PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE.

I sneezed a sneeze into the air.
It fell to earth I know not where.
But keen and strong were the looks of those
In whose vicinity I snoze.
They knew from whom the sneeze had risen,
And could have killed the one who'd snized.

Now that the war is ended, if prices cannot retreat they at least have no excuse for advancing.

LUXEMBURG'S CITY WITH INTERESTING HISTORY

American Troops Now There—Has Successively Been a German, Burgundian, Spanish and French Possession—A Place of Great Natural Beauty and Interest—One of the Most Picturesque Cities on the Continent.

(New York Sun)

The city of Luxembourg through which the American troops passed last Friday after Gen. Pershing had been received in special audience by the Grand Duchess, is the capital of the grand duchy of the same name.

It is romantically situated upon the Alzette, a tributary of the Sure, with steep cliffs hanging over the winding river. The main portion of the city with the palace and public buildings covers a central plateau. The newer portion has sprung up on the south side of the plateau above the valley of the Petrusse. Due to its variety of mountain and valley, gardens and rocks, groups of trees and huge viaducts, it is one of the most picturesque towns of the Continent.

History of Old Town Romantic

The history of the town even as revealed in a bare outline of dates is as romantic as its situation and appearance. It has been in the hands of the Germans, Burgundians, Spaniards and the French.

Fortified in the tenth century with works hewn partly out of solid rock, the town was strengthened for resistance by each succeeding ruler, from Henry IV., Count of Luxembourg, afterward German Emperor as Henry VII., and his son John, the blind King of Bohemia, through the period of its possession by the Burgundians, Spaniards and French. Under the French the celebrated engineer Vauban restored a great part of the fortress.

By the peace of Ryswyck in 1697 Luxembourg came into the hands of the Spaniards again. It passed to the Austrians in 1714. Marshal Bender surrendered it to the French Republicans in 1795. From 1815 to 1866 Luxembourg was a fortress of the German Confederation. The treaty of London condemned the fortification to demolition in 1867, and only a few of the oldest parts standing in the valley of the Alzette and the Petrusse were allowed to remain. The site of the fortifications has been converted into a public park.

Entrance Over Viaducts

Two gigantic viaducts carry the railway and the approach from the railway station to the town. The population has more than doubled since the time the town ceased to be fortified. The bank of the Alzette is crowded by tanneries, breweries and distilleries.

The life of the place centres in the Place d'Armes, where band concerts are given on summer evenings. The municipal banquetting hall is located on this parade platz. Among the notable architectural features is the Gothic Cathedral of Notre Dame, as well as the Palais Grand Ducal, a Renaissance building built in 1580 and rebuilt in 1890. The Church of St. Michael, which in part dates from 1320, contains the tomb of Blind John of Luxembourg, King of Bohemia, slain at Crecy.

Among the places of interest to sightseers is the public park with its bronze statue of the Duchess Amelie of Saxe-Weimar, by Petre, and the view terrace above the Eich road. Excursionists never failed to go to the Bouc, or Boc, a precipitous rock, connected with the upper town by the Pont du Chateau. It has the remains of the old ducal palace and is honeycombed by curious underground fortifications. On the Plateau du Rham, across the valley, are some fortifications known as the "Spanish Towers." The old Vauban barracks contains the National Museum, with collections of antiquities.

The town has two annual fete days. One is in honor of Our Lady of Luxembourg, patroness of the city, and the other is the annual tent fair which is held on Aug. 24. This fair, known as the "Schobermesse," was instituted in 1340.

BANQUET TO HON. BOB ROGERS AT TORONTO

Old Line Tories Do Honor to Manitoba Machine Politician—Getting Tired of Union Govt.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Hon. Robert Rogers, former minister of public works in the Borden government, was given a banquet in the King Edward Hotel here tonight which was attended by about 700 men, presumably all old-time Conservatives. The motive of the banquet had been a question of more or less guesswork on the part of newspapers on both sides of politics and the promoters were not known to the public. The motive was revealed tonight in a small hint from Hon. Robert himself and in a straight declaration from Lieut.-Colonel John A. Currie, M.P. for North Simcoe, and it proved to be the first step in the restoration of the Conservative party as a party independent of the union government.

The organizers of the banquet were not made known, except that they were chiefly Toronto Conservatives, with Lieut.-Colonel Boyd Magee as the chairman of the 'committee' having the matter in hand. Colonel Magee was referred to in a complimentary manner by the chief guest. Colonel Currie was responsible for the statement that every constituency in Ontario was represented at the banquet. He himself wore a committee badge.

One senator, Hon. W. H. Bradbury of Selkirk, Manitoba; seven members of the House of Commons, one ex-M.P., Lieut.-Colonel J. J. Carrick of Port Arthur—three members of Ontario legislature and one M. L. A. from Nova Scotia—Frank Stanfield of Truro—were present, and most of them contributed something to the general praise of Hon. Mr. Rogers, in brief speeches.

It was stated in political circles that the real reason back of Mr. McCurdy's resignation is his disagreement with the government over its policy of abolishing patronage. Sir James Lougheed refused to discuss this allegation.

EX-EMPRESS NOT DOWNHEARTED

London, Nov. 29.—The former Empress of Germany arrived by train on Thursday at Maarsbergen, Holland, and went by automobile to Amerongen where the former Emperor is staying, according to a Rotterdam despatch to the Daily Mirror. The former Empress seemed in high spirits. She was met at the station by the wife of the German minister at The Hague. The former Emperor was not at the station and only a few villagers were about. An automobile load of baggage was taken to the castle, but 20 large trunks were left at the station.

NOT OVER THE TOP.

"Clarence" said the teacher, "where is the north pole?"
"At the top of the map," promptly answered the youthful student.

As a measure of preparedness mothers in the States are learning to "parlez vous" as a safeguard against being caught napping by anybody Johnny may bring back with him from France.
