TRAGEDY OF THE HIGH SEAS HAS BEEN RECALLED

Important Recommendations of a Special Committee Submitted to Parliament Yesterday—The Increases Recommended Will Amount to Nearly Four Million Dollars—Canada Has Been Generous With Her Soldiers.

Boston, June 19—Thomas M. Bram, convicted in 1897 of the murder of Capt. Charles L. Nash of the barkentine Herbert Fuller on the high seas in 1896 after a trial in the United States district court in Boston that proved a sensation all over the country and is still fresh in the minds of many persons, has been unconditionally pardoned by President Wilson.
He was released from the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta about five years ago on parole but is now given his liberty absolutely.

Announcement of the pardon was made at the Federal building yesterday by Asa P. French, who was one of the attorneys for Bram at the time and later served as United States District Attorney. Mr. French recommended to the Department of Justice more than eight years ago that Bram be pardoned.

Killed Captain, Wife and Sailor

Capt. Nash, his wife and a member of the crew were slain on July 14, 1896, while the Herbert Fuller was on a voyage from Boston to Nova Scotia.
Bram was first mate of the vessel. After the discovery of the murders, Bram had a sailor named Brown placed in irons, charged with the crime. This man it was contended accused Bram and the crew also placed him in irons and brought both to Halifax.

One of the most interesting features of the trial and one which made the case a curiosity, had Lester Monks, who was a passenger on the vessel, as a principal. After the murders Bram asked Monks, because of the latter's literary training as a Harvard under-graduate, to write down the following theory, which was discussed by the crew, all of whom signed it.

"Tuesday, July 11, 1896.

"Monday night everything on board of the barkentine Herbert Fuller was perfectly quiet and peaceful. The crew had no fault to find with anything on board. The second mate had the watch from 8 until 12. I went to bed about 8 o'clock. The steward says the captain had been drinking, but I did not notice it. I am naturally a very heavy sleeper, so the murders which were committed might have happened before I woke up.

Scream and Gurgling Noise

"My first recollections were these:
Heard a scream, followed by a gurgling noise as if some one was choking. I reached down and got a box of shells, took my revolver and filled the pistol, which I kept under my pillow as fast as possible. Then I called, 'Capt. Nash!' As I got no answer, I unlocked my cabin door and stepped out into the after cabin.

"The second mate was lying dead in his bunk. Mrs. Nash was lying in her bunk with her clothes pulled up. Capt.
Nash was lying on the floor dead. We went on deck and at once decided to steer for French Cayenne that being the nearest port.

"My theory of the tragedy is this:
"The second mate Mr. Blum, had been drinking and tried to assault Mrs. Nash. Capt. Nash woke up and went and got an axe (the one we threw overboard) and attempted to kill Blum and his wife. Blum must have got the axe and hit the captain, and then staggered on deck and then back to his bunk.

"LESTER HAWTHORNE MONKS"
"The second mate offered Mr. Bram a drink about 12 o'clock. This whiskey made Mr. Bram very sick while on deck with me and he acted as if he had been drugged.

"THOMAS H. BRAM, mate.
"JONATHAN SPENCER,
"CHARLES BROW,
"FRANK LOHEAC,
"FALKE WASSIN.

"On the back:
"HENRY J. SLICE.
"OSCAR ANDERSON.
"HENDRICK PERDOK."

After a long trial the case went to the jury January 1, 1897. A verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree for killing Capt. Nash was returned.

to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Grieves, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anemic, but did not help me with their medicines I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat.

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months.
A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am

The poor cripple thumped his crutch on the ground and said to his lawyer: "Merciful heavens, you are taking four-fifths of my damages—it's extortion!"
"I furnished the skill, the eloquence and legal training for your case," said the lawyer.

"But I furnished the case itself," said the client, ruefully glancing at his injuries.

"Oh, anybody could fall down on coal hole," sneered the lawyer.
