Eggs should never be washed until ready to use, as the substance in the shell helps preserve them. Egg yolks keep well if covered with cold water. Egg whites should be covered and placed on ice.

If you want to serve the sirloin or rib roast rare, allow scant fifteen minutes to the pound in cooking. A five-pound piece should be done in sixty-five minutes. If you desire it well done it will require twenty minutes to the pound.

CLEAR THE NOSTRILS IN FIVE MINUTES

Routs Out Catarrh, Stops Sniffles, Prevents Sneezing

Catarrhazone is a Marvel.

It just takes about five minutes for the penetrating vapor of Catarrhazone to clear out clogged nostrils. Hard crusts and accumulations are quickly removed. The soothing balsams of Catarrhazone draw out every vestige of inflammation, nose colds stop as if by magic. Catarrh is prevented, better health is assured.

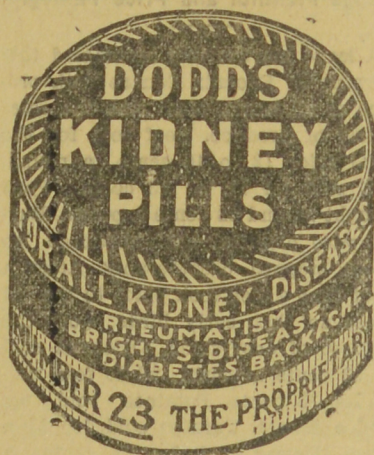

To cure colds without taking drugs may seem almost too much to believe, but Catarrhazone does it quickly and effectively. Endorsed by physicians, and in common use by the people of many nations. All dealers sell Catarrhazone, complete outfit $1.00; small size 50c; sample size 25c, direct from the Catarrhazone Co., Kingston, Canada.

EXCELLENT SPEECH BY THE SECONDER

the lives of the travelling public, a sorrowful drawback to our commerce and industries and a real provocation to everyone who has at heart the advancement of welfare of his country. When we consider, Sir, the great possibilities of that rich section of the Province, it is provoking to note that a betterment of the situation has seemed to be almost an impossibility. That section of New Brunswick east of the fifty mile tangent of the Canadian National Railway extending from the Nepisiguit Valley to Newcastle, stretching eastward to the shiny shores of Bay Chaleur, washed by the waters of the Gulf on the east and forming the picturesque North-eastern shore of beautiful Miramichi Bay, that peninsula is beyond any doubt, one of the most attractive sections of this Province, with its magnificent harbours, numerous estuaries, beautiful villages, nestled on the gentle elevation overlooking the silvery waters of Bay Chaleur the inexhaustible resources derived from the depths through the daring courage of New Brunswick's fishermen the fertile soil where hundreds of carloads of farm produce are available each year, —one of New Brunswick's best grinding sections, Canada's best grindstone quarries, bountiful blueberry tract affording a source of revenue to thousands of settlers, large tracts of land admirably adapted to colonization, twenty-five thousand inhabitants living in Gloucester east of Bathurst, —all of these, Sir, seem to be abandoned to the mercy of a dilapidated railroad, managed by a Company inspired with adverse culture, a company which must be brought to terms or get out of business. The time is now ripe for action and the whole province will cheer all drastic measures adopted by the Government of this Province on this question.

MILLIONAIRES SOMETIMES ENVY HOBO'S FREE LIFE

(Chicago News)

If the gas bill has leaped beyond reason, if butter prices refuse to melt, if that pay increase is slow in coming, don't begin to envy a millionaire. If you were one maybe you'd feel worse. Possibly you'd be so desperate you'd want to be a hobo.

It's the fashion, Chicago millionaires are wishing for the bumpy box car, the outdoor trail, the empty pocket—and the carefree heart. And they are saying so, openly.

"We have too much talk about masses and classes. There are times when I envy a tramp his freedom from care, J. Ogden Armour declared recently, speaking in Omaha. This statement, printed in Chicago, caused a stir of surprise—in some places. But not among the millionaires.

Sympathizes With Armour

"I certainly sympathized with Mr. Armour when I read that statement," said Samuel Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison Company and chief executive of the gas company. "I couldn't say exactly why," he supplemented, "but those words found an echo in my heart." In his voice there was an intimation that Lake Shore drive, luxurious clubs, opera boxes and "rich men's" vacations—jaunts to summer climates in winter seasons—fail to compensate entirely for the burden of responsibilities he bears.

As Mr. Insull spoke he sat in his secretary's office in the gas company building. The inner office was thrice removed from the outside corridors, where Everyman may come and go. The telephones on the desks were similarly insulated from casual intruders. Outside the facades of the building rose imposingly from the busy sidewalk with its limousine edged curb. But a certain weary responsibility for some of the big affairs of the world crept into the voices of those within the building, despite costly isolation.

Introducing Bill Schrader

Now consider the case of the hobo. It is evening in Tooker alley, near the Dill Pickle club. A white light from a tall post in the alley fails to scatter the blueness of the night. From the slit of an open door issues a thin wall of yellow light. Down near the blind end of the alley, near State street, a figure wriggles through the space between two buildings and the red glow of a pipe glimmers like a slouchy figure ambles leisurely toward the white streak of light from the club.

Then Bill Schrader rover of the world, goes in, leans on the counter and greets Jack Johns, manager of the club and host to hoboes and intellectuals alike. The greeting is a silent one. Silence is more democratic—and there are no social obligations here.

With smiling lips and meditative eyes, Bill sucks his pipe. When he speaks, his voice is a comfortable drawl.

No, Sir; Not Bill.

"Guess I'll hit it out for Seattle to night. That's where all the fun is now. 'Been here long?" Johns asks. "No—just blew into town today. Guess I'll ride the bumpers out though—nothing doing here."

A long silence—in which the pipe goes out and is packed again with care.

"Well, so long."

As he ambles slowly in the blue-green darkness, he stops in surprise at a questioning figure. His chuckle is long and appreciative.

"Well, I guess not. I ain't got no obligation to be interviewed by any paper. I leave that to the rich folks." So he lopes easily onward—away from obligations. In the distance, his chuckle is long and appreciative. How'd he like to be a millionaire? Ha! Ha! Not Bill!

WHERE DO THEY GET IT?

Have you heard the one about the American infantryman who, phrase-book in hand, was laboriously requesting the pretty French waitress for a kiss?

"Doughboy," interrupted the waitress, "ware do you get zat stuff?" Whereupon the Yank exploded, "Aw hell, I knew they'd let those sailors ashore before us."

This and other delicious bits are in Floyd Gibbons' "Tnd They Thought We Wouldn't Fight."

Then, too, we wonder where Homer Croy in "How Motion ciPtures are Made," got the bit about the film magnate.

"I've got something big!" announced a scenario writer; "I've copped the film rights to 'Pudd'nhead Wilson!'"

The film magnate refused to get excited. "We don't want to knock the President," he said cautiously.

F. B. M'CURDY, M. P., FAVORS THRIFT PLAN

Necessities of State Demand Exercise of Thrift by the General Public at the Present Time.

F. B. McCurdy, M. P., who represents Colchester in the House of Commons and is also known as one of the prominent financial men of Canada, endorses the War Savings movement in the following statement, recently issued:

"The advantage which systematic saving confers on the individual who practices economy and thrift is everywhere recognized. And the present necessities of the State demand the practice of these virtues, if Canada is to return to a sound economic position from which to embark on a renewed era of national production, growth and development.

"During the war Canada has been expending large sums of borrowed money in an effort which will not, in the material sense, be productive. This sinking of wealth can be made good only by increased production of commodities and services, savings on the part of Canadians, and the resumption and extension of our foreign trade.

"The war has been successfully ended, but the bills have, in the main, yet to be paid; participation in their liquidation is the duty of every citizen.

"Nearly everyone can help by avoiding some unnecessary expense, and investing the saving in War Savings and Thrift Stamps which afford a convenient and safe medium of investment within the reach of all.

"In fact, the Thrift campaign is so excellent and sound that I believe it could with advantage have been undertaken even earlier in the war without fear of deflecting our more direct military effort."

WASTED SYMPATHY.

The home of Evangeline at Grand Pre has been bought by the C. P. R. and the land on which it stands will be maintained as a public park. But why did the government of Nova Scotia fail to do what the C. P. R. has done?—Toronto Globe.

There was no doubt culpable remissness on the part of the Provincial government, but the offence is seemingly mitigated by the fact that neither Evangeline nor her home had any existence outside the brain of the poet who created them.

Ohio Man Is Modern Wizard

Discovers magic ether compound which loosens a corn so it lifts right out

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the ether discovery of a Cincinnati genius, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers. Ask at any pharmacy for a quarter ounce of freezone, which will cost very little, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without a particle of pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

HEART FLUTTERING EASILY CORRECTED

GOOD ADVICE TO FOLKS BOTHERED WITH PALPITATION, WEAKNESS, ETC.

If your heart flutters, be careful. An attack is liable to come on at any time. Excitement, over-exertion or emotion may cause it.

If blood rushes to the head, if palpitation and short breath are noticeable, there's cause for alarm.

If you want a good honest remedy try Ferrozone. We recommend Ferrozone because we know it's just right for heart trouble. It cured A. F. Beattie, who lives at Allen Hotel, Bay City, Mich. See if your symptoms resemble these:

Nervousness, Palpitation, Trembling, Dizziness, Sinking Feeling, Heart Pant, Short Breath, Weakness.

Mr. Beattie says: "I was weak and miserable. I was subject to heart palpitation and dizziness."

"As I grew worse I began to have trembling and sinking sensations. Ferrozone strengthened my heart, gave vigor to my nerves, soon made me well. It's a great builder."

By strengthening the muscles of the heart, giving proper circulation and causing a general rebuilding of the whole system, Ferrozone is bound to do grand work in heart trouble; try it, 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from The Catarrhazone Co., Kingston, Ont.
