GERMAN PEOPLE MISLED AS TO THE CAUSE OF WAR

Maximilian Harden Slams the Kaiser in a Remarkable Interview—Violation of Belgium a Crime That Turned the Universe Against the Huns—Spirit of Militarism Soaked Into the People of Germany.

Brussels, Feb. 19.—Maximilian Harden, editor of Die Zukunft, of Berlin in an interview in Le Soir, of Brussels declares that the German people were misled as to the cause of the war. They believed at the outbreak that Germany was in the right and even belief now that the right was on their side.

Emperor William, Harden declared, was drawn into the war against his own wishes, but once hostilities began it was he who kept alive national hatred and was responsible for the methods of warfare for which the world would never forgive Germany.

"Our people," said Harden, "did not know and do not know now. They loyally believed that right was on their side. If they had not, they would not have fought and suffered as they did. They believed there was a coalition against Germany. They did not understand that Great Britain, France and Russia had no other object than to protect themselves against the adverse designs of the Kaiser.

Violation of Belgium

"They did not understand that the violation of Belgium was a crime which turned the enlightened universe against Germany. They are still certain that if Germany had not invaded Belgium, Great Britain and France were ready to do so. Personally I do not think France ever thought of such a thing, and if she had Great Britain would not have permitted it. "But it was an old idea of the Kaiser. In one of his outbursts he once said to Leopold II. If there is war I shall go through Belgium, it she resists, Belgium will not exist any longer."

"It is the thirty years of reign of William II which carried responsibility for the war. It is the preaching in which he has poisoned youth. It is the spirit of militarism that has been soaked into the people.

"Kaiser Wilhelm was drawn into it himself perhaps against his own sentiments. He was not warlike. He was not even courageous, and I know that he had to struggle to conquer his personal feelings before he could be brought to sign the mobilization order.

Natural Hatred

"But once war was declared it was he who kept alive the national hatred. It was he who used methods of war for which the world will never pardon him. Believe me it causes me terrible pain to have to admit this."

When the interviewer pointed out to Harden that no protests against Germany's methods ever were raised in Germany, Harden declared that even now not only the actors in the tragedy hesitate to admit Germany's guilt, but that persons who have lost a brother or husband in the war desire to cling to the belief that they have suffered their share of bereavement in a good cause; they think it would take away from the dignity of their grief if they recognize that the cause for which their country fought was criminal.
