NO USE CRYING PEACE WHEN THERE IS NO PEACE

Important Speech by Lloyd-George in the British House--Impossible to Make a Statement as to the Decision of the Su- preme War Council--No Evidence That the Teutons are Willing to Arrange a Just and Reasonable Peace.

London, Feb. 12. — Addressing the House of Commons today Premier Lloyd-George said he had read with profound disappointment the replies given to President Wilson and to the declarations of the British Government by Count Hertling, the German chancellor and Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister. The premier added it was perfectly true that as regarded the tone there was a great deal of difference between the two speeches and he wished he could believe there was a difference in substance.

Mr. Lloyd-George said the government stood by the considered declaration made at the meetings with the trade union representatives early this year.

The government, the premier added, did not recede in the least from its war aims as they had been stated. It was no use, he said, crying peace when there was no peace.

Regarding the supreme war council, Mr. Lloyd-George said it was impossible to make a statement as to the decisions it reached without giving information to the enemy.

Mr. Lloyd-George said he would like any member to point out anything in the speeches of Count Czernin or Count Von Hertling which could possibly be regarded as proof that the Central Powers were prepared to make peace on terms which could be regarded as just and reasonable.

Germany's action regarding Russia the premier pointed out, proved that her declaration regarding no annexations had no real meaning. No answer had been regarding Belgium that could be regarded as satisfactory, he declared, no answer had been given regarding Poland, or France with her legitimate claims for the restoration of her lost provinces not, a word had been said about the men of the Italian race and tongue now under the Austrian yoke.

Until there was some better proof than had been provided in any of the speeches to which he referred that the Central Powers were prepared to consider the aims and ideals for which the Allies were fighting, said Mr. Lloyd-George, it would be the nation's regrettable duty to go on and make preparations necessary in order to establish international right.

It was true that he stated in November, he continued, that it was not intended that the supreme war council should have executive powers but since then Russia had gone out of the war and a number of German divisions had been brought to the western front from the east. The situation had become very much more menacing, and the Allies had met at Versailles to consider the best methods of meeting that menace.

"DAMAGED GOODS"

Will be Shown at the Gem
Four Days, Commencing
Next Monday

The widely advertised seven reel picture "Damaged Goods" which has probably drawn more criticism and commendation than any other film ever exhibited in America, will open a four days' engagement in the Gem Theatre next Monday, February 18th. This most remarkable picture is at present being shown in St. John and at the opening thousands were unable to gain admittance. It has been endorsed by censors, clergy, doctors, editors and many other prominent citizens. The censors permit the showing of "Damaged Goods" to segregated audiences only.

Ready to Quit, if Necessary.

The premier said that if the House of Commons was not satisfied with the conduct of the war, the only way was to change the government. Field Marshal Haig and General Robertson he added were present at the session of the supreme war council and approved its decision.

The premier requested the House not to press the government regarding the arrangements made for countering the coming blow of the Germans.

The premier declared that Germany's violation of her engagement not to remove troops from the eastern front had to be borne in mind when there was any discussion of terms of peace, because it had a real bearing upon guarantees. The situation had been changed completely by those reinforcements, he asserted.

NUPTIALS OF LOCAL OFFICER AT TORONTO

(Toronto Daily News, Feb. 6)
A pretty house wedding took place this afternoon when Miss Gladys, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. MacLean 159 Robert St. was married to Captain Theodore H. Rand McNally, son of Mrs. James G. McNally of Fredericton, N. B.

The Rev. John McNichol of Knox Church officiated. Owing to the absence of the bride's brother, Lieut. Norman A. MacLean, who is overseas with the MacLean Highlanders of America, only a few immediate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The groom is a returned man, having gone overseas with the 12th Battalion in a New Brunswick contingent. He was wounded and is now associated with K. Unit Canadian Military Hospitals Commission. The house was lovely for the event with quantities of pink and white carnations, draped flags also being used as decoration.

The bride's gown was of ivory crepe meteor trimmed with seed pearls. Her tulle veil was caught with a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried an Empire shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her cousin Miss Evelyn Adam was bridesmaid and wore maize pussy willow silk with picture hat of black and pink georgette. She carried violets. Mr. Donald Haldemane of Johnstown, Penn., was best man.

Mrs. Neil MacLean who played the wedding music wore rose silk with a French hat of rose and black. Her flowers were orchids. Miss Elsie Adam, who sang "The Crown" was wearing pink georgette with lace hat and mauve orchids.

At the reception after the ceremony the bride's mother wore Alice blue crepe de chene and violets.

The bride's table was lovely with pink and white sweet peas, pink tulle and pink shaded candles. Capt. and Mrs. McNally left later for New York and Boston.

They will reside in Fredericton. Among the guests for the wedding were Miss May MacLean of Urt, Sask. and Miss Julia Hurst of Toledo, Ohio.
