SICK HEADACHES

For Last 10 Years.

Headaches affect all ages and both sexes alike, but in all cases the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, for with the cause removed the headaches vanish for all time.

What is necessary for a permanent cure is something that will go right to the seat of the trouble. For this purpose it is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of all description than Burdock Blood Bitters, acting as it does on every organ of the body to strengthen, purify and regulate the whole system.

Mrs. Flora Hall, Dominion, N. S., writes:—"I have been troubled with sick headaches for the last ten years. I had lost faith in all remedies until recently a friend of mine advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. This I did, and found relief in a very short time. I would now recommend B. B. B. to anyone who is suffering as I did. I only took 3 bottles, and am never troubled with sick headaches any more."

B. B. B. has been on the market for over 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WOULD HAVE CONTROL OF GREAT LAKES

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Great Britain would have complete control over the Great Lakes in case of any trouble with the United States, if the proposed Canadian waterway system from the Great Lakes to the sea is completed. George Clinton, of Buffalo, declared before the New York State waterways commission. He strongly opposed participation by this country in the project.

TO MAINTAIN SEA POWER OF BRITAIN

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 22.—A speech which was a practical answer to the action of the United States Senate in rejecting the peace treaty was made by Lord Jellicoe here last night in addressing the citizens at a civic dinner tendered him. He said in part:

"It is my mission in Canada to advise the Dominion Government, where my advice is sought and only where it is sought, in what manner, if they so desire it, they can co-operate in maintaining the sea power of the British Empire. There is a feeling abroad that the millennium is in sight and that there will be no more wars. I sincerely hope that the League of Nations will meet with the best possible success, but events of the past few days have disheartened those who had faith in the immediate result of the formation of the League of Nations. These events need not make us pessimistic as to its future possibilities, but where the existence of an Empire is the consideration, I cannot help thinking that the people will want to be sure that they will absolutely secure under a league of nations before they will consent to cutting down expenditure for naval defense."

PRINCE HAD A PLEASANT TIME IN NEW YORK

Was Given His First Thrill From the American Footlights—
Paid a Visit to West Point Academy and Inspected the Cadets—Entertained Twenty-five Persons to Dinner on Board the Battleship Renown.

(New York Herald)

New York's world famed land of make believe opened one of its secrets last night to Edward Albert, Prince of Wales, and gave him his first thrill from the American footlights—the Ziegfeld Follies—closing a day in which he has reviewed the cadets at the West Point Military Academy, played squash and entertained twenty-five persons at dinner on board H. M. S. Renown in the Hudson river.

His visits to the musical production in West Forty-second street was quite the most interesting event of his stay in New York, from the onlookers point of view, as it showed him to the public in all his moods, happy, serious, quiet, alert, interested in those about him, and showing all of the accepted signs of being a "regular fellow" having a "regular time."

It was half-past eight o'clock when the big orchestra in the pit of the Follies started the overture. Those in their seats watched constantly the boxes on either side, knowing by the decorations in British flags that the Prince was expected. The three feathers and motto "Ich Dien" adorned the lower right box, and eyes were upon it.

The orchestra played for fifteen minutes and when he had not arrived the curtain rose and the performance began. Nervousness and tension was everywhere until while Bert Williams was beginning his travesty "He Never Misses," a scurry was heard in the rear and the orchestra played "God Save the King."

The Prince Arrives

The Prince of Wales in evening clothes wearing the medals across his left breast, walked quickly down the right aisle while the crowd stood and cheered. In the centre of the house he paused, turned about and bowed and smiled.

This was greeted with renewed applause and the comedian on the stage stood silent, smiling. The Prince proceeded to his box.

The performance continued but few eyes saw the work on the stage at this moment. As the Prince was arranging his chair the orchestra began playing "The Star Spangled Banner," and he stood at attention, the audience standing with their eyes glued upon the lower right box. The Prince sat down with Rear Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey at his right. The Prince was seated at the outer edge of the box, his left hand to his face, and for a few minutes he appeared to be studying; then he dropped his hand and laughed aloud at several of the comedians jokes.

At twenty minutes before ten o'clock Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt came into the theatre and walked to the Prince's box. The young heir to the British throne was upon his feet and assisted Mrs. Vanderbilt to remove her coat. Lady Ward entered the box next, Mrs. Vanderbilt was to the right of the Prince with Lady Ward to his left. Brigadier General Vanderbilt and Viscount Grey entered next and took their places immediately behind. Mrs. Vanderbilt held a large feather fan before her face and conversed with the Prince who responded laughing and indicating he was enjoying the performance.

The next performer to appear was Eddie Cantor, a comedian, who sang so well that the Prince lost his reserve and chuckled and bent noticed that during the first part of the performance the women in the Prince's box had been beckoning behind their fans to Miss Rogers who sat across the house and with whom the Prince danced six times at the ball in the home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid on Wednesday night, now saw Miss Rogers leave her place and make her way to the Prince's box. She was accompanied there by Miss Grace Vanderbilt, who then sat to the right of the Prince, with Miss Rogers to his left.

It was with these two young women sitting beside him, talking with him behind their fans that the Prince saw the rest of the performance, making it quite apparent after each turn presented that he thoroughly enjoyed it. The entire second row of the theatre was occupied by men from the Renown. Sir Godfrey Thomas, the Prince's private secretary occupied a seat in the first row, centre.

Pleased by Joke

A joke told by Mr. Cantor pleased the Prince very much. The actor advanced to the front of the stage and said, quite seriously, that it would be a shame for the Prince of Wales to be forced to return to England without getting a first class view of the Bronx. At the intermission at fifteen minutes after ten, the Prince left his box stood in the narrow passageway and lighted a cigarette. Those who had in those homes where good music has its most devoted hearers you will invariably find the VICTROLA. Why?

THEIR INEVITABLE CHOICE

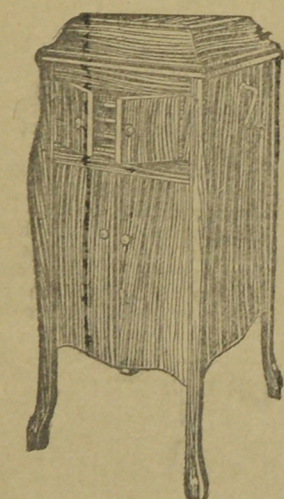

THE VICTOR

Because the highly developed taste in art is satisfied with nothing less than the best which the wide world has to offer. Logically and inevitably such a taste demands the instrument which Caruso has selected as his mouthpiece, which Farrar, John McCormack, Galli-Curci and Alma Gluck and a host of other leaders have selected to be their "other self," to represent them, to carry their golden message throughout the world.

That instrument is the VICTROLA.
