TIE CAN TO KAMERAD PUP

(Chicago News)

German "kamerad" propaganda fails when used against American boys in the trenches. The following excerpt from a letter written by Kernie Denton, company A, 7th engineers, to his mother at Hammond, Ind., graphically tells how the enemy received a tin can on its boomerang propaganda:

"The Germans tied a little white dog to a small balloon and sent it over to our trenches. Tied to the dog was a note written in English reading 'Come on over; we treat prisoners fine.'

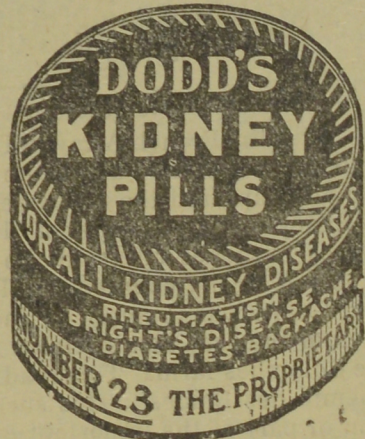

"The Yanks tied a tin can to the dog's tail and sent it back when the wind changed. There was a note in German accompanying the pup this time. It read:

"Come over and get us; see how we will treat you."

A PATRIOTIC MIRACLE IN BELGIUM

The means by which Belgian soldiers' relatives living in occupied Belgium are informed about them, are still a mystery for many. Every day, nevertheless, here and there, relatives are surprised by the news that reaches them. Such recently was a case in Molls, province of Antwerp. At dawn many of the citizens found on their doorstep or in their letter-box letters or postcards bringing to them news from the front. Soon the whole place was gossiping about the strange fact, each one feeling the need of telling his neighbor about it. Everybody was happy. If something is needed to inspire the horrors of war, it is such conditions as those prevailing in occupied Belgium, where secret information alone can tell relatives about their kinsmen's situation always threatened by death as they are.

Why is it that a man always gives better advice than he gets?

AN AMERICAN WOMAN WHO HELPS THE SOLDIERS

Mother's Corner is Well Known to American Boys in London---Trousers Mended While They Wait and No Charge Made---Mrs. Gleason Has Large Correspondence

(New York Sun)

London, Sept. 16—"All aboard for the sight seeing tour," yelled the guide in the front door of Eagle Hut this morning. The boy across the table jumped and reached for his hat. "Hold that fellow a minute till I get a pin," cried the youngster. But a pin wouldn't do. There was a five inch rent in his trousers below the shadow of his tunic.

The youngster was rushed over to "Mother's Corner" and she sewed the trousers while the soldier stood at attention. A "Y" secretary held the rubberneck wagon.

It was nothing unusual. Some of the boys laughed, but many of them had seen the woman mend clothes on a soldier before. That is what she does day in and day out. Her name is Mrs. Arthur Gleason, wife of the American writer. She works without pay. She has been as near the front as a "Y" woman is permitted to go. She worked for soldiers and civilians in Belgium. She has had the mumps with soldiers in France. She knows the boys.

After getting the American boy on his way to the wagon she reached for the rip in the coat of a Canadian.

Was From Aurora, Ill.

"I'd like to see somebody from home once," remarked the lad. "I stayed around here all day yesterday looking for some one."

"Where is your home?" asked Mrs. Gleason.

"Aurora, Illinois."

The boy's name is Ralph Frederick and his father is a signalman on the Burlington Railroad there. The boy went to Canada to get into the war early. He has been up front as a motor truck driver. He stayed for an hour asking questions about Chicago, Aurora, Elgin and towns around.

When Mrs. Gleason had finished with Ralph she sewed on a button for I. C. Long of Gainesville, Tex. Then she chatted with F. Dean McClusky, from Carlinville, Ill. Later she visited with two boys one from the State of Washington and another from South Carolina, who were busy with new puzzles she had just purchased. A little later she went away with a boy who wanted her to buy him some linen for his sweetheart and his mother. Four other boys who said they wanted something, but didn't know what went along to get her advice in making the purchases.

Has Large Correspondence

That took her lunch hour. When she returned several had taken possession of the cozy corner to go to sleep. While on the shopping tour she had found for her charges some silver of antique pattern in a second hand place which was purchased at a reasonable price.

Many of the boys ask Mrs. Gleason to write to them, and at present she is a week behind in her correspondence.

"You see," she explained, "the boys are 3,000 miles away from home. It takes a long time for them to get a reply to a letter, even if their relatives write promptly, and some of them don't. The boys like to have somebody care whether they are sick or well. A boy will often put on a perfectly indifferent front among his fellows, but every one wants a letter from home. Often they get into trouble in writing to their best girls and come to me for advice on how to straighten it out. A boy will do that readily if you appeal to him as human and as one who plays on the square.

Mrs. Gleason on Boys

"A boy is just like a chicken. He tries his best to find out what you want him to do and then does something else. So I try my best to go along with him. He does not want to be told anything. He wants to be pleased, amused, entertained and helped in a material way. He does not want anything that resembles charity.

"The American lad is full of eagerness to get at the line. The Canadian or Australian is different. He has been away from friends and relatives for four years. He knows of the front. Perhaps he has a girl back home waiting for him. If he is married his children are four years older than when he saw them last. If he was in college he thinks that perhaps his study days are over. He has a different view of things. So you see I have plenty to do."

Over Mrs. Gleason's easy bench is a large sign reading, "All kinds of mending, but no one can spend a cent in this corner."

WIFE AND LITTLE BOY

SAVED BY

DR. FOWLER'S

EXTRACT OF

WILD STRAWBERRY

BOTH HAD DYSENTERY

Dysentery comes on very suddenly and is one of the worst and most dangerous of all bowel troubles. The pains in the bowels become intense, the discharges occur with great rapidity, and are very often accompanied by blood. Unless these discharges are checked the sufferer becomes weak and languid, and very often death ensues. There is only one remedy to use in all cases of dysentery or any other looseness of the bowels, and that is "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry."

It will cure where all others fail. It has been on the market for 73 years. Don't accept a cheap substitute and thus endanger your health.

Mr. W. J. Metcalfe, Tofield, Alta., writes: "I wish to state that we have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry with good results. I will say that it can't be beat. It saved my wife and little boy, last summer, when they were very low with dysentery. We always have a bottle of it in the house, and would not be without it if it cost five dollars a bottle."

The genuine "Dr. Fowler's" is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price 35c.

STATISTICS OF ACREAGE AND LIVE STOCK

Provincial Depts. of Agriculture and Education Co-operated with Federal Authorities.

The compilation of Agricultural Statistics in New Brunswick this year was undertaken by the Statistical Branch, Ottawa and the Departments of Agriculture and Education of the Province.

Ohio Man Is Modern Wizard

Discovers magic ether compound which loosens a corn so it lifts right out

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati genius, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without a particle of pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw that nearly killed you before, says from the suicidal habit of cutting and infection heretofore resulting corns.
