NARCOTIC PREPARATIONS ANALYZED AT WASHINGTON

American Boys Who Hope to Find Surcease from Sorrow After July 1st, in Various Concoctions, will be Disappointed—Many Patent Medicines Contain Large Percentage of Alcohol, it is Declared.

Washington, June 2.—"Gimme a little of that 'Sure Cure for Malaria.'" "Make mine a Blank's Stomach Bitters high-ball with seltzer."

The boys who after July 1, or whatever date the prohibition laws become effective hope to find surcease from sorrow at the demise of John Barleycorn by imbibition of the above mentioned or similar concoctions, are leaning upon a slender reed. To be sure, such preparations will be sold.
It is equally certain they will contain a "kick." But the jolt will be accompanied by a morning-after effect compared to which the return of consciousness from a three-days' champagne revel will seem like a recovery from overindulgence in malted milk.

On the top floor of the Treasury building is a laboratory conducted by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. At the head of it is Dr. A. B. Adams, assisted by W. V. Linder and a force of 17 persons not all of whom are chemists, but all working toward a common end. Part of their duties is to see that there is not manufactured or sold for "non-beverage" purposes alcoholic medicines which do not conform to the bureau's standard.

Must Contain Real Drug

In each fluid ounce of medicine containing alcohol as one of its basic properties, there must be "an average dose of one or more compatible drugs of recognized therapeutic value." Medicines which do not meet this test are classed as booze. Their manufacture and sale for non-beverage purposes are forbidden. On the date of prohibition becomes effective the manufacture and sale of such so-called medicines will be stopped altogether.

There will be nothing doing in the way of dropping into the corner drug store for a bottle of the old reliable remedy for malaria, sleeping sickness and housemaid's knee, pleasing to the palate and in its general effect. The alcohol may be there—but so will the drug.

As before indicated there is a class of citizens—largely in the minority—who, as shown by statistics and police reports in dry territories, will seek the alcohol, ignorant of or caring not for the effects of the "average dose of one or more compatible drugs." It is believed however that even these sincere drinkers will find the word "compatible," as interpreted by bureau officials relates in no way to the human system.

Many Mixtures Alike

There are manufactured and sold in the United States, according to Dr. Adams, 100,000 preparations containing on an average of from 14 to 16 per cent alcohol. Many have the same formula, but are sold under different names. Some contain as high as 90 per cent alcohol. Among these Dr. Adams mentioned "Hot Drops," a mixture of 90 per cent alcohol and oil of peppermint. Two or three drops is a dose and little more is needed to obtain what is technically known as a "bun."

Among the records of the laboratory is the case of a man who drank a two-ounce mixture of 60 per cent alcohol and 30 per cent ether—and lived. The third ingredient was not mentioned.

During the last fiscal year ended June 30 there were examined by the laboratory 1,816 samples of non-beverage alcohol and medicines. Probably 25 per cent of the alcoholic medicines, Dr. Adams said, failed to meet the Government's standard.

Analyze "Popular" Brands

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is informed of the manufacture and sale of such medicines principally through the field force of revenue agents. An agent who hears of an unusual demand for a preparation will buy a bottle and send it to the laboratory for analysis.

If it contains too much alcohol and not enough drugs, the manufacturer hears a few days later from the collector of internal revenue.

The laboratory is giving careful attention also to the manufacture and sale of flavoring extracts. To conform to the standard, lemon extract, which contains 85 per cent alcohol, must contain also per cent oil of lemon.
The effects of a lemon extract "jag" Dr. Adams declares are such as to greatly discourage its habitual use.

The laboratory's activities are not centered in its alcohol analysis. During the last fiscal year, 1,739 narcotic samples were received and analyzed.
In the laboratory today are bottles of morphine, heroin and cocaine valued at $20,000, the greater part of which was seized from illicit dealers during the last six months. Last year the laboratory gave to the Red Cross narcotics valued at $75,000. Sixty thousand dollar's worth was obtained from a "dope" smuggler who was endeavoring to bring "the stuff" across the Canadian border.

Narcotic Law Strict

Analysis of narcotic preparations must be made with exceptional care as violations of the narcotic laws are followed by prosecutions, and, as the outcome of these cases frequently depends on the testimony of the chemists, this class of work is the most exact of all the laboratory's activities.

Reverting to the topic uppermost in the minds of many of our leading citizens who view with varied emotions the approach of the dry spell, the laboratory at present is devoting the greater portion of its energy to the investigation of alcohol in its relation to medicine. On the strength of what has been and is being accomplished it may be asserted without fear of successful contradiction that the Cinchona cocktail will not supplant the Bronx or Martini in the affections of the American public.

SHE FIGURED IT ALL OUT.

You really must confess, For did she not originate The "loose leaf" style of dress?

A cold and haughty stare doesn't

For ages men have been ridiculed when in early summer they were constrained to put on overcoats while wearing straw hats. That was because they did not have the nerve to call it a fashion. Women get away with lawn and dimity frocks worn with furs all summer, because they have made a style of it.

Gardening note: When the little tomato plants begin to look as yellow as the dandelions it is a sign they are not doing well.
