DEBATE ON THE BUDGET WILL BE VERY LENGTHY

Between Forty and Fifty Members Have Signified Their Intention of Taking Part—No Division on McMaster Amendment Expected Until Some Time Next Week.

Ottawa, June 10—Between forty and fifty members of the commons, it is stated, have so far signified their intention of taking part in the budget discussion which again engaged the attention of parliament today. More are thinking of taking the floor and a number will probably decide to do so. Unless the chief whips succeed in cutting the list down there will be no division on the McMaster amendment to Sir Thomas White's proposals until some time next week.

Opinion still varies as to the number of western unionists who will oppose the budget but it is believed tonight that the majority of liberal unionists from the prairie provinces will vote for the McMaster amendment while the Conservative Unionists are likely to stick to the government.

Farmers' Turn

Hon. Dr. Boland made an interesting contribution to the debate today after, in eloquent words, thanking the government, members of parliament and others, for the sympathetic interest they had taken in him, when he was an exile and a prisoner in Germany. Canadian soldiers he said had most gloriously participated in the fight for the maintenance of international right and justice and now that they are coming home with different ideas and larger needs it must be the duty of the government of Canada to help them to re-establish themselves. For those who are going on the land he thought the tariff policy should be so amended as to help them to become farmers. Dr. Boland was inclined to think that in the past the manufacturer has been given the best of it in Canada and now the farmer should be given a better show. He thought the reciprocity agreement of 1911 should be acceptable to the people.

F. S. Scott, South Waterloo gave is hearty support to the tariff proposals and maintained that protection is necessary for the maintenance of the prosperity of the country. He was disposed to complain, however, of the business profits tax which he said really amounted to confiscation.

Say West Won't Stand It

Dr. Molloy, Provencher, the only opposition member from Manitoba declared that the tariff reductions "did not amount to shucks." He disclaimed any desire to defeat the government at present, saying that he would prefer to see the ministry "stew in its own juice." Dr. Molloy observed that the western people would not accept the budget no matter how its representatives in parliament vote.

H. H. Stevens, South Vancouver, in supporting the budget, was warm in his praise of the finance minister. He maintained that Canada should have a moderate amount of protection and provision was made for this in the proposals submitted. He accused Mr. McMaster of being indefinite in regard to his tariff proposals.

Roch Lancton, La Prairie, Napierville speaking in French, in supporting the McMaster amendment, predicted that Canada's national debt will be nearly three billion dollars.

Hon. T. A. Crerar moved the adjournment of the debate and will be the first speaker on Wednesday. It is understood that J. A. Calder will follow the ex-minister.

Dr. Beland Applauded

When Hon. Dr. Beland rose to continue the debate on the address he was vigorously applauded by members of both sides of the house. It was the first occasion since his return from captivity in Germany that the ex-minister had risen to make an extended speech relating to matters of larger public policy.

He noted that this was the first parliamentary session he had been able to attend in five years and said that the occasion imposed upon him the agreeable task of voicing his gratitude for the sympathy shown to him during his years of exile and captivity.

With the war over said Dr. Beland Canada's soldiers were now returning to their homes. We extend to them a warm welcome, but we find that they are not the same as when they went away. For four years these men had been learning the arts of war—had been devoting themselves to destructive instead of constructive work. Now they were asked to return to the arts of peace. The task of returning them was not an easy one. They could not be regarded in the way the country would regard immigrants.

Their point of view was different, and their needs were greater. What the government should do was to help as many of these men who desired to become farmers to settle on the land.

Agriculture was of paramount importance to Canada at the present time. The financial assistance which the government offered to soldiers who wished to settle on the land was not sufficient incentive. The government should give to them a fiscal policy which would in itself be an invitation to become farmers. The farmer wanted free agricultural implements. He wanted the admission of things necessary to make a house. He wanted the things because he needed them.

Advices Minister

He advised the minister of finance to go easy in advancing money to Roumania and Greece. They were too near those countries which were in a state of unrest bordering on revolution.

Dr. Beland urged that immigration should be stopped for a time at least or at any rate confined to farm laborers and domestic servants.

He regretted very much that Siberian expedition and he had not found any one in Canada to approve it. The situation in eastern Russia was serious. Japan had armed about three million men, about one-quarter of that number would have been sufficient.

Who were Canadian troops to fight? Nobody knew. It was a political error. It was a military mistake. There was criticism too of the war-time election act.

The franchise in the hands of the government, Dr. Beland declared, might be as dangerous as the sword in the hands of the despot.

Dr. Beland hoped that when the finance minister issued his new loan it would be subject to taxation.

In regard to the cost of living Dr. Beland said there were three ways of meeting it. First, increased production second, reduced taxation on consumption; and third, bringing the profiteers to account. He instanced the recent rise in the price of butter and asked why the government had not intervened to have butter released from cold storage. There were dangerous agitators in the country. No quarter should be given to them. But not quarter should also be given to the profiteers.

New York Tribune: In Canada it is a case of "Tell me who you are and I'll tell you what time it is." If a railroad man, stock broker, soldier, sailor, traveller (rural or urban), it is three o'clock; if a farmer, civil service employee, government clerk, or member of parliament, it is only two.
