

NERVE A BIG FACTOR AMONG FLYING MEN

Airmen Love the Sensations of Flight—Revel in Fierce Combat Like Knights of Old.

New York Sun.
London, Oct. 15.—Throughout the whole career of a British airman the vital factor of temperament is taken into consideration. Long ago it was realized that flying called for special qualities and that the human element had to be considered.

This is doubly true of war flying. From the training ground to the active service aerodrome the personality of each individual British airman is closely watched and is carefully considered.

Before he begins his instructions he is given one or more trips in a machine to introduce him to the new element in order that he may see how he likes it. If he cannot stand it, which is very unusual, he need never fly again.

Throughout the period of instruction he is allowed to take more and more control, in accordance with his abilities and inclinations, and so feelings of nervousness are gradually eliminated. The pupil is not allowed to fly alone until he is absolutely qualified to do so. Before his first flight alone he flies the machine many times with the instructor in the second seat ready to take control if necessary.

Trick Flying Forbidden.
When the pupil feels confident that he can fly and the instructor is satisfied that he is a safe pilot he is allowed to fly alone. Trick flying by inexperienced pilots is forbidden and is punished.

During his practice flying the pilot is under observation and is not allowed to fly too long at a stretch or too often in one day.

In this way confidence is built up and the airman becomes as much at home in the air as on the ground. If he is not well he is not allowed to fly. If he has a slight accident which is likely to shake his nerve he is given a rest. If he should chance to be injured he is given a long period of convalescence in order that his nerves may settle down and he may be quite fit to fly again.

Rest Required.
As soon as a pilot on active service has "flown himself out" and is tired and has lost his keenness he is sent home for a long rest. If at any time he does not feel like flying he is given a holiday.

Thus is the very best got out of the airman. They are keen enough not to want a few non-flying days until they feel they absolutely must have rest; at the same time they know that the medical officer will order it the moment it is necessary.

But if there is strain there is also exhilaration. Airmen love the sensation of flying and love to feel a machine obeying their slightest touch. The fighting airman, moreover, enjoys the fierce delights of single combat. Fighting in the air is sporting and often chivalrous. Airmen more than any other modern soldiers can enjoy the feelings which animated Coeur de Lion and the Black Prince.

"Not one barrel of potatoes should be bought from a Liberal," was what a Carleton county patriot wrote to Premier Flemming at the time the old provincial government was looking for 100,000 bushels to be sent overseas "as a token of our loyalty to the mother land." Mr. Flemming, who was then resting under a very dark cloud awaiting the report of a royal commission which had probed the timber land steal, promptly forwarded the letter to Brother Daggett for the consideration of the Agricultural Department. The fact that there was a loss of some $36,000 on the transaction would indicate that the advice of the Carleton County patriot was not altogether ignored.

NO ANNOUNCEMENT SO FAR OF PROBABLE TERMS OF ARMISTICE

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Andrew Bonar Law, government spokesman in the House of Commons, made the announcement in Parliament today that it would be very unwise for any of the Allied governments to make any statement on the terms likely to be imposed upon Germany before an armistice was granted.

Great Britain's reply to Turkey, the Evening News says it understands, will be a demand for unconditional surrender. The Turks will be required to negotiate an armistice with Gen. Allenby, commander of the British forces in Palestine and Syria.

Foolish people climb up on their hobbies, or their dignity, or vanity, and sit there expecting the world to salute as it passes by—and then wonder why they're lonely.

A real curiosity is a woman without any.

MONTREAL MAN IN JAIL FOR STABBING SON

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Charged with Stabbing his son Emile, aged 30 Arthur Duval, 59 years of age, 1159 Ontario Street East, was arrested last night.

Emile was trying to save his younger brother from a beating by his father and had stepped between the two, telling his father that he had beaten the boy enough. The father turned on his oldest son, who, however, was too strong for him, pushed him away and started to take the boy out of the room. There upon, it is alleged, the father picked up a large carving knife and stabbed Emile in the back. The latter disarmed his father and later lodged a complaint at the police station.

MR. CARVELL SPEAKS PLAINLY TO C. P. R. MEN

Tells Calgary Strikers it is the Duty of Every Man to Help Win When Nation is at War.

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 15.—"When the country is at war, I look upon it as the duty of every man to do what he can to help to win it, and as a member of the government that was formed for the express purpose of conscripting the flower of this country and sending them to the front for $1.10 a day, with very good prospects of being killed, naturally I have not much sympathy with men who refuse to work for $4 or $5 a day at home."

This was the remark of the Hon. Frank B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, on his arrival in Calgary, when referring to the strike of C. P. R. employees.

He stated that it would appear that the labor unions in Calgary had overlooked a third measure that might be adopted.

"What is the third method?" he was asked.

"Khaki," promptly replied the minister.

Mr. Carvell stated that the necessary machinery would be found for putting this into effect if the men persisted to strike.

Referring to the Mennonite question, Mr. Carvell stated that in his opinion no man who was fit to bear arms was entitled to exemption in times like these.

"It may require an amendment to the M. S. A.," he said, "and if so I have no hesitation in saying that I will vote for an amendment with that object in view."

Share And Share Alike

Amsterdam, Oct. 15.—The experience of an Austrian banker with Bolshevik methods, when he made a business trip to East Russia recently, is the talk of the Vienna bourse, advices received here state.

The banker was arrested and interned. Disguised as a peasant he escaped with 10,000 rubles in his possession. He fell in with a company of Bolsheviks who, despite his protests took and divided the contents of his pockets.

"Share and share alike is the rule here," they explained, handing him back his "share" which was only a tenth of his capital.

Soon, though, his fortunes took a turn for the better. He fell in with another band which added to its ranks a ragged individual from whose pockets 100,000 rubles was extracted. This sum was pooled and carefully divided and the banker received a fat share. Eventually he returned to Vienna with 20,000 roubles.

"There are two sides to communism," he now says.

EXPLOSION IN AN ONTARIO MUNITION PLANT

TNT and Gun Cotton Plants Destroyed—Very Few Injured and Only One Killed.

(Canadian Press direct wire.)
Trenton, Ont., Oct. 15.—Mayor Ireland issued the following statement last night:

"Only one man is known to have been killed in the explosion which occurred at the British Explosives, Ltd., this evening. Reports received from the local hospitals indicate that but very few people were injured. All the windows in the town were smashed by concussion.

"The explosion completely destroyed the TNT and gun cotton plants. About 2,500 people are employed by the company, and most of these will be thrown out of work. The town authorities at Kingston offered to despatch to our assistance a special train of supplies, with doctors and nurses on board, but we found they were quite unnecessary, as the local hospital is able to care for all the injured.

Armed to the teeth

"Troops who travel alongside of them have their work cut out. General Currie seems to carry light railways in his pocket, and if the Canadians have to stop anywhere for a day or two, transportation facilities spring up behind them as if by magic. Germans will go miles out of their way to avoid the Canucks."

CHARLES H. GRASTY, in N.Y. Times, Sept. 2, 1918.

The Canadian Army is fully equipped for War.

Nothing that could help our army in their task is lacking. If this were not so, their great initiative and courage would avail them nothing. For this is "a mechanical war."

The Canadian Army as it stands to-day is a marvel of organization. In guns, in ammunition, in transport, in equipment for the grim work of war—for efficiency of man and beast—it lacks nothing. If a railroad is needed—one is immediately available. When the Canadian Army starts to move—the movement is accomplished with certainty and rapidity. When it attacks—there is no lack of ammunition. It has gas masks and aeroplanes of the latest and most efficient types.

The Canadian Army is a highly disciplined, efficient, thoroughly equipped engine of war. It unquestionably is—as the Hun very well knows—"armed to the teeth."

Canada's war loans have made the glory of the Canadian Army possible—they have been Victory Loans in fact, as well as in name.

It is unthinkable, is it not, that our men should lack any implement of war that money will buy!

It would be a greater shame than the mind cares to dwell on, that our men should suffer death or disaster—or just fall short of complete Victory, because we now hold back the money necessary to maintain their full fighting efficiency.

The money for the needs of our army will be provided by Canada's Victory Loan, 1918.

Canadians at home will see to that

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada
