROYED

Quebec, July 31.—The workshops of the Quebec Railway Company at St. Ann de Beupre were practically destroyed by fire last night. The blaze broke out in the old shops and soon spread to the round house, which was also destroyed. Three freight cars and a passenger car were burned completely to their trucks. Fortunately the strong wind which was blowing did not carry the flames in the direction of the village; otherwise a serious conflagration might have resulted.
