

ACUTE NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

All Treatments Proved Useless Until He Tried "FRUIT-A-LIVES".

MR. JAS. S. DELGATY.

R.R. No. 4, Gilbert Plains, Man. "In the year 1910, I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form; was reduced in weight from 170 pounds to 115 pounds.

The doctors had no hope of my recovery, and every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take "Fruit-a-lives".

I began to mend almost at once; and after using this fruit medicine for 3 or 4 months, I was back to my normal state of health.

I never had such good health for twenty years as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of "Fruit-a-lives" in the house".

JAS. S. DELGATY.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

OPPOSITION CRITICISM.

The black shadows of gloom and despair which have been hanging like a pall over the opposition benches in the Legislature were not lifted or cleared away by the speech of Opposition Leader Murray in his contribution to the debate on the Address. The Opposition leader was not happy the fighting line by opposing the Centenary of misrule by his friends and former colleagues seemed to haunt him, and his observations, although graceful and pleasing at times, were more than usually ineffective. His speech was entirely lacking in pep, and seemed to depress rather than enliven his followers.

Mr. Murray expressed approval of some parts of the speech, paid tributes to the late Governor Ganong and several officials who had passed away or retired from office, and endorsed the remarks made by the seceder of the Address concerning Chief Justice Hazen. In touching upon the efforts of the Government to encourage greater production last year, he expressed disapproval of the methods employed by the Agricultural Department and contended that crops had been a failure. Whether the methods employed by the Minister of Agriculture were right or wrong, they were a decided improvement on the methods, or lack of methods, employed by the old government. Mr. Murray was himself head of the Agricultural Department during the first two and a half years of the war, and what did he do to promote increased production of farm products? Nothing—absolutely nothing. Both he and his deputy were otherwise too busily in his criticism; the ghost of nine engaged to devise and carry out plans for increasing the production of food-stuffs. This being so, it does not lie in his mouth to criticize the highly commendable efforts which have been put forth by his successor to stimulate and encourage greater production on the part of the farmers.

In referring to the proposed new Highway Act, Mr. Murray made the charge that there had been waste and extravagance in the expenditure of road moneys during the past year. When a charge of this kind was made under the old government it was usually supported by the proofs. A precedent was thus established and if Mr. Murray expects the public to take him seriously he must base his charges on something more than idle rumors.

The worthy leader of the Opposition is not a hunter of big game, but he seems to have picked up information from some source to the effect that the game law is being violated. The information which he claims to be possessed of may or may not be founded on fact, but if it is, it would not be a matter of great surprise, when it is considered that under the administration which was removed from office a year ago game law enforcement had degenerated into a miserable farce.

If Mr. Murray is possessed of information to the effect that game is being illegally killed, it is his duty to hand the same over to the Chief Game Warden, and if the latter fails to take action, then it will be time enough to lay the matter before the Legislature.

The Opposition leader in discussing Valley Railway matters, expressed the hope that the legislation to be brought down with a view of compelling restitution from those who had defrauded the province would be broad enough to include other railways. In this connection he mentioned the Central Railway, but forgot to include the famous Southampton Railway, an enterprise carried out under the old government and in which one of his legislative supporters had a personal interest.

If there was wrongdoing in connection with the Central Railway, the government of which Mr. Murray was a member should have brought the offending parties to book. Having failed to take action, it is certainly late in the day now for Mr. Murray to display an interest in the matter.

While Mr. Murray has his shortcomings, he is undoubtedly a good Opposition leader, and there will be no desire on the part of the people to have him removed from that important and responsible position. The only cause for regret is that he did not, when in power, practice what he now preaches.

Halifax Chronicle: One of the returned soldiers complains that the upper deck of the ship was reserved for nurses and officers, and that privates venturing on that hallowed ground were ordered off. This is one of many complaints, says the Toronto Star, and it shows that it is the practice to make social distinctions between officers and men, and treat the former as a privileged class. It is about time to put an end to this hoary tradition of the superiority of one man over another. All faced the same dangers. All should be treated alike. The space on the ship should be allotted so as to give the greatest possible room and comfort to all.

The annual meeting of the Farmers' and Dairymen's Association, which opens in this city tomorrow, promises to be the most important gathering of the kind in years. The farmers of New Brunswick are patriotic, hard working citizens, who are nobly doing their part towards winning the great war. Much depends upon their efforts during the coming season, and it is important that they should be given every encouragement.

Four American soldiers who were caught asleep while doing sentry duty in the first line trenches on the western front, have been sentenced to be shot, but General Pershing, although he has authority to carry out the sentences, has referred their cases to the War Department for review.
