Prevented by "Fruit-a-tives" The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

58 MAISONNEUVE ST., HULL, QUE.

For years, I suffered with these dreaded diseases, trying all kinds of treatments until I was told I was incurable.

One day a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. To my surprise, I found this medicine gave immediate relief, and in a short time I was all right again."

Stumped

"Now, Lieutenant Tompkins," said the general, "you have the battalion in quarter column, facing south—how would you get it into line, in the quickest possible way, facing north-east?"

"Well sir, said the Lieutenant, after a moment's fruitless consideration, "do you know, that's what I've often wondered."

Seems To

"You can't fool all the people all the time."

"Seems to last a long time in Germany, though."

Rare Fun

"Nerissa is musical, but something of a flirt."

"She's combining the two just now."

"How so?"

"Playing a lieut."

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

A GOOD USE COULD BE MADE OF LABELS

"The lady next-door has borrowed my sewing machine to make a Spanish costume for her daughter to wear in an entertainment to be given for the Red Cross" said the landlady of the Budd boarding house.

"Why a Spanish costume?" asked the critical boarder. "Spain is no ally of ours."

"They don't have to be allies," snapped the argumentative boarder.

"They couldn't have one of those things without Spanish dancers anyway," declared the practical boarder.

"Spanish dancers are necessary because everybody knows what they are. All you need is a couple of castanets and a shawl and a la bologna, and there you are. The trouble with most things is that no one knows what anything represents. Every time you make it plain what you represent you make a hit."

"Take for instance the painting, 'September Morn'. It was universally admired because everyone knew what it represented. Most paintings have no tags to show what they stand for. If 'September Morn' had been labeled simply 'a study', as such pictures usually are, no one could have known any more about the picture after reading the catalogue than he knew before. He would have been aware it wasn't an exhibition of fall styles in wearing apparel, of course, but that's all he would have known."

"Baseball players wear the names of their teams on their breasts and jockeys and bicycle riders and runners wear numbers to show who they are, but a dancer in a carnival might be most anything. It would simplify matters very much if the dancers wore something printed on a ribbon it would add greatly to the spectators' appreciation. Supposing imitators didn't tell you whom or what they were imitating. How much chance would they stand of having their imitations appreciated?"

"Old Man Shakespeare had the right idea. He used to put out a sign reading 'Woods' when he wanted people to know the scene was in a forest."

"But the moving pictures have the properly improved and modernized scheme. They have an advantage over Shakespeare, because they can tell you in plain printed and beautiful lettered words that the man is dead when it is desirable for the audience to have a definite understanding on that point, whereas in a play you never know for sure whether the man is dead or not. He is liable to have a sharp recovery, such as the funny paper hero has between bumps and falls, knockouts and annihilations."

To which relentless logic no one ventured any reply.

AUSTRIANS DISCOURAGED

Geneva, June 19.—News from the Swiss frontier indicates that the Austro-Hungarians are surprised and discouraged at the sudden check of the great offensive against Italy, where much greater gains of territory and booty were expected.

Being Intense

To be intense is just immense,
So take the cue.
You do not have to toil and slave
As others do.
One girl must scrub; from stove and tub
She's no defence.
Her sister, though, won't cook or sew,
She is intense.
