THRIFT IN CHAIRS

When it first occurred to occidental man that he could not be civilized with out making a practice of sitting in chairs he laid up no little trouble for himself. The Japanese have achieved what we must admit is as high a civilization as ours and they have saved themselves a deal of expense and trouble by getting along entirely without chairs! We are told that bedsteads were first invented in India where nice little household pets in the form of venomous snakes and deadly spiders had less easy access to the sleeper if his mattress was elevated on a wooden frame with legs. The Japanese had no such dangers to fear, hence always got along quite nicely on the floor and likewise saved themselves the expense of bedsteads.

Still many a young housewife going to her first home has regretted that every guest had to be provided with a chair and the question of devising substitutes for chairs in the way of inexpensive window seats and stools is frequently pondered by the hostess who has more friends than resources.

If you can beg, borrow, buy or steal any sort of object that has the shape of a chair and is not actually wobbly it can be made quite presentable by the use of a little cretonne or other upholstery material. Even an old kitchen chair will do. You can restore an old dining room chair that has lost its seat without going to the expense of having it recaned which is considerable at present. To do that first brace the seat frame by lacing it in and out with splints or merely strengthen with strips of ticking or burlap. Then buy thin wood seats such as can be bought in the 5 and 10 cents store and nail them firmly into position. Now over this seat place a thin but soft padding—ordinary cotton batting in a neat case will do. If you want to make the chair really luxurious fasten another cushion across the back. Now paint—with some enamel that harmonizes with the furnishings of the room in which you intend to use this restored chair—the legs of the chair. It is now ready for the cretonne cover. To make this you will need more patience than actual skill as a draftsman, though it need not be a model of perfect fit, either. Cut the cover on generous lines, seam it up and draw it on inside out and then make such alterations as you would in fitting a bodice. Seam it up again according to the alterations try it on again and then stitch it. A chair of this sort would really not be out of place in any, save the most formally furnished room or apartment.

THE SEPARATE SKIRT.

The vogue of the separate skirt! All hail to it! Well has it earned its right to be called fashion's chief ally.

It is difficult to think what women would do without the separate skirt—so important a part of their wardrobe has it become.

There is the velvet skirt, for instance, that does duty under one's fur coat. During the day it is worn with blouses of various sorts and is quite simple despite its beauty of texture. But immediately that twilight comes this same skirt with the addition of a clever blouse of matching velvet, is at once transformed into a charming dinner and theatre frock.

By having perhaps two blouses to match the skirt it would seem that one had two distinct costumes.

CATS NAMED FOR HIM.

They were engaged to be married, and called each other Tom and Fanny. He was telling her how he had always liked the name of Fanny and how it sounded like music in his ear.

"I like the name so much," he added as a sort of clincher to the argument, "that when my sister Clara asked me to name her pea terrier I at once called her Fanny—after you, dearest!"

"But I don't think that was very nice," said the fair girl, edging away from him. "How would you like to have a dog named after you?"

"Why that's nothing!" said Tom airily, as he saw he'd made a mistake. "Half the cats in the country are named after me!"

Now that they have woman suffrage in Germany, the husbands will quit saying "This is my frau, God forgive me," every time they introduce their wives.

FRENCH PEOPLE
GLAD TO BE FREE
ONCE MORE

(Montreal Star)

The following is an extract from a letter sent by Lieut. R. M. Robertson, B. E. F., under date of October, 27, son of R. Robertson, Riverside Drive, Lachine.

"I must tell you about the very unique and interesting experience I had not very long ago. It was after the Huns had evacuated one of the villages. I happened to be the first person to get there. Well, you ought to have seen the reception I got. King George never had a better. I was on the motor cycle and just as I got to the edge of the village an old lady and little girl about 11, stopped me.

"The old lady said to the little girl 'Embrassez Mousieur.' So the little girl gave me a hug and a kiss. Soon a crowd of 50 were around me, all wanting to follow the example of the little girl but I had to draw the line when it came to some of the old men. Everybody had something they wanted to give me: flowers, cigarettes, cigars etc, not to speak of coffee and cognac.

"Well, I wish I could have got pictures of myself sitting on the cycle in the middle of the road with that crowd of excited people all around and all of them trying to talk at once. I had to go through the same performance every 100 yards through the village.

"These French people certainly are glad to be free again and some of them do look as if they had suffered a lot. Nevertheless they are all very cheerful and cannot do enough for us. Maybe they will get over it by and bye.

"How they ever managed to exist I don't know. The other day I was in a store buying some matches, which cost me 8c for a small box, and the lady was telling me that she had to pay 50 francs for a kilo of butter, which works out at $5.00 a pound. Rather expensive, isn't it?"

HER IDEAL MAN FOUND

Winnipeg Telegram.

"My ideal husband," said the girl who had been reading novelettes, "must be a strong, silent man, full of grit, and able to bear the heat and burden of the day without flinching; one who will not hear a word said about me, and will never utter a word against me himself."

"What you want," answered her friend, "is a deaf and dumb coalheaver."

Had Hacking Cough
Couldn't Sleep Nights

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed condition.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the most prompt, pleasant and perfect cough remedy known.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle and I soon got relief and by the time I had taken two bottles my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c. and 50c. a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

We do not always see the faults of others more clearly than our own. We only speak of them more.
