NEW BRUNSWICK IN AT CAPTURE OF CAMBRAI

2nd Canadian Division Handled in Magnificent Manner —Bridgeheads on the Scheldt Taken.

With the Canadian Forces Oct. 16 (By J. F. B. Livesay, Canadian Press Correspondent) Dramatic circumstances attending the capture of Cambrai by troops of the third Canadian division last week obscured for the time being the brilliant achievements at the same time of the Canadian second division.

The problem presented was twofold. The first was to capture the bridgeheads on the Scheldt Canal northeast of Cambrai and thence push south so as to close in on the city by making contact with the British troops. The second was to establish for this movement, which was wedge-like in character, sufficient flank defence. The entire operation was not only a complete success, but it reaped the expected fortified triangle formed by the Seneffe and the Scheldt.

No guides were used, regimental officers working entirely by compass. To one division, on our right, was entrusted the seizure of bridgeheads and the drive southward through the eastern outskirts of Cambrai. The kick-off was at half past one in the morning of October 9. There was no barrage, but only crashes of artillery on the enemy front line and also on his points of concentration. Our front extended from east of Tilloy to west of Blecourt and on our right the enemy lay before us in sunken roads west of Raoulles and in front of Morenchies Wood. Before midnight our patrols reported he was pushing forward in strength into No Man's Land. Our artillery therefore, concentrated on this point for an hour and a half, forcing him to fall back to the sunken roads, where at the zero hour our crash caught him unprepared inflicting heavy loss.

After ten minutes the infantry went forward with the New Brunswickers on the right and Nova Scotians on the left supported by French Canadians and a Montreal battalion in reserve. Parties were thrust out to capture bridges, the most important being the still intact crossings at Pont d'are which were seized by Nova Scotians.

At half past five all troops were at their final objectives, four thousand yards from the jumping-off point, with patrols pushed out on the road in advance south of the Cambrai-Benain railway. After capturing several hundred prisoners, and many machine guns, all with very light casualties, thus this daringly conceived and brilliantly carried out operation had succeeded before dawn in cutting off the enemy's retreat had he still held in Cambrai in force, while only orders not to enter the city prevented it.

MOVIE PLOTS SHOULD BE IMPROVED

(Chicago News)

"Movie plots is all wrong," said the soda water clerk. "They need to be improved a lot. Especially when a fellow takes his girl to see them. The way it works out a fellow pays down good money to have his girl's bean filled with a lot of crooked ideas. And after she has seen enough movies of life as it isn't she lets the regular young man out of her affections and goes looking for some nut like she saw in the movies. But she'll never find him."

"I had a young lady friend I was keeping company with for a long time and with whom I some day hoped to be husband and wife. For evening entertainment I got into the habit of taking her to the movies. She liked it and I was saving money.

"We had been attending the shows for some time before I noticed the change in her manner. At first she would talk during the performance about little cottages in the outskirts of the city where rent was low and people could raise their own vegetables. She would tell of places where furniture could be bought and paid for as we grew old.

"After one season at the movies her ideas took a leap. After looking at a film like 'The Scion of Wealth' she would say: 'Now, there, Bill, is my ideal. Harvey Van Tassel, the hero, is it.' I would say then. 'Huh, I thought I was your ideal!' She would reply:

"So did I. But that was before I saw life as it really is. Look at Harvey Van Tassel. He started in life as a poor boy and before five reels were over he owned seven shipyards and had a lot of side lines besides. Why can't you do that?"

"I would say: 'Evelyn, that Harvey Van Tassel was just a character in a story. Perhaps he never lived. Charley Schwab lived once. Those kind of things are happening every day. Why should I waste time on a young man who spends all summer mixing nut sundaes while other young men are rising from poverty to riches? In 'For Her Sake' there was a young man who didn't know how to read or write when he first met his lady love and in less than a year, according to the film he knew so much he became a playwright and had a fortune coming in.

Suppose he had taken up your line as a soda water clerk. He would still be shaking soft drinks and his fiancée would never have an auto to ride in."

"No it is a mistake to take a young lady to the show whose ideas are so fickle while the scenario writers are careless."

"Yeah," said the customer.

Why Canada must borrow money to carry on Because Canada has put her hand to the plow and will not turn back:—

—our country is in the war on the side of liberty and justice and will stay in it till complete victory is won and the unspeakable Hun is smashed and beaten to the ground;

—a nation at war must make tremendous expenditures in cash to keep up her armies and supply them with munitions, food and clothing;

—Canada must finance many millions of dollars of export trade in food, munitions and supplies which Britain and our allies must have on credit;

—for these purposes Canada must borrow hundreds of millions of dollars—

And, this money must be borrowed from the people of Canada:—

Therefore, Canada will presently come to her people for a new Victory Loan to carry on.

Canadians will loan the money by again buying Victory Bonds.

The national safety, the national honor and the national well-being require that each and every Canadian shall do his duty by lending to the nation every cent he can spare for this purpose.

Be ready when the call comes to see your country through in its great war work.

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.
