WAR DID MUCH TO ABOLISH THEORIES ABOUT WOMEN

They Carried on in Munition Factories and Threw Themselves Into Work on the Land — Sex Not Necessarily a Disability Even in Matters Calling for Great Physical Exertion and Long Hours of Toil.

(Boston Herald)

The war did much to demolish the theory that women while occasionally "smart" in intellectual things, fall far behind men when muscle is called for. All of us remember how the "weaker sex" carried on in the munition factories, and with what energy in all the allied countries women threw themselves into work on the land. The scientific aspect of these achievements is now brought out in an investigation just completed at Leland Stanford University by two professors of that institution whose findings are authoritative. They announce flatly that there is no difference between men and women as regards muscular strength such as can be attributed to the tests made, but they were "such as are caused by conventional limitations of activity or by dress". The experts report therefore that even in matters requiring great physical exertion sex is not necessarily a disability, and that if some method could be found of adjusting work to individual strength under proper hygienic conditions and without reference to sex, "there is no reason why the potential power of woman may not be used without danger of lessening her racial efficiency."

A good many of the investigations conducted by our health bureaus are entrusted to women, and women physicians have especially distinguished themselves during the war. At the Lister Institute in England the researches of a woman, by making possible an important treatise on the disease germs which infect war wounds greatly aided in clearing the way for dealing effectively with gas gangrene and other complications. And the directors of that foundation do not come far short of paying a tribute to all women when they announce that it would not have been possible to meet the demands made on them during the war "had it not been for the capacity evinced by women of every grade of education to carry on duties which ranged from the inauguration of an original research to the grooming of a restive horse."

A crowning curative triumph in medicine is now given to the world, and all who have been sufferers from stomach ailments, indigestion and headache can be cured by a purely vegetable remedy.

Calomel, salts and such like are no longer necessary. They are harsh and disagreeable. Science has devised something far superior, and you can go today with 25c to any druggist and buy a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are considered the very quickest and safest cure for the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys.

Half sick men and women who scarcely know what ails them, will be given a new lease of life, with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Depressed spirits disappear, headaches are forgotten, appetite increases, blood is purified and enriched, pains at the base of the spine are cured, the nerves are toned up, ambition to work is increased, and day by day the old-time health and vigor return.

A trial only is necessary to prove how beneficial Dr. Hamilton's Pills are to all who are weak, nervous, thin, depressed or in failing health.

and the parents of the young woman were of the opinion that she was too young and should wait a few years before marriage.

Last Friday young Heald and Miss Gould planned a secret meeting at Northport, N.B., but the parents on both sides heard of it and plans were made to thwart a possible marriage. The elder Heald and Mrs. Gould trailed the pair in an automobile and the latter only escaped discovery by taking an automobile to Rockland. Arriving there matters moved swiftly. A marriage license was secured and driving to the home of Rev. Edwin H. Sanborn a Congregational minister, the marriage was performed.

Mr. Heald and Mrs. Gould reached the Rockland steamship wharf just in time to see their son and daughter standing on the deck of the steamship Camden as she pulled out from the wharf on her way to this city.

They arrived in this city Saturday morning and immediately went to the home of Mr. Heald's brother, Howard, 19, Windom street, West Somerville, where they will remain a few days awaiting word from their parents.

Young Heald said last night that he intends to continue his business of poultry raising at Camden and if possible, to also keep up his law studies.

Another perplexity that arises from the enforced reformation of the world is this: How is one to know whether the young man of the near future is any good or not? There are to be no temptations to which he may be subjected for the proving of his character.

MAINE PAIR
ELUDE PARENTS AND MARRY

(Boston Globe)

The romance of a young Maine couple who eloped and were married despite the objections of their parents is revealed in the arrival in Somerville of Donald Heald, son of Fred H. Heald, a farmer of Lincolnville, Me., and his bride, who was Miss Marian Annette Gould, of Belfast, Me. Heald is twenty-three years old and his wife nineteen.

They met last summer in the most approved summer fashion, the young woman, who was visiting at Lake Umbagog going out in a canoe, striking a sunken bowlder and being thrown into the water, only to be rescued by Heald who was camping on the shore of the lake. The association thus formed rapidly ripened into love.

The bride is a graduate of the Belfast High School and the Normal School at Castine, Me., and has been a teacher at Searsmont, Me. The elder Heald felt that his son should continue his law studies at the Rockland branch of the Northwestern College.

FRENCH FARMERS
MAKE PROTEST

Blois, France, Sept. 4.—Delegates representing 110,000 farmers in Central and Western France, in session here today, protested against measures to reduce the cost of living "of which the farmers are alone the victims," denounced all "measures for fixing prices—real or disguised"—and asked that on all committees charged with establishing selling prices of foodstuffs, the farmers should have the same representation as consumers.
