PUSH POULTRY TO AID WAR

"Sell No Hens Until After the Laying Season," Says the Hoover Man.

(Boston Record.)

In an effort to produce the greatest possible volume of food from America's resources, W. F. Priebe, head of the poultry division of the food administration, expects to start a campaign among American farmers and poultry men to sell no hens until after the laying season.

"In many sections of the country," Priebe says, "because of high poultry prices that normally come in late winter, farmers sell their hens just before the beginning of the spring laying season. In our present need for increased foodstuffs, it would be a great mistake for this to occur this spring. A good hen will contribute approximately her own weight in eggs and still be worth as much for food herself as before she began laying."

Slants of Humor

THE SOLDIER.

The soldier is a lucky dog.
In some ways, sure enough;
Although it may be said with truth,
His average life is tough.
Collectors cannot bother him,
He stands where danger thrills;
The only place where one is safe
From gentlemen with bills.
He cannot run a touring car
And all his earnings blow
For gas and tires and other things
To make the darn thing go.
No talky gent can come along
And sell the soldier man
A set of books he doesn't want
On the instalment plan.
He has no furnace fire to feed,
He does not pawn his soul
Once in two weeks, as we do here,
To buy a ton of coal.

THE LONG, LONG TRAIL.

A philosopher says if the ladies will only think back, they will be able to remember when girls took only what complexion they needed on their faces and left the rest at home. But what lady wants to think back as far as that?

ON THE WATER WAGON, NOW.

By the looks of things at present, "How Dry I Am," is going to become the national anthem very soon.

PROVIDENTIAL.

Mr. Younghusband reached home late for dinner.

"I got caught for speeding on the way home," he explained. "Have to appear tomorrow and get ten dollars or fifteen days."

His wife fervently clapped two blistered little hands.

"What a providence!" she cried. "Take the fifteen days, John! The cook has just left!"

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

The old reliable remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, sore throat and sprains.

Best Liniment Made

Mr. A. E. LAUNDY, EDMONTON, writes: "I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best liniment made."

Minard's Liniment always gives satisfaction. For any ache or pain. It gives instant relief.

While the tendency of such a movement normally would be to increase sharply the prices of poultry on the city markets, under the present conditions it probably would result in little more than decreasing the supply of fresh fowls. For chickens already have reached apparently about the peak of prices that the consumer will pay.

NO TRICK TO LIFT A CORN RIGHT OUT

Says there is no excuse for cutting corns and inviting lockjaw.

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can harmlessly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This simple drug, while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heel footwear is putting a corn on practically every woman's foot.

raising is a business, the flocks have been largely depleted by recent sales. The high prices for fowls and the high prices of feed have made it more profitable to sell the fowls than to hold them for producing eggs later.

BAKING POWDER
CONTAINS NO ALUM

The fact that baking powder is now so universally used, and has been found superior in every way, recommends itself to the attention of all housewives, and particularly in view of the saving effected on account of the large increase in the cost of cream of tartar.
