

SUPREME COURT RESUMED THIS MORNING

APPEAL IN ST. JOHN ACCIDENT CASE

Company Appeals From Verdict for $2,500—Chancery Division Appeal This Afternoon.

The Appeal Division Supreme Court of New Brunswick resumed this morning. One case was argued before the court rose for recess. It was Fulton vs. Fegles-Bellows Engineering company, Ltd. For the defendant F. P. Taylor, K. C., moved to set aside verdict for plaintiff and enter verdict for defendant or for reduction of damages. G. H. V. Belyea K. C., contra Court considers.

St. John Case

This case arose out of an accident during the construction of conveyors for a grain elevator being built by the defendant company on Water Street St. John, November 15th, 1917. A train passing beneath the bents being constructed for the conveyor struck a guy rope and caused the bent on which F. Woodford Fulton and others were working, to fall. Fulton was injured and a fellow workman named Fairbrother was killed. Fulton obtained a verdict for $2,500 from which the company is appealing.

Other Appeals

The chancery division appeal Lemon vs. Charlton et al will next be heard. It will be followed by hearing in the case of Clements & Peabody vs. Rickard.

FIRST BREEDERS' CONSIGNMENT SALE BEGINS

GOOD VARIETY OF STOCK IS OFFERED

Beginning Expected to Produce Good Results in the Future—Cattle and Sheep Sold.

The Breeders' Consignment Sale of Livestock which it is hoped to make an annual event, began this morning at the Exhibition Building and is being continued this afternoon. It is not likely that all the stock will be disposed of today and a committee will decide whether or not the sale will continue tomorrow. The selling was under the charge of Messrs E. H. Allen and Alex. Brewer auctioneers. In some classes the bidding was not very lively but the buyers were very representative.

At noon lunch was served by the ladies of the local Red Cross in one of the rooms near that part of the building used as a ring.

Some of the Sales

A Holstein bull offered by Harding Bros. of Welsford was bid in at $510 and a Durham bull offered by R. A. Snowball of Chatham was bid in at $155. A herd of Cheviot sheep imported by the Department of Agriculture consisting of a ram and nine ewes was bid by George King of Sussex for $615.

Lively Scrap Last Night

The corner of York and King streets has been the seat of some pretty lively happenings lately, another spectacular fist encounter being held in that region last evening. The participants were both infuriated and an interesting combat ensued. It was closely watched and a few wagers were thrown out but like every other good thing it had to come to a finish soon with the downfall of one of the interested parties.

MAJ. J. D. RIVET, NATIVE OF CITY, KILLED IN WAR

BELONGED TO LOWELL ; 8 YEARS IN REGULARS

Son of Late Prof. F. P. Rivet, Former Professor of Modern Language at U. N. B.

Word was received by relatives in this city last evening that Major J. Douglas Rivet, U. S. A. had been killed in action following the American attack at the St. Mihiel salient. Major Rivet was the son of the late Prof. F. P. Rivet Professor of Modern languages at the U. N. B. between the years 1872 and 1885. He was a nephew of the late J. R. Howie Jr. of this city. He was born in this city and left here at an early age when his parents moved to Lowell. His mother was Miss Dora Howie of Fredericton.

Young Officer's Career

The Courier-Citizen of Lowell, Mass. of the 14th inst. has the following: Maj. J. Douglas Rivet of the 61st infantry was killed in France on Oct. 16th, according to a telegram received last evening by his mother, Mrs. F. P. Rivet, of 271 Beacon street. From what could be gathered last night death came to the gallant officer during the severe actions carried on by the American army in wiping out the St. Mihiel salient. The telegram announcing the sad news came to Mrs. Rivet from Maj. Rivet's wife in Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago where with her two children she made her home.

Crossed in January

Maj. Rivet had been "across" since last January. From letters received by relatives here, it was known that he had frequently been in action. In all of these however, he expressed most wonderful spirit and was always most anxious to get up to the front where there was action. The chances of death coming to him if they had occurred to him, had not in the slightest acted as a deterrent from going where many dangers lay. In the last letter received by his mother and dated Oct. 8th he spoke briefly about entering a most important action and it is believed that he referred to the coming drive on St. Mihiel which occurred shortly after that date.

In Regular Army

Maj. J. Douglas Rivet was appointed to the regular army from the civilian list about eight years ago. Prior to that time he had been very prominent in local military affairs. He had always showed a decided leaning towards military life, this having been marked when he was a member of the high school regiment. Following graduation from the schools here he entered the employ of the Boston &
