TRIUMPH OF THE ALLIES.

In estimating the importance of the military triumph of the Allies, Frank H. Simonds writes in The American Review of Reviews that it is the greatest in world history. He says:

"Measured by its consequence, the German defeat is more complete and disastrous than was the Austrian defeat at Sadowa or the French collapse at Sedan. It was Napoleon, not the French nation, which suffered after Waterloo; but it is Germany which must suffer now, as Prussia paid the price at Jena. Her emperor has gone into exile like Napoleon, although his exile is not a prison, but there is nowhere any disposition to deal with Socialistic Germany as Europe a century ago dealt with a France restored to the Bourbons.

"We have won the war in the only way that could be worth while. We have broken the legend of the invincible German army. Militarism has brought to Germany a greater harvest of suffering than defencelessness could ever bring. It has brought the invader, not halted him. While it flows back a broken and disintegrated mob, French, British and American troops are advancing on German soil and for many months and perhaps years hereafter, alien armies will dominate the Rhine and the Moselle.

"It was Waterloo which shattered the French dream of world power. In the hundred days of Foch from the Marne to the Sambre, Prussian militarism has been broken as completely as the Napoleonic. The nation collapsed behind the army; but the army was already beaten and the German fleet, which was to dispute the mastery of the sea with Britain, mutinied rather than engage in battle with the foe. The armistice of Senlis is, then, one of the great landmarks in all human history. It marks the failure of one more effort to dominate the world by the sword. It testifies to another militaristic failure, the greatest, perhaps, in all human history. It reveals the downfall which Bernhardt told us was the alternative to German world-power.

"And there is one circumstance in the present campaign lacking in the Napoleonic history. Europe conquered Napoleon, but he left his last battlefield with the assured reputation of unrivalled greatness as a soldier.

"Waterloo could not extinguish the glory of his Italian victories, of Marengo, of Austerlitz, of Friedland and of Wagram. Beaten, he still conquered as a soldier. But no such fortune remains for the German military leadership. It has not merely been beaten; it has yielded to a greater commander than it was able to produce. If Ludendorff was the ablest German general of the war, his defeat at the hands of Foch is as complete as that of any beaten general in any war. Nor is this all. If Foch's victory over Ludendorff was absolute, the successes of Petain over Falkenhayn at Verdun and of Joffre over the younger Moltke at the Marne, were only less decisive. In all three of the great tests, German generalship has succumbed to French. The legend of Sedan and Sadowa has been extinguished at the Marne and the Meuse."

ENORMOUS PROFITS.

Information brought out before the U. S. Senate Agricultural Committee at Washington shows that five meat packing concerns in the great republic made profits in 1917 of $95,639,000. This estimate is made by Mr. Chase, an expert accountant employed by the Federal Trade Commission. Based on capital stock, Mr. Chase said, Morris & Co.'s profits in 1917 were 267.7 per cent, and that on the same basis Armour & Co.'s profits in 1916 were 114.2 per cent. Because of a later increase in capital stock the percentage for Armour & Co. dropped to 27.1 in 1917. Swift & Co.'s profits in 1917 on the same basis were 63 per cent, and those of the Cudahy company in 1917 were 23.2 per cent, based on capital stock and surplus. Wilson & Co.'s earnings for the same year were 129.6 per cent. on the combined capital and surplus.

The great meat packers of the United States depend altogether upon the farmers of the country for their raw material. It is quite evident that they have a pretty good thing of it Late Ontario market reports show a slump in the price of pork from 22 to 17 cents per pound. In the United States the price has been fixed by the government at 17 cents until February 1st and this will be the means of maintaining the price in Canada at that figure. After February 1st a further slump is looked for as there is but little demand now for pork products in the old country.

The proposal of the city council to expend several hundred thousand dollars in the construction of permanent streets appears to meet with hearty approval. It is of the utmost importance that this work should be placed in charge of thoroughly competent men in whom the public have every confidence. Permanent streets will cost a large sum of money and the civic authorities should see to it that full value is given for every dollar expended.

Sir George E. Foster and Hon. Arthur Sifton have been named as the direct representatives of Canada at the peace conference. Sir Robert Borden was offered a place but stood aside in favor of Premier Leyd of Newfoundland.

The evidence taken in a case recently tried in the courts here seems to indicate that the home missionary field in some sections of New Brunswick has been sadly neglected.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

About three minutes after starting an argument with a woman a man realizes he is lost.

Women who have beauty don't need sense in order to get husbands—that is, certain kinds of husbands.

To a widower, getting married is a matter of precedent—to a bachelor, a matter of accident.

A girl is always proud of her hat until she meets another girl with one that is more freakish.

It is surprising how near a young widow can come to proposing to a man without actually doing so.

Wise people may not expect to find heaven in matrimony, but most of them appear to expect to get the earth.

A critical husband is about as soothing and comforting to have around the house as a pet porcupine.

Nothing so shocks and disappoints a man as the discovery that a girl is giving him a lot of devotion when all he wanted was a little diversion.

Oh, yes, Bertram, a girl can have a "good mind" without having a bad figure, a strong chin and a number seven foot—but no one expects a man to believe it.

The pretender to the throne of Italy has married a Belgian woman, which reminds us that most every man is a pretender on his marriage day, but he soon has it taken out of him!

LAST APPEAL IN INTERESTS OF S. A. DRIVE

St. John, N. B., Jan. 18.

Dear Friends,—The following cablegram has been received from General Booth, Commander in Chief of the Salvation Army of the world:

"Wish you God speed and every success in your effort to enable the Salvation Army to play its part in meeting Canada's demobilization and reconstruction needs, for the sake of her splendid soldier sons. We look to the Dominion to maintain splendid traditional generosity built up during the war, and regard every worker in the campaign as a comrade in a good and glorious cause. My prayers are with you."

"BOOTH, London, England." It seems to me, from all reports we are receiving, that everything is in good shape for the final week of the drive. It is now up to the faithfulness and efficiency of our solicitors in every county through the Dominion as to what the Salvation Army shall have as a result of this drive.

I need scarcely say to you that upon the result of this drive will depend the future usefulness and standing of the Salvation Army, so far as the soldiers and their dependents in these days are concerned. Our hopes, our prayers, are fixed upon the noble men and women in each county who are now to either make good or fail in this our first campaign for funds.

By newspapers and telephoning, notify your people that if solicitors fail to call on them they are to send in their gift to R. W. McLellan, your chairman.

Yours very cordially,
E. P. LOOSE,
Campaign Director.

IF you had a sore place, and had to choose between two remedies, one of which went to the sore spot direct, and the other by a round-about way, which would you prefer? Undoubtedly, the one that gets there direct!

That is just the reason for people's preference for Peps for ailments of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Peps get there direct, because they are breathable, while remedies which are swallowed only go to the stomach.

Dissolve Peps in the mouth, and the vapor which is liberated is carried by the breath direct to the breathing passages and minute air cells of the lungs, destroying all germs, and soothing, healing, and strengthening the delicate membranes.

Once you try Peps you will never use any other remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, tightness across the chest, night cough, laryngitis or asthma. All dealers 50c. box.

FREE TRIAL Send this advertisement and 1c. stamp (for return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto, and receive free trial package.
