Regina Leader: "The people of the West have every reason to organize to the limit and rise in their might in opposition to Robert Rogers. He has been the worst enemy of Canada, and more particularly of Western Canada, that ever secured a place of influence and power in the public life of this country. Looking over the years that he occupied a position in the government of Manitoba, the people of that province can today partly realize what his ascendancy there meant to them and how the whole political life of that Province was lowered to a plane which made Manitoba a by-word among the provinces. The people there, by painful experience of their own financial problems, know of the results of his reckless administration."

PASSING OF THE SALOON.

The casual visitor now detects handwriting on the saloon wall. Gone is the old rich mahogany; gone are the comfortable seats and tables; gone is much of the "art" that once embellished the walls. The "lunch," once free, then later fettered by harsh law, is for the most part gone, and the whole appearance of the inside of the saloon shows that its day of glory is done. Evidently the saloonman has no confidence in the future and is settling his house in order.

As the Minneapolis Journal points out, a yet more significant straw showing in which direction the winds of fate are blowing, was noticed recently in the display of soft drinks, in all forms, varieties and colors, as one of the chief exhibits at the National Hotel Men's Exposition at Madison Sq. Garden in New York. Artists in throat ticklers had been called into consultation to invent attractive names for beautiful and tasty combinations. The goldsmith, the silver-smith and the cutter of marble and alabaster have their share in the attempt to attain popularity without the vivid splendors of King Alcohol.

When the National Hotel Men begin to consider what their world may be made without alcohol, then the closing days of the alcoholic era must indeed be at hand.

But will cheerful men hang around a soft-drink cafe to talk, play cards and discuss candidates? Here we have the questioning doubt and fear of the now melancholy saloon Hamlet, and of many others who have frequented those pleasant ways in the past. Can the "poor man's club" sustain itself in the affections of the "poor man" unless it poisons him slightly? A possibility remains. With the passing of the poor man's club, the poor man may go too. He may save his money or spend it for so many useful and useless things, that, encumbered with possessions, he may cease to be the "poor man" of fame and thus have no further use for a "club" of the old sort.

BRITAIN'S SACRIFICE.

Captain Frank Edwards of the Royal Fusiliers, speaking before the Minnesota Bankers' Association the other day about Britain's losses, said: "In the first few months of the war we lost 550,000 men; we lost 78 per cent. of our entire fighting land forces in the first few months of the war. In the great retreat one division went into action 12,000 strong, and 2,000 came out. Out of 400 officers in one engagement, 50 returned. You talk about the Somme fight; you know what it cost us? 25,000 officers, half a million men; and I can't tell you about the Dardanelles. We lost in the first year of the war 550,000; in the second year of the war 650,000; in 1917 we lost 800,000 men. You know what France lost that same year? 300,000; that is to say, that in 1917 the British force lost half a million more men than France. The reason was the fierce fighting in Flanders. We lost 27,000 men in one month killed in Flanders, a portion of our line; at another point we lost 6,000 officers and 95,000 men killed."

Think of it! Over 100,000 men killed.

ed at one point of the line alone. Great indeed has been the sacrifice which the mother country has made for the liberty of the world.

Our old friend Mr. Pinder seems to be taking the initiative in the house-cleaning process for His Majesty's loyal opposition. In former days Mr. Pinder was wont to boast of his ability to detect wrongdoing on the part of public men, but with advancing years his eye seems to have lost its cunning. Proof of this is furnished by the potato scandal. Mr. Pinder sat in his place at the Public Accounts Committee and accepted as gospel truth all that Rev. J. B. Daggett told the committee about the potato transaction. The only comment he had to make after hearing Daggett's report was "What are they howling about?" By "they," he meant the members of the opposition of that day, who tried unsuccessfully to get the searchlight turned on the potato transaction.

An argument that was often urged against prohibition in the old days was that it would mean a loss of revenue, which a young and growing country like Canada could ill afford. We now have prohibition in eight of the nine provinces of Canada and a recent despatch from Ottawa reports an increase in the excise revenue. It will be up to some expert on political economy to explain how the excise revenue has increased under prohibition.

There does not appear to be any good reason why the military authorities here should not speed up the work of demobilization. There are several hundred men quartered at the exhibition building at the present time. They have done their bit in the war and are now anxious to doff the khaki and get back into civil life. The view of the situation taken by the men is not an unreasonable one and they seem to have the support of public opinion in the stand they have taken.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the town of Marysville will be successful in landing the new pulp mill to be established by the Nashwaak Pulp and Paper Company. The town authorities seem to be taking hold of the proposition in the right way. The proposed new mill will mean much to this section of the country.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

Perfume isn't a single scent cheaper.

The war is over; so are a lot of the made-to-order war songs.

"Petticoats must go," says the Baltimore Sun. And don't they? Did you ever find them home?

Charity not only begins at home and covers a multitude of sins—on occasions it sprinkles sand on slippery sidewalks.

Every married woman hopes, when she gets sick, that her physician will recommend a change of climate.

There is no grief in the world more profound and genuine than that of a small boy who finally realizes that Christmas is really over.

An apple a day may keep the doctor away; but at the present price it is almost as cheap to have the doctor. Still, apples are often pleasanter.

At a wedding the other day the bridesmaid carried the bride's pet Pomeranian. Nothing like being sure of your bark when about to take a voyage on the sea of matrimony.

Weak and Nervous

COULD NOT SLEEP.

When the system receives a shock of any kind, the heart becomes weakened the nerves unstrung, the appetite poor, faint and weak feelings come over you, you can't sleep at night, and you wonder if life is worth living.

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best remedy to tone up the entire system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. J. J. Bunyan, Pilot Butte, Sask writes: "I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, after having suffered from a terrible shock to my whole system. I was so utterly weak and nervous I could not sleep at night, and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling all over."

I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on the second box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, I began to feel that they were doing me good, so I kept on until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a different person.

I am never without them in the house, and highly recommend them to all who suffer with their heart."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MUNICIPAL HOME TO BE PROMOTED

years that it was considered surely a going part of the municipality. A building had been erected on a farm of some thirty or forty acres. A bond issue had been used to finance the building. Only a portion of the county entered the project at first but finally all parishes entered. He felt sure the same would occur in York. In King's parishes which came in later paid a portion of the capital expenditure. York should make all provision for all parishes to enter sooner or later. The motion was carried.

Regret Expressed

Coun. Dougan and Coun. Stairs said they both regretted the Home would not be established for the County as a whole.

It was pointed out that the legislation would permit the entire county to come in.

Warden Hallett said he would consider the matter and appoint the committee later.

Appeal For Salvation Army

Mr. R. W. McLellan of Fredericton was heard on behalf of the Salvation Army.

He described the organization of the campaign and its objects. He emphasized the fact that the funds to be raised were not to be used in connection with the ordinary work of the Salvation Army but entirely in connection with war work and demobilization.

Mr. McLellan read a list of those selected to head the organization in the various parishes and asked for the support of the councillors.

Salvation Army Sunday was planned for next Sunday. All denominations were approached to make this appeal a success. The Women's Institutes and the school teachers also were to be asked to give assistance.

Continuing Mr. McLellan pointed out that the Salvation Army had begun its war work in the field in Belgium ten days after war began. Two million dollars of its money had been expended and it had not asked the public for a cent. In that it had made a mistake, he believed, for other excellent organizations had already had their drives.

The speaker referred to the problems of demobilization which he cleaved were more pressing than those of war. The Salvation Army was ready to assist the government and the people in the solution of these problems but it should not be asked to do that with its own money.

Mr. McLellan also made reference to the Maternity Hospitals and Receiving Homes for soldiers' wives and children established by the Salvation Army. Hostels also formed an important part of this work. He said he expected $10,000 at least would be given to the Salvation Army in this district. He was most agreeably surprised when his friend Mr. Edward Moore of Fredericton had given $500 to the cause. That gentleman had had two nephews overseas who frequently had written him of the good work of the Salvation Army.

Immediately after Mr. McLellan closed his address the Council adjourned.
