

HOW FORMER COMMANDER IN CHIEF MET HIS DEATH

Noted Russian General Put to Death by Infuriated Bolsheviks---Petrograd Correspondent of The Matin Describes the Crime of Which He was an Eye Witness The General was Pulled From a Train and Bayoneted.

Paris, January 24. — A vivid picture of the circumstances of the murder, by infuriated Bolsheviks, of General Dukhonin, formerly commander-in-chief of the Russian army, is given by the Petrograd correspondent of the Matin, who apparently was an eye-witness of the tragedy. According to his story Ensign Krylenko, the Bolshevik commander-in-chief, endeavored to save General Dukhonin from the mob but his efforts were unavailing and the Russian commander was struck down by a sailor and then run through with a dozen bayonets.

The murder took place after the Bolsheviks had captured the headquarters of the Russian army at Mohilev and followed General Dukhonin's refusal to request the German army officials to enter into an armistice with the Bolsheviks. The general was on board a train when the mob surrounded him. According to the Matin's correspondent the general appeared at the window of his railway carriage. "Throw us your epaulettes!" shrieked the soldiers, "or we'll kill you," and they shouldered their rifles. Krylenko begged the general to give way to them, but Dukhonin refused. "They can go to the deuce," he

MRS. MANTLE TELLS WHY SHE USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Results, She States, Were So Good That She Recommends Them to All Sufferers From Kidney Disease.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 28. (Special).—Mrs. Mantle, an estimable lady living at 117 King street, east, this city, is always ready to tell of the benefit she has received from using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Yes, Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a wonderful lot of good," Mrs. Mantle told an interviewer. "For three years I was in a worn-out condition, often having to lay off for a day or two.

"I suffered from drowsiness and sharp pains across my back. I had headaches, and was subject to neuralgia and rheumatism.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills helped me so much that I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a kidney remedy. Making the kidneys healthy enables them to strain all the impurities out of the blood. That means pure blood and good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills are recommended by thousands of women who were once run down and worn out.

cried, "Let them kill me!" A bullet whistled by, breaking the window, then a second. General Odintzoff went up to Dukhonin and gently took off his epaulettes. They were thrown to the mob and quickly torn to pieces and for a moment he thought he was saved. Then a handful of sailors jumped into the carriage. They seized Dukhonin by the shoulders and pushed him to the end of the coach and then onto the platform. Krylenko ran after them. The general's appearance caused a great uproar.

"Kill him outright!" they cried. "Kerensky and Korniloff got off. Men like him must be killed at once."

As the mob pushed closer and closer upon the general, Krylenko stormed and shouted, but no one took any

WHY SOLDIERS SHOULD LEARN SECOND VERSE

Private Peat Tells How Huns Sang First Verse of "O Canada," and What Happened.

(Boston Sunday Post.)

Who is Private Peat?

He is the author of one of the most widely read books of the war, and a lecturer. He was in Boston a few days ago. He used to be just a cheery little Canadian tea and coffee salesman in Edmonton, Alberta.

He has had first-hand experience for he enlisted in Edmonton in August, 1914, and went to France as one of the first Canadian contingent. He survived the Germans' first gas attack at Ypres, but "got his" over a year later.

He and his wife, whose romantic story must be well known to newspaper readers by this time, are lecturing together for the United States authorities.

The Best Thing to Learn.

When asked what he thought was notice. With a single blow the general was struck down by a tall sailor from the rebel cruiser Aurora. Dukhonin got on his feet again once, his face streaming with blood. He tried to speak but a dozen bayonets were run through him, and then blows and kicks were rained upon his body.

The soldiers fought for his clothing, tearing it from him. The corpse, stripped bare, was set up against a railway carriage and the mob, laughing like madmen, started a gruesome game. Sailors, Red Guards and soldiers made snow and mud balls and flung them at the generals' head.

"I could no longer look on," writes the Matin's correspondent, "and dashed back into the carriage, where I found Krylenko sitting in a corner, his face in his hands. When he lifted his head I saw he was pale as death. 'Look at them,' he said in a whisper. 'There's no holding them in now. I and all the rest of us must come to the same end.'" the most important thing an American soldier should learn before going over to France, Private Peat quickly replied: "The second verse of the Star Spangled Banner."

It was not the expected answer, and he was asked to explain.

"So you won't be starting continually impromptu fights and getting into needless trouble. We of Canada don't know the second verse of 'O Canada' any better than you do the second verse of the 'Star Spangled Banner.' The Germans know this too. So when things are rather dull, we Canadians would often hear Fritz singing our national anthem. When we first heard it on Dominion Day, July 1, 1915, we thought it a compliment. We didn't know the Hun so well, then; but when Fritz had finished the first verse he called out to us across the barbed wire of No Man's Land:

"Now, Canuck, you sing the second verse."

"Well—we couldn't sing the second verse when we didn't know it. So we relied with a chorus of bombs, and it started too much trouble. I hope the camp singing your soldiers are having will keep your boys from falling into this little trap of our enemy across the way."

What to Send.

"And what should we send to the soldiers?" he was asked.

"The two things above all," he said, "are candy and cigarettes. Ordinary cigarettes are good enough as long as there are plenty of them. They are the only thing that is soothing to outraged nerves under fire, and so easily are they lit, puffed and thrown away that there is little chance of a boy becoming a cigarette fiend in after years just because he used smokes in the trenches.

"Jam is good to send him if you don't send him plum and apple. If you do and he ever gets back alive he will surely take your life for the indiscretion. Fine fruit jam he does not get, but plum and dapple is so regular he uses it to build his trenches with or to shoot at Fritz. It would be as bad as sending him corned beef and hard tack.

"Socks, home-made and pure wool, should be sent once a week and three-finger mittens quite often.

"But the best thing of all that you can send him is a letter, for above all things this is what he wants most, and one that can't be bought at any price."

A CREAMY LOTION MADE WITH LEMONS

Prepare a quarter pint at about the cost of a small jar of common cold cream.

When this home-made lemon lotion is gently massaged into the face, neck, hands and arms daily, the skin naturally should become soft, clear and white, and the complexion dainty and attractive.

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with white orchard this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quarter pint of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh and pure for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it naturally should help to whiten, clear, smoothen and beautify.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons. In this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion ladies can easily prepare and have an inexpensive toilet aid which perfectly satisfies their natural desire for a beautiful soft skin.
