PRESIDENT REPLIES TO VON HERTLING

(Canadian Press direct wire.)
Washington, Feb. 11. — President Wilson, addressing congress in joint session today, replied to the recent speeches by German Chancellor Von Hertling and the Austrian foreign minister, Count Czernin.

"Chancellor Von Hertling's statement," the president said, "was very vague and confusing and led to practically no conclusion. It was very different in tone from Count Czernin's" which the president said had a very friendly tone. The president reiterated that the United States had no desire to interfere in foreign affairs, and "would disdain to take advantage of any internal weakness or disorder to impose her own will upon another people."

All the way through the president drew a parallel between the pronouncement of Chancellor Von Hertling and Foreign Minister Czernin and his hearers drew that the president decidedly considered Czernin's utterances as being more amiable than Hertling's.

"Czernin seems to see the fundamental elements of peace with clear eyes and does not seek to obscure them," said the president.

"Count Czernin," he continued, "probably would have gone much farther had it not been for the embarrassment of Austria's alliances and of her followdependence upon Germany."

War of Emancipation.

Again the president reiterated that the United States was in the war and would put forth its whole strength "in this war of emancipation."

The test of whether it is possible for the belligerents to go on comparing views, the president said was simple and obvious:

SUFFERED SINCE HE WAS TWELVE YEARS OLD

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Him Well and Strong.

Arthur Rousseau Tells How He Found Health and Strength After Ten Years of Pain and Sickness.
Fisher Branch, Man., Feb. 11. (Special.)

"I suffered from kidney trouble from the time I was twelve years old. Now I am in the best of health and I owe it to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Three speaker was Mr. Arthur Rousseau, well known and highly respected here. Today at twenty-two years of age he is in robust health. No one would think that for ten years he had been a victim of kidney disease. But such is the case.

"I suffered from headaches and neuralgia," he states. "I had a very sore back, my appetite was fitful and I was troubled with sleeplessness. I was always tired and nervous, I felt heavy and sleepy after meals while heart flutterings made me uneasy."

"I took just six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills to make me sound and healthy all over."

When the kidneys are right they strain all the impurities out of the blood and the whole body is right. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the kidneys right.

1. Each part of the final settlement must be based upon essential justice to bring a permanent peace.

2. Peoples and provinces were not to bartered about like cattle to establish a balance of powers.

3. Territorial settlements must be for the benefit of the people concerned and no mere adjustment of rival states' claims.

4. Well defined national aspiration must be considered all possible satisfaction.

"A general peace upon such foundations can be discussed," said the president, "until such a peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on." These general principles, the president said, have been accepted by everyone except the military autocrats in Germany.

Czernin's Reply.

In his speech President Wilson said Count Czernin's reply, "which is directed chiefly to my own address of January 8th, is utter in a very friendly tone."

"He finds in my statement a sufficiently encouraging approach to the views of his own government to justify him in believing that it furnishes basis for a more detailed discussion of purposes by the two governments. He is represented to have intimated that the views he was expressing had been communicated to me beforehand and that I was aware of them at the time he was uttering them; but this I am sure he had misunderstood. I had received no intimation of what he intended to say. There was of course no reason why he should communicate privately with me. I am quite content to be one of his public audiences."

"Count Von Hertling's reply is, I must say, very vague and very confusing. It is full of equivocal phrases and leads it is not clear where. But it is certainly in a very different tone from that of Count Czernin and apparently of an opposite purpose. It confirms, I am sorry to say, rather than removes, the unfortunate impression made by what we had learned of the conferences at Brest-Litovsk. His discussion and acceptance of our general principles leads him to no practical conclusions. He refuses to apply them to the substantive items which must constitute the body of any final settlement. He is jealous of interstate action or of international conference. He mixes the principle of public diplomacy, but he appears to insist that it be confined at any rate in this case, to generalities and that the several particular questions of territory and sovereignty, these questions upon whose settlement must depend the acceptance of peace by the twenty-three states now engaged in the war, must be discussed and settled not in general council but severally by the nations most immediately concerned by interest or neighborhood. He agrees that the seas should be free, but looks askance at any limitation that freedom by international action in the interest of the common order. He would without reserve be glad to see economic barriers removed between nation and nation for that could in no way impede the ambitions of the military party with whom he seems constrained to keep on terms. Neither does he raise objection to a limitation of armaments. That matter will be settled of itself, he thinks, by the economic conditions which must follow the war. But the German colonies, he demands, must be returned without debate. He will discuss with no one but the representatives of Russia what disposition shall be made of the peoples and the lands of the Baltic provinces; with no one but the government of France the 'conditions' under which French territory shall be evacuated and only with Austria what shall be done with Poland. In the determination of all questions affecting the Balkan states he refers, as I understand him, to Austria and Turkey; and with regard to the agreements to be entered into concerning the non-Turkish peoples of the present Ottoman empire, to the Turkish authorities themselves."
