

URGES C. N. R. TO BUILD SUMMER HOTELS IN N. B.

Excellent Suggestions Thrown Out by Governor Pugsley at the Union Club Banquet—Good Roads Will be a Factor in Increasing Tourist Travel—Speeches by Premier Foster, the Hon. J. A. Murray and Others.

The list of speakers at the banquet at the Union Club St. John on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the All New Brunswick Tourist, Game and Resources League included Governor Pugsley, Premier Foster, Hon. J. A. Murray, Mayor Hayes and L. O. Armstrong.

Governor Pugsley

In his opening remarks His Honor the Lieutenant Governor spoke in glowing words of the active part that Mr. Schofield has played in the life of the community. His Honor pointed out that Mr. Schofield was a man occupied with a thriving business, but never had he failed to answer a public call, and has always been ready to take his part as a member of the community. Governor Pugsley said that he was extremely sorry that he had not been able to attend the session in the morning but was at Fredericton the day before and had not arrived home until early yesterday morning. He said that he had motored in to the city from Rothesay to the station in just a little less than twenty-five minutes. His Honor said that he firmly believed in good roads as they were going to do a vast amount in increasing the tourist traffic. He felt that nothing could do more for the stimulation of traffic than good roads for motoring.

He hoped that the sportsmen would still continue to come to this province in great numbers. While in the United States he found great numbers of people who have got beyond the stage where they care for active hunting and fishing but still have the love of the forest in their hearts and would like to come to a place where they can find woods and streams like those in New Brunswick. There are thousands of these men in the United States who would like to come on motoring trips and spend their vacations in the forests of this province. But when they do come they must be provided for. They are the people who should be catered to, and they are mostly all men of means, who do not wish to stop in the cities, but wish to get out in the open and see something different.

More Hotels Needed

Then good accommodation is needed. The Canadian National Railway should be induced to provide some hotels in the province near the centres of the game and fishing districts. His honor pointed out that the Canadian Pacific Railway had magnificent hotels at Banff and Lake Louise in the Rockies and explained that these resorts would be nothing if they did not have the proper accommodation. In all, he said the C. P. R. has twenty-seven hotels throughout Canada. The Grand Trunk Railway also has hotels at its summer resorts throughout Ontario. The Canadian National Railway has now a hotel at Lake Joseph in Quebec, and another at Brandon and also at Port Arthur, and he did not think that it would be going very much farther to induce them to build suitable hotels throughout the lower provinces.

In continuing His Honor said that he believed that it would pay to go to the expense of getting the people to come to the province, as the money they spend would in time spread throughout the whole of New Brunswick. He thought that the people of New Brunswick were a little too timid in matters of this kind. He firmly believed that if suitable accommodation was given the tourists will come in thousands. In the great summer resorts of the United States the people literally swelter from the heat, and he firmly believed that they would only be too glad to come to New Brunswick where there is such a delightful climate.

His Honor did not think that any country in the world presented greater opportunities than does New Brunswick. Even around this city if the lakes were stocked and the forests taken care of, within twenty years it would be one of the best fishing resorts in the world.

Premier Foster

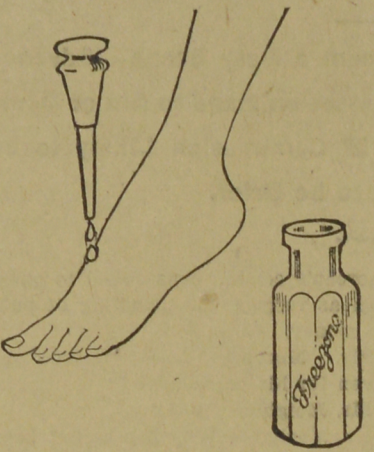

Premier W. E. Foster was the next speaker. Premier Foster said that he wished to congratulate the gathering on the successful launching of this new association. During the past four years of the war the people of Canada and the United States have been busily occupied in bringing the strife to a successful outcome and during the past two years the tourist traffic has dropped down at least fifty per cent. He felt that the organization had been launched at a most opportune time. He also congratulated them on the broad scope of their policies and aims taking in the game tourist and natural resources of the province. The premier then spoke on the value of advertising the resources of the province. Advertising was always a means of making a business successful, but it never paid to advertise if the goods could not be delivered.

The premier was also of the opinion that better roads should be provided for the tourist traffic and went on to tell of the roading schemes and of the amounts that have been voted in some of the other provinces for the establishment and maintenance of permanent and semi-permanent roads, and how these differed from those of this province. He explained that in New Brunswick the roads were maintained by the government solely, while in most of the other provinces they were kept up largely by the municipalities.

The premier said that in the encouraging of the tourist traffic it was essential that better hotel accommodations be provided. The hotel accommodations in the cities and through the province at the present are taxed to their utmost, and the matter is worthy of particular attention.

Hon. J. A. Murray

Hon. J. A. Murray, in the course of his remarks, dealt with the growing spirit which had awakened in the people of New Brunswick to hold on to their own people rather than let them go to other parts. Instead of the United States reaping the harvest which should be ours, the age had arrived when the New Brunswicker was staying at home and developing his own country. The future of the province, he said, was being faced with hope and promise. The natural resources of the province were a good heritage which should be taken full advantage of and used.

He dealt with the agricultural advantages the great possibilities of the lumber industry which was the basic asset of the province the rivers and streams, the tremendous water powers, the minerals, the fisheries and the sporting advantages offered by the province from boundary to boundary. The sporting assets occupied a forefront position and lured people to the province, he said.

Mayor Hayes

Mayor Hayes was brief in his remarks and dwelt, among other matters on street improvement for the city of St. John. He said that in nearly all the cities of Canada despite civic debts street improvements had been carried on by the abutters paying their share of the cost. Something had been suggested along this line for the city here, but the abutters objected and hence the abandoning of the plan. The mayor said that the automobile association paid money to the provincial government for good roads, but when asked by the city to help make good streets they refused. He added that just as soon as St. John wanted good streets they could get them by bearing their portion of the cost of improvement.

The mayor referred to the good fellowship that would grow out of the association formed at the convention now underway.

Dr. Thomas Travis of the Forest and Stream magazine of New York, urged upon those present to continue their advertising campaign by putting forth more display matter. It was the style of advertisement that counted. He referred to the splendid thing such an association could do to help the returned soldier get a job better than the pick and shovel.

Dr. Travis said the formation of such an association would offer an opportunity to help the new Canada into a broader life by opening up the resources of the country and developing them along broad lines. He fostered the idea of getting better acquainted with the American people and the American people getting better acquainted with us. This was the basis of the league of nations and was the wide world movement today to make the league of nations real. He also touched on the splendid advantages of this province and styled it the garden of the east.

Talks of Bolshevism

L. O. Armstrong, of the C.P.R. publicity department of Montreal was one of the most interesting speakers of the first day's convention. He told of his connections in various ways with the Bolshevik element and the revolutionists throughout the various parts of the states where he was carrying out his work. He urged upon his hearers the idea of awakening the people to a sense of understanding what the Bolsheviks were after. He also urged action on the part of educated men to bring the Bolsheviks and revolutionists to an understanding of what they were up against. While there was a remedy needed in many lines today, said Mr. Armstrong, it must not come through revolution.

Speaking of the province of New Brunswick Mr. Armstrong said the affection gained for itself all over the dominion was an admitted fact. Among the three most successful motion pictures used by him in his campaigns to boost Canada the most popular one was that showing the views of Cain's river and its splendid sporting opportunities.

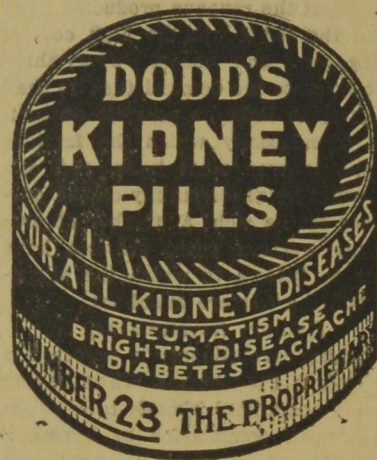

Mr. Armstrong drew long applause from those present in his reference to Colonel John Sparks, of St. John.

He spoke of the splendid developments which grew out of good hotel accommodations and dwelt on the prospects for sheep raising and pasturing that were right here in New Brunswick.

C. Rice Green, of the Canadian National Railways, said that the system of handling tourists and guides in New Brunswick had been found to be far in advance of that used in any part of the dominion. He referred briefly to the great field for industry here and the opportunity the province should not let pass of interesting British capital.

Mr. Green said he believed all the maritime provinces should join together and try to interest British capitalists. He said the C. N. R. as an institution was very keen to work with New Brunswick and with the maritime provinces generally. "We are with you, heart and soul, and will help you at every opportunity," were Mr. Green's closing remarks.

man although an excellent theorist. It looked as if there was an attempt to make a job for some person who did not have one.

Ald. Young, Ald. Baxter and Ald. Barker all strongly denied that there was any lobbying or collusion.

Ald. Cooper in amendment to the amendment moved that the matter be deferred until the July meeting.

Equality and Justice

Ald. Camp said that His Worship had referred to a scheme in this connection. If there was a scheme it was one to bring about equality and justice for the citizens of Fredericton and they were not getting it in assessment valuation.

The amendment of Ald. Cooper was lost. Speaking to the original motion Ald. Cooper said he doubted if the men named were the right ones. He felt the matter could well be delayed one month.

Ald. Wilkinson said that as His Worship said there was every appearance of collusion. Ald. Camp appeared to be the one who was rushing around. There was no need of pushing the matter through.

Ald. Young wished to amend the motion to the effect that the council set the salary.

Ald. Camp said in reply to Ald. Wilkinson that he had no friend to serve and no enemy to injure. What he wanted was a board of valuers which would act without consideration of the owners of properties.

Ald. Reid said he wanted the best board possible. He did not believe Dr. Kierstead to be fitted for the position as far as practical experience was concerned.

The motion was carried on the following vote:

Yeas—Camp, Davidson, Young, Baxter, Barker.

Nays—Reid, Wilkinson, Cooper.

Notice of motion to reconsider was given at once.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSED Severe Headaches

The duty of the liver is to prepare and secrete bile and serve as a filter to the blood, cleansing it of all impurities and poisons.

Healthy bile in sufficient quantity is Nature's provision to secure regular action of the bowels and when the liver is sluggish it is not working properly, and does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in, followed by sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, water brash, bad taste in the mouth in the morning, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

Miss Dian Clark, Myer's Cave, Ont. writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you concerning the good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but I got better after I had used a couple of vials of your pills."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretion, clear away all waste and effete matter by acting directly on the liver, and make the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

UNFAVORABLY.

"What were those lady jurors whispering about?" asked the judge somewhat peevishly of the court bailiff.

"Nothing, sir."

"But they were whispering a lot; what was it about?"

"Well, your honor, they were commenting on the hang of your gown."

Industrial Relations

The Royal Commission on Industrial Relations held a sitting at St. John yesterday and heard a number of witnesses. Among the number was Mr. J. D. Palmer, president of the Hart Boot & Shoe Company of this city. Mr. Palmer advocated greater production and increased efficiency which he thought could be brought about by vocational schools. He said that there was no industrial interest in Fredericton at the present time. He pointed out that in this city many workmen owned the houses in which they live.

WATCH FOR IT IN THE DAILY MAIL Confessions of an Everyday Wife

(By Ida McGlone Gibson)

A Great Serial to begin in the Mail This Week

It is a story of present day domestic life, which for sheer heart appeal has never been equalled in a daily newspaper serial—even by that master craftswoman, the author herself. Its theme, wholesome and absorbingly interesting, is packed with dramatic action, incident and episode. Back from the battlefields of France; back from months spent wholly in a man's world, back to a matriarchy—to a woman's world—comes Lieutenant Theo Symone. After the blissful days of the home-coming Theo feels the call—the irresistible longing—for the man's world. He craves the society of men and neglects his wife. Then comes the age long struggle of the sexes.

Born of conflicting temperaments and tastes, Lieut. Symone and his beautiful young wife, Margot, experience moments of tension tempered with love and happiness heightened by affection. The world-old struggle of the woman to hold her mate is told with exquisite artistry and charm. The infinite resource, the blandishments and feminine wiles of a brilliant and beautiful young woman are brought to bear with the softly compelling force which is the gift of the gods to the gentler sex.

In the end Margot wins her battle—or does she? Our readers must decide.
