

THE FLU AS A JOKE NOT TO BE SNEEZED AT

(Chicago News.)

"Influenza is too serious to joke about," said the landlady to her boarders.

"I see that a donkey died of it the other day," said the matter-of-fact boarder. "He sneezed himself to death."

"Still, as something to joke about, influenza is not to be sneezed at," declared the reckless boarder.

"I opened the door, and in flew Enza," chuckled the facetious boarder and added, "I haven't heard that one for years."

"I admit that we ought to make the best of it and get a joke out of it if we can," said the argumentative boarder, "but it should be a joke and not plain imbecility like that last remark."

"There is one thing sure," declared the worldly wise boarder. "The possession of influenza certainly gives a person a decided advantage over other people who haven't. For instance I was out on my beat selling bonds the other day, and I knocked at the door of a house where I had reason to expect that everybody would stay quiet, hoping I would go away. Instead, to my surprise, they opened wide the door and invited me in. As soon as I got inside I found that the whole family had the flu, and that was why they had let me in."

"People with the flu are very hospitable. They invite collectors right in. They have less to fear from collectors than collectors have to fear from them. All they have to fear is that the collector might get some money out of them, while the collector has the flu to look out for. These people invite the collector in and give him grandfather's chair and a drink of cold water. Then the family begins to sneeze as loud as they can. 'What's the matter? Spanish flu?' inquires the collector facetiously. 'Yes, that's what it is,' replies the lady of the house."

"Really!" gasps the collector, reaching for his hat. "How do you know that's what it is?"

"We have had the doctor seven times," replies the lady of the house, and the collector beats it away from there like a bunch of Huns without any armistice to protect them from tanks and Yanks and things."

"Then there is the man of Spanish fluency who boards a street car. A big boob with bulky bundles won't give him room for his knees, and also pokes him with sharp pointed things insufficiently wrapped. Presently, a 'ker-choo!' The man with the flu turns loose his magic incantation and presto! the man with the bundles jumps and gives him plenty of room, if he doesn't get off and walk."

"In fact everybody on the car is liable to get off and walk when urged by such relentless threats—everybody but the conductor, who has to stay."

"It would be more sensible to eject the fluent and let the well people ride" observed the practical boarder, "which would be a safeguard against crowds, which should not be allowed anywhere while the epidemic is on."

"Excepting at the drug stores," added the argumentative boarder.

Sat Up in Bed

To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired, weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N. B., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit straight up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box, I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MUTINY OF HUN SAILORS

London, Nov. 7.—Members of the crew of the battleship Kaiser, at Kiel, have mutinied and hoisted the red flag. Officers attempting to defend the German flag were overpowered, and two of them, including the commander, were killed. A number of others were wounded, according to the Cologne Gazette.

Three companies of infantry were sent from Kiel to restore order. They immediately joined the revolution, and a fourth company were disarmed.

During the night hussars sent to Kiel from Wandsbeck were encountered outside of Kiel by sailors armed with machine guns, and forced to turn back.

Machine guns are mounted in various parts of the city. An Amsterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says that two battleships, the Kaiser and the Schleswig-Holstein, were seized by the mutineers, and that twenty officers, including two captains, were killed.

It is reported that the garrison refused to march to the harbor, and that the soldiers there threatened to blow up battleships attacked.

They are defending the ships and refuse to return to their duties until a peace is signed.

LIVELY TIMES IN BERLIN.

Stockholm, Nov. 7.—Continuous demonstrations are taking place in Berlin, according to the Social Demokrat. Twenty thousand deserters from the army are marching through the streets of the capital.

"I will never abandon my sorely tried people," said the kaiser. That recalls Klamity Bonner's remark. "I never desert a friend while I'm in trouble."

And now the docs say it was not influenza at all, but old-fashioned pneumonia. This recalls the doc who could not cure a burn, so he cut the burn and then treated the cut, because he was "death on cuts."

"Bring My Daddy Home Soon"

IN thousands of Canadian homes to-night, the prayers of little children will ask Heavenly protection for fathers and brothers "over there."

If you could enter one such home, and hear a child lisp that plea for daddy's safe return, there would come into your life a newer and more personal realization of what war means.

You who have no kin in France—

Surely you have eyes to see and hearts

big enough to understand the obligation that rests on you.

Surely you will provide the money—all the money you can—to bring about that Victory which will answer the prayers of our soldiers' little ones.

How much of your earnings will you put into Canada's Victory Bonds?

It is more than a duty—it is a privilege—to help provide everything that enables our brave Canadians to march on to Victory—to bring the struggle to an early end—that the prayers of their little ones may be answered and

"daddy brought home soon."

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.
