OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

ICE CREAM DAYS.

A Magic Word with Children, and it is Good for Them.

Remember when you were a kiddie, the thrill of anticipation that always came at the magic words "Ice cream for dinner today!"

Sometimes the surprise would be peach ice cream, and oh the joy of finding these delicious slices of frozen fruit in the creamy mass. Or perhaps strawberry was the surprise. Remember the delight of bringing up a plump red strawberry—hard and cold—on the tip of your spoon?

But every flavor was your favorite in those days, vanilla, lemon, orange, but perhaps more especially chocolate—so long as it was ice cream.

Today perhaps you have grown more finicky. You demand more than coldness and flavor. Ice cream, to meet your approval, must be rich in quality and fine in texture.

Don't forget, though, that your children today think of ice cream with the same thrill that you had years ago. Give it to them often. It is good for them.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

In mixing flour for gravy, use a silver fork and the gravy will never be lumpy.

Keep your spices in glass jars, and a glance will tell you the contents, even if not labeled.

Black and white cotton goods should be soaked in a solution of salt water to prevent the black from running.

Thin brown toasted bread with stewed tomatoes, sprinkled with grated cheese, then browned in the oven, is a savory dish.

Fish will crisp and brown if it is thoroughly dried on both sides, then dipped in fine cornmeal and plunged into boiling fat.

Before using mutton dripping as a shortening, beat with spoonful of baking powder and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice.

To prevent the juice of berry pie from boiling out, grease the edge of the pie with oleomargarine.

Use for refrigerator dishes wooden or pasteboard plates such as bakers deliver pies upon. They are inexpensive, do not break, and can be bent a little to make more room.

THE LEANING STATUE FALLS

(Boston Record.)

Vandalism or accident? What does it matter? The famous leaning Virgin atop the Albert Cathedral, now behind the German lines, has fallen at last. When the church was partially wrecked by German fire, the statue leaned far over the side of the ruined tower, but held fast. There quickly grew up a belief that when it fell the war would end.

It has fallen. The war is not at an end.

Is it possible that the Germans shot it down with a mind to play upon the popular belief? Or did it come accidentally within the line of fire?

We may never know. The incident falls well enough within the scheme of things German. With an unerring aim the German brain has sought out marks most holy, centres of human sympathy most sensitive, and has destroyed and defiled what it could.

Rheims is a ruin, Louvain is burned and sacked, and the comrade of the Hun, the Turk, has slaughtered Christian Armenians by the hundreds of thousands, all for the glorification of Prussian purpose.

Near Prohibition.

"You don't mean to say, sah, that Col. Carter, of Kentucky, has joined the ranks of prohibition?"

"Yes, sah. I saw him only the other day taking his whiskey with water."

War times are teaching us that there is no economy in buying the cheapest goods nor the fancy high priced ones. We are depending on the solid values of the good standard brands—the brands that were good in peace time and have doubly proved their worth in war time.

Red Rose Tea—costing today only about 1/4 of a cent per cup—is one of the solid war time values that anyone can afford—and that everyone will enjoy.
