HINDENBURG IS A HATER
OF WOMEN

"Act! Women! I hate them! They have no place in my life! I have other things to think about!"

These were the exact words spoken to me a few years ago by Field Marshal von Hindenburg.

We were seated upon the veranda of Hindenburg's favorite little cafe in Hanover.

Along the street below had passed a shabbily dressed careworn woman whom I recognized as the wife of Hindenburg. My observation that he never took her out gave rise to the cryptic utterance which appears above.

It typifies exactly the attitude of the idol of Germany towards women. Love has played no part in his chequered life. His career can be searched thoroughly, but no trace of those questionable scandals which seem to be part and parcel of the lives of great Huns will be found.

Hindenburg's wooing was prosaic. There was no romance about it. Its counterpart can be found by the thousand in industrial towns and villages all the world over.

When he was 24 years of age Hindenburg's mother died. She was the only woman for whom he ever showed any love. Out of his small pay as an army lieutenant he scraped a few marks weekly and denied himself so that she could have this small allowance.

Morose, silent, selfreliant, intolerant of the favors of other men, he yet felt the need of having somebody to look after the little house his sainted mother had so long occupied. He looked about in Hanover where he then lived, and his choice fell upon Frauline Solf. She was a child of the people, plain, unintelligent and uninteresting. But, as Hindenburg found out she was an excellent housewife.

He put his proposal before her in a businesslike manner. He so far unbent as to dilate upon his prospects and he offered her a home and her keep in return for marriage. She accepted the offer. For the daughter of an agricultural laborer she was doing very well for herself. The whole ceremony, apart from the wedding ring, cost under £2 10s ($12.50). There were no bridesmaids, no honeymoon, and no festivity. Hindenburg's wedding gift to his wife, which I have seen many times, consisted of an illustrated Bible with gilt edges, costing eight marks. The bulk of the £2 10s was spent on a wedding meal.

The marriage life of this strangely assorted pair proceeded without a ripple. Hindenburg never consulted his wife about anything. She was his slave more than his wife, and so long as she prepared his meals and looked after his home he did not trouble her. But she nevertheless lived in secret terror of him; she was afraid to have a thought of her own.

From the moment the kaiser recalled Hindenburg from Hanover, his wife has dropped entirely out of his life as though she never existed. Through his lawyers he now makes her a generous allowance, but he does not care a rap how she spends it.

Was From the Home Nest

"It's a little old world after all," commented an artillery corporal as he accidentally ran into his father, a Y. M. C. A. Secretary, recently a reverend in Columbus, O.

The corporal was in a Y. M. canteen line when he noticed a familiar face behind the counter.

"That bird looks like some one I knew over the States," he said. He certainly did.

GOOD ROADS DELEGATION INTERVIEWS GOVERNMENT

The Dominion Urged to Grant Aid to Highway Construction Through the Provinces—Basis of Cost to be Agreed Upon Some Recommendations Submitted—Sir Thomas White Gives Expression to His Views.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 9—Federal assistance to the construction of good roads was advocated by a wide representative delegation which waited on the Government this morning. The delegation was received by Sir Thomas White Acting Prime Minister, Hon. J. D. Reid, N. W. Rowell, Senator Robertson, F. B. Carvelland J. A. Calder.

Assistance by the Dominion, through the provinces, was urged in preference to the creation of a federal department of highways in view of the necessity of early action and the following resolution, passed by the Directors of the Eastern Ontario Good Roads Association, was submitted to the Government:

1—To communicate with the Governments of the various provinces, respectfully suggesting that they offer to carry out such highways building plans as may be arranged on a basis as to cost between the Dominion and the Provinces to be agreed upon.

2—To communicate with the Government of Canada pointing out the facts, and respectfully suggesting that the Government of Canada favorably consider the advisability of using the road building knowledge and facilities of the provinces by making grants to highways built by the various provinces, in consideration of certain expenditures by the provinces themselves and that the Government of Canada call into council representatives of the various provinces to give effect to so much of this resolution as it is agreeable to do.

Aid by Provinces.

While no specific recommendation was made as to the amount of federal aid there was a suggestion of thirty per cent, by the Dominion, the remaining seventy to be borne by the Province.

Sir Thomas White made a reply, which put the deputation in good humor. While he did not make a definite promise his remarks were so sympathetic that the delegation believed it is only a question of time before the Government will announce a policy of highway construction.

Sir Thomas remarked that there was no question as to the desirability of the construction of good roads in all parts of the Dominion, such a policy, he intimated, could be justified both on the ground of transportation and agriculture. The construction of good roads would undoubtedly lead to increased production and reduce the cost to the farmer of taking his grain to the market.

Sir Thomas White agreeing with the proposal of the delegation that assistance should be given through the provinces, was inclined to the view that roadbuilding is a matter in which the Federal Government is also deeply interested.

T. P. Regan, representing New Brunswick Good Roads Association, pointed out the expenditure made on good roads by states in the American Union. He emphasized the fact that automobilists brought money into a country. They were not a pest as some seemed to think.

HER FIVE CHILDREN Had Whooping Cough
at the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucus and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGaughey, North Battleford, Sask., writes: "I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies, but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Marshal Foch Popular

At the G. H. Y. M. C. A. there is posted a picture of Marshal Foch, photographed in the splendor of his many medals and decorations.

However some observing doughboy fresh from under the eyes of the vigilant marine M. P.'s, has found a flaw in the marshal's make-up and with eager and bold hand has pointed an arrow to the marshal's upper coat pocket which is unbuttoned. At the other end of the arrow he has pencilled in large letters the word "Note."

The Yanks all enjoy the photograph and Marshal Foch has found a new line of popularity, for all the soldiers who turn away from the bulletin board are heard to say something about the marshal and a good soldier.
