THE DEMOBILIZATION OF THE CANADIAN FORCES

Q.—Who is in charge of the demobilization of the Canadian Army?

A.—The actual demobilization is in charge of the Militia Department.

Q.—Why say "The actual demobilization?"

A.—Because a new department of the Government has been formed to give the after-care that Canada owes to her invalided and disabled soldiers.

Q.—What is this new department?

A.—It is the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment with headquarters at Ottawa. Sir James Loughheed is the minister in charge.

Q.—What does this department do?

A.—It's hard to say in a paragraph all that this department does. It first comes into contact with the soldier in England. There it finds out the soldier's previous experience, the employment he now prefers to take up, the locality in which he intends to settle.

Q.—How is this information obtained?

A.—Through questionnaires, which will be signed by every Canadian soldier now overseas.

Q.—Why is this not done on the transports?

A.—Because the information must be secured and sent to Ottawa before the men sail on the transports. But there is a representative of the department on every transport, to inform the men exactly what the country is prepared to do for them, to advise them and to give them any advice necessary or any information they desire. In addition to this, a staff representing the department will be at every dispersal station.

Q.—Then what happens?

A.—Returned men then are placed in touch with the local employment office, where another representative of the soldiers civil re-establishment department will introduce him to the officials of the employment office, who will see that the returned man gets the preferential treatment to which he is entitled.

Q.—Does the department do anything else?

A.—Lots of things the most important is this—special representatives have been appointed whose duty it will be to travel about the country interviewing returned men, hearing complaints, making suggestions and reporting generally as to how the government machinery is working.

Q.—That's all for men in good physical condition. What about disabled and invalided men?

A.—Special provision has been made for disabled and invalided men. If their cases require continuous treatment, they are taken on the strength

Cured of Dyspepsia

BY USING

Burdock Blood Bitters.

The symptoms of dyspepsia are so numerous and diversified in different individuals that probably no description could exactly represent them as they occur in any given case, but a few of the most prominent are a rising and souring of food, pain, flatulence and distention of the abdomen, a sensation of discomfort after every meal, which is sometimes followed by sickness and vomiting.

To get rid of dyspepsia a careful arrangement of the diet is necessary and due time must be given for the digestion of the meal.

You will find that Burdock Blood Bitters will help with this digestion. It does this by toning up the stomach in such a way that dyspepsia soon disappears.

Mr. Robt. Balwin, Winnifred, Alta., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters for curing dyspepsia, of which I have tried a good many doctors and proprietary medicines, so one day I thought I would try something different. I got a bottle of B. B. B. from our local factory only by The T. Milburn Co., of the department and receive the same pay and separation allowance as they received in the army. In addition they are granted an allowance for their families in place of patriotic fund allowance.

Q.—What about men who need temporary treatment, or artificial limbs, or vocational training?

A.—These are all taken care of. They will be subjects for another series of questions and answers.
