INTERVENTION IN RUSSIA URGENTLY RECOMMENDED

The Matter Discussed by the Inter-Allied War Council--Reports Now in the Hands of President Wilson --- If He Does Not Concur Great Britain, Japan and Italy Will Go it Alone

Washington, July 6—Immediate intervention in Russia, both military and economic, has been urgently recommended by the inter-Allied war council and General Foch. The council report is in the hands of President Wilson—has been since July 3—and Allied diplomats believe he will concur in it.

Should he decline, the possibility is held out today that Great Britain, Italy and Japan may "go it alone." Upon the recommendation of the war council, already British, French Japanese—and American—marines have landed at Vladivostok it developed today.

Ostensibly they went ashore following the battle between the Bolsheviks and Czechoslovaks Sunday, to protect the Allied consulates. With them are 2,500 Dalmatian troops, formerly prisoners of war in Russia now under the Italian flag, awaiting orders from General Foch.

This Allied gathering has provoked the greatest enthusiasm in Eastern Siberia, Russian townspeople, in and near Vladivostok, decorated their houses with Allied flags and staged enthusiastic celebrations, the cables say.

This reception, coupled with demands of the anti-Bolshevik factions, and the inter-Allied council, led diplomats here today to take the position that America must yield.

Allies Decide Intervention
"The majority has decided," one official said, "and president Wilson has its decision. He may come in or stay out. But the majority must rule."

Details of the Bolshevik-Czech battle at Vladivostok indicate that the defeat of the Reds was decisive. A fortnight ago the Czechs, acting at the behest of the Allies, issued an ultimatum to the Red Guards to cease arming German prisoners of war. The demand was unheeded. At 10.30 o'clock of the morning of June 30, the Czechs attacked. Six hundred Bolsheviki sailors immediately surrendered. The rest of the garrison took refuge in a block house. Two hours' bombardment forced them to capitulate, those not surrendering, retreating to the westward along the Trans-Siberian railroad.

Most of those who escaped are believed to have been Germans. According to advices received here, both Great Britain and France expect to land several thousand troops in Siberia. Italy for the present will be represented by the Dalmatians, while the Czechoslovaks will represent the Balkans.

Japan and China's Part

What part Japan and China will play has not been learned. This will be announced after the president gives his decision as to the attitude of the United States. Diplomatic officials, however, are inclined to believe that Japan's first army of 500,000, and China's potential army of nearly a million, will be used to the best advantage. Diplomats here, not advised of the inter-Allied council's plans, now see why President Wilson failed to mention Russia in his Mount Vernon speech. Knowing that the address would be prepared before the arrival of the council's decision, friends of the president urged him to say nothing that would in any way commit this country to a definite policy.

CITY OF VIENNA WENT ASHORE IN THICK FOG

Had on Board 14,000 Canadian Troops for Overseas, All of Whom Were Saved.

A Canadian Atlantic Port, July 7—When the Hall liner, City of Vienna, with 1,400 Canadian troops consisting of various drafts and details on board, ran ashore on a dangerous rock near here in a thick fog, it was feared at first that there might be a considerable loss of life. There was a heavy on-shore swell and the steamer, exposed to the full force of every wave was in danger, it was thought of speedily breaking up; but the troops and men have all been safely landed and the ship herself still holds together so that there is even a possibility of saving her.

According to the story told by the rescued men it was about seven o'clock in the morning that the City of Vienna endeavoring to make harbor struck the ledge. The engines were reversed without avail and S.O.S. calls were also sent out. Guns, too, were fired and could be heard on shore, a mile or more from the rock. Fishermen soon located the ship and returned to shore to report her exact position.

Orders were given by the port authorities for the boats from near-by life-saving stations to proceed to the City of Vienna, and take off as many men as the boats would accommodate and patrol craft were despatched from the harbor to the scene. So rough was the sea, that one harbor tug was forced to return to port, with water almost up to the fires in her engine room. But the life-boats and fishing craft, manned by crews well acquainted with the numerous reefs in those waters were able to go alongside the steamer and by 11 o'clock that morning had landed a large number of soldiers on the rock shore. The sea was still running high and the work of rescue was carried out with great difficulty.

Taken Off in Life Boats

A steamer which was not many miles away when the City of Vienna struck, had responded to her S.O.S. signals, but on account of the thick fog, had been unable to come close to the stranded ship. This steamer's life boats were accordingly lowered and the sailors transferred 700 of the soldiers from the City of Vienna to their own ship. The steamer could accommodate no more and accordingly brought these 700 to port. Meanwhile despite the increasing sea, the fishermen and life saving crews had been landing boat load after boat load. A patrol schooner also took off about seventy-five men and brought them to port. Other boats visited the different fishing harbors, collecting numbers of the soldiers rescued from the ship and landing them here. The remainder of the men landed on the shore marched along the country roads to this port. The steamer's crew was also brought to port.
