GLORY FOR ALL.

As the Ogdensburg, N. Y., News puts it, there is glory enough for all the Allied nations in the great victory won over the Teutons. Certainly no one nation can absorb all the glory. Here is the way the News puts it:

"Those who are inclined to say, 'if the United States had not come in when it did,' etc., may well remember a large number of vital 'ifs' which bear on the participation of the other Allied nations.

"If Belgium had not blocked the first swift rush into France, if the French had not fought like tigers from September, 1914, for four long years, if the British had not held like bulldogs as long—what would have come?

"If the Italian army had not stiffened and stood twice at the Piave, if the Serbians had not delivered their desperate blow, if the Allied forces had not fought like supermen since last July—what would exist today?

"Last, and perhaps as a single factor, if the British navy had not controlled the seas, confined the German fleet and cut off that country's commerce and food, would we be celebrating victory now?

"It has been a war of magnificent things—heroic deeds and heroic sacrifices—by every nation and every force engaged. Without the participation of any one of the active Allies victory might still be far away.

When the history of the world war is written it will show that every nation who fought on the Allied side contributed to its success. The greatest honor belongs to the incomparable soldiers of France, together with the indomitable British army and navy. But Belgium, Serbia, Italy, America, Greece, Japan—yes, even Russia and Roumania in earlier days—all played vital and important parts in bringing about final victory. There is glory—glory enough—for all."

We may add to this that "if" Russia had not made the formidable rush into East Prussia early in the war, the French might not have won the first battle of the Marne, and if the great drives of Grand Duke Nicholas and Gen. Brussiloff had not been made into Galicia, Italy might have been overwhelmed by Austria. There is certainly plenty of glory for all.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

People should turn out now and do their Christmas shopping, and whether they live in the city or twenty-five or fifty miles from it, they will find it greatly to their advantage to patronize the merchants of Fredericton. The Fredericton business houses carry large and varied stocks, they are prepared to handle a big Christmas trade and they are deserving of it. Our country friends find it profitable to come to Fredericton when they have produce to sell, and they will find it equally profitable to visit the city when they have anything to buy. The interests of the city people are closely interwoven with those of the inhabitants of the surrounding country, and they should work together in closest union and cooperation. Those who have in the past been in the habit of making all or part of their Christmas purchases in departmental stores in Upper Canada should turn over a new leaf this year, and switch their trade to our own business men. We guarantee that they will get a square deal. The great war having ended, the time is opportune to start a get-together movement in the matter of city and country trade.

THE FLU EPIDEMIC.

In a statement issued by the Public Health Department at Washington, it is said that "A recrudescence of the disease (Influenza) now is occurring in many communities throughout the country, but this is believed to be sporadic, and not to indicate a general renewal of severe epidemic conditions."

But the Public Health authorities should take into consideration the fact that after the influenza made its appearance in Europe last summer, inflicted widespread suffering and death, and then measurably subsided, it came up again and has been during the past month or more apparently as severe as it was in the first stage of the visitation.

It will be well, therefore, in all communities to note vigilantly every sign or symptom of a possible return of the malady this winter, and not to be too easy-going in treating such a sign or symptom as merely "sporadic."

St. John Telegraph: Commissioner McQueen has adjourned his inquiry until Thursday to accommodate counsel for Hon. J. A. Murray, but will permit no delay beyond that day. It is fitting that Mr. Murray should have the protection of counsel but not that delay should unduly postpone the business of tracing to the various recipients the large sums which were distributed during the regime which used to boast that it had "nothing to fear or to conceal." The painful efforts at concealment on the part of several conspicuous figures of the opposition party for months past have been more noticeable than successful. Hon. Mr. Murray, we feel sure, has nothing to conceal. He will go joyfully to the witness stand and peel the last vestige of mystery from the patriotic potato funds with frankness and despatch.

Tonight! At Opera House hear Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wright on the aims and achievements of the Associated Kin. Chancellor Jones will preside.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Only ten more shopping days.

Ten little shopping days—hope they'll all be fine! Spent the whole day hoping—now there are nine.

If you would be classed as a good fellow, all you have to do is applaud your fool friends.

The end of the war seems to have proved that one ace is better than a handful of kings.

No matter how rich or famous a man may become, his wife never allows him to forget that she "knew him when."

We should be grateful not only for the good that we have, but also for the bad that we haven't.

A man talks knowingly of the inconsistency of women, and then proceeds to get mad if one of them proves he is right.

A woman always wants the last word, but a man is quite satisfied to take the first kiss and call it "beginners' luck."

No doubt some of those former kinglets now wish that they had learned a trade. Vocational education is likely to come in handy for anyone.

Men speak and write by their ideas and ideals and live by their prejudices—which were the ideals of their ancestors. As prejudices change, we see the world progressing.

The Associated Kin idea has spread to Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland and the United States and has its members in practically all of the entente nations.

Hay Situation

Although the roads are in good condition for hauling hay is not coming into the city in any large quantities. The outside demand is not so large as it has been, the main drawback being the inability to get the hay pressed. Interval hay is selling for $15 to $17 per ton. Good highland loose hay is selling for $18 to $20 a ton.

Will Exhibit Here.

Mr. A. H. Moore, a progressive farmer of Scotch Lake, was among the visitors to the city today. Mr. Moore expressed himself pleased over the announcement that a provincial poultry show is to be held here in January, and expressed his intention of making an exhibit. Mr. Moore thinks that the time has come when farmers should devote more attention to poultry raising.

At the Associated Kin meeting tonight in the Opera House Mrs. Frank Good and Miss Hazel McBain are the soloists.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 12.—Speaking before the Commercial Club last night, Lord Charnwood, English writer and lecturer, urged that Americans refrain from forming premature opinions of peace issues before the meeting of the peace conference. He said it was his opinion that German propaganda is used in an effort to divide the United States over issues of peace.

A COMPLAINT

To the Editor of the Daily Mail: Sir,—A news item in your issue of the 9th inst. does a returned soldier an injustice. It is true that the returned man was arrested and detained over night in the cells, but your informant neglected to mention that when arrested this young man produced his discharge papers, and though satisfactory he was locked up just the same.

It is just possible that if some of these over-zealous stay-at-home soldiers were relegated to civil life, those who have returned from the hardships of war would not be subjected to these insults.

Yours, etc.,

JUSTICE.

Marysville, Dec. 12, 1918.

Associated Kin is no misnomer—it has a record and a future.

So little a thing
as a defective chimney may start a fire that will leave you homeless.

Fire insurance is a fine thing but it is not an excuse for carelessness. In these days of high prices and labor scarcity a home is worth a whole lot more than what it is insured for.
