be composed of a civilian physician or surgeon of wide experience, an overseas member of the C. E. F. with actual experience of war conditions and cases, and experienced representative of the C. A. M. C. It is also recommended that it should be impressed by those in authority upon the examining medical boards, before whom members appear for examination for the determination of disability, that every facility should be granted a soldier to give an account of the facts of his condition from his point of view and that the pension form now in use should be altered to make provision for a record of such statement to be made over to the soldier, as well as a statement as to the number of doctors who were present and made the examination, should be signed by him.

It is further recommended that the system formerly in vogue be restored whereby the examining medical boards reported to the commission their estimate of the percentage of disability as based upon the disability table of the commission; and in the event of the estimate of the medical officers of the commission differing more than ten per cent. from the estimate of the examining boards, that the examining boards be advised of such difference and required to furnish reasons to the commission for their conclusion.

The committee recommends that, as early as possible next session, another special committee of the House should be named to give further consideration to such problems as may arise, and to prepare and submit to the House consideration an act dealing with pensions for members of the C. E. F.

A HEALTHY WAR.

"This is a very healthy war," said a man who knows from official figures. "In proportion to the number of men engaged, never in the whole history of the world have so few been killed. And in addition to that, we lose practically none from contagious diseases, while epidemics are unknown."

THE CONSERVATION RAGE.

About two months ago we read The warning: "Save your old Overcoats, because they will be Scarce next year."

We didn't actually believe that There would ever be a scarcity of Old overcoats. Old overcoats are The most plentiful thing in the World. However, we took the Advice home with us and began Saving our old overcoats. We had two of them to save. Yesterday we hauled them out to Take a squint at them. We found the moths didn't take The advice as we did. Moths don't Believe what they see in the papers. If we hadn't tried to save our old Overcoats we would have had Them yet, but, as it is, each of them Has been submerined in several Important places. What's the use Of trying to play the game According to experts?

GUNLESS SOLDIERS.

Tales from the trenches are more or less alike, through the influence of Friend Censor, but here is one that is different, true and funny. It came in a letter straight from the scene of action.

An officer in a motor transport division and for some unknown reason was given command of a squad of 60 newly arrived men with instructions to drill them in the manual. One of the group could not get the hang of holding a gun.

Finally he asked the officer, "Do we have to carry guns, sir?"

The officer explained several minutes explaining with proper expletives that soldiers usually carry guns. "Yes, sir," answered the recruit, who has listened patiently to the admirable flow of language, "but you see we fellows were sent over here as experienced mail clerks to work in the postal department."

Eight of the olive trees in the historic Garden of Olives, are believed to be more than 1,000 years old.

ONLY FREIGHT TO BE HANDLED AT MONTREAL

Montreal, May 21.—The port of Montreal this season is to be devoted solely to freight traffic, all passenger liners formerly using the St. Lawrence being diverted to other ports.

The decision to make Montreal a centre for freight exportation was taken after careful consideration of the shipping question by the Admiralty, whose experts advised them that greater economy in shipping, and especially of the freight carrying class of vessels to this port, would be effected by the concentration.

A feature of the shipment of horses overseas this year is the employment of soldiers to tend the animals instead of cattlemen. Upon arrival in Europe these soldiers are drafted to their regular units. The expense of returning large numbers of cattlemen is thus saved.

Saints of Humor

EMPHATIC LANGUAGE.

The poet views the dandelion and sings a tuneful rhyme; He seems to think the dandelion is something rare and prime. He says much of the dandelion in runes and roundelays But that is not a circumstance to what the farmer says.

UNREASONABLE.

"What an unreasonable gang I have following me around" declared the German general. "promised them a Christmas dinner in Paris." "Well, general?" "Now they want to know where they are to eat this week."

A WELL IN THE DESERT.

We regret having spoken harshly about the dandelions springing up in the lawn, as we have been informed that they can be made into a wine which has high medicinal qualities under prohibition, says the Grand Rapids Express. Now watch the value of property take a boost in the assessors' minds, as this weed proves of benefit.

SOME THRIFTY PEOPLE.

One man drives a horse to save gasoline. Another fellow bought an automobile to save corn and oats and hay. Still another walks to save both gasoline and horse feed; and his neighbor rides in a street car to save shoe leather.

Mr. W. H. McQuade of St. John, is at the Queen.
