NEW MINISTER OF FINANCE WILL CONTEST KINGSTON

Resignation of Mr. W. F. Nickle Leaves the Seat Vacant—Prohibition Was Discussed at the Unionist Caucus—Not Much Enthusiasm Shown for the Unionist Party—Message From Sir Robert L. Borden.

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—The Telegraph is in a position to state definitely that Sir Henry Drayton, the new minister of finance, will be nominated in the constituency of Kingston, Ont., in the by-election to be held next month. The seat was left vacant by the resignation of W. F. Nickle. It is understood that negotiations have been completed whereby the new minister will get the Conservative nomination in the Limestone City.

At the Caucus
No decision was reached at the government caucus this morning relative to the organizing of the Unionist party further on a permanent basis. Prohibition seemed to engage most attention. Sir Robert Borden sent a message in which he stated his hope of being able to attend a conference on that important subject next Tuesday.

Much water has flowed under the bridge since the famous caucus of last session when so much enthusiasm was displayed on the subject of forming a permanent Unionist party. There was not then and is not now any tremendous difficulty in keeping such a party going so far as the present parliament is concerned but the difficulties commence and grow almost insuperable outside the house. Much quiet testing of sentiment through the country has been going on during the last few months and with eight by-elections in view, four vacancies in the cabinet, eight provinces headed by Liberal governments, the insurgency of the "ginger" group, the emergency of the United Farmers and the growing assertiveness of labor, the situation is such as not only to confuse but to fill with trepidation the experienced men who have been doing the testing. The situation is further complicated by the luke-warmness on the subject of some of the cabinet ministers.

They Won't Listen

Hon. N. W. Rowell is not willing to listen at this juncture to the proposal to make the party permanent. Hon. J. A. Calder is in somewhat the same position and it begins to look as though an attempt to commit the present government finally to the proposal would result in enough breaking away to make an election necessary. Sir Robert is not looking for trouble and would gladly retire. It is said that at times he has so strongly expressed a desire in this direction that the choice of a successor has even been tentatively discussed. Some have favored Sir James Lougheed, leader in the senate, carry on until a permanent choice is made. The names of Sir Thomas White and Hon. N. W. Rowell are most often mentioned but all this predicates remaining Unionist.

A number of the old guard say that a Unionist party can only be successful if it is a Unionist in name only and is really Conservative in personnel policy and organization. They state that when the drift in that direction is finally made apparent the "ginger" group will no longer trouble but come "home." An entirely new platform with slogans regarding "reconstruction" will be needed if the new party is finally found feasible. The thing has often been tentatively attempted. A dominion convention patterned after that of the national Liberal convention is even talked of. Many Unionist members regard it as feasible and see in it the only method of getting nominated in the next election.

Controversy Renewed

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—Another chapter in the quarrel between Hon. N. W. Rowell and Hon. Charles Murphy was written in the commons today, when Mr. Murphy on a question of privilege replied to some of the statements made by Mr. Rowell at the close of the debate on the address. Mr. Murphy had considerable difficulty in making headway because of the speaker's ruling that it was not permissible for him as a matter of privilege to do any more than reply to specific statements.

Amidst loud cries of order from government supporters, shouts of encouragement from the Liberals and interruptions from the speaker, the minister succeeded in making a number of statements in reply to Mr. Rowell and closed with a promise to deal with the matter more at length at the first opportunity next session. Mr. Murphy maintained that all the statements made by him eighteen months ago in reference to Mr. Rowell's salary as leader of the opposition and other matters were correct and in referring to the president of the privy council made use of the epithets "financial leech" and "political parasite." The house gave final consideration to the bill to carry into effect the provisions of the peace treaty, a measure which deals among other things, with the liquidation of property of German nationals in Canada.

Hon. C. J. Doherty informed the house that as soon as the Australian parliaments has given its approval to the peace treaty, the British ratification would be deposited in Paris.

For Third Reading

Further consideration was given to Mr. Pedlow's bill to fix a permanent Thanksgiving Day commemorative of Armistice Day. The amendment moved the other night providing that Armistice and Thanksgiving days be celebrated on November 11 (Armistice Day) was carried on a standing vote of 34 to 22, and the bill was reported out of committee. As it stands for third reading, the matter has not yet been finally dealt with.

Mr. Jacobs' bill to amend the house of commons act was further discussed and sent to the committee on privileges and elections. It provides for the holding of by-elections within sixty days of a vacancy occurring, a general holiday on election day and would prevent a member sitting for two constituencies.

Before adjournment the minister of justice said that as no adequate action had been taken in expressing the loss felt by the house at the death of the late Hon. Frank Cochrane, he wished to move that the house refrain from sitting during the time of Hon. Mr. Cochrane's funeral in Toronto tomorrow. He therefore moved that adjournment be made until 4 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon and this course was carried.
