Mrs. Vanderbilt Gave Up $1,760,746 to Marry Her Choice—Gladys Vanderbilt hack "Home."

Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt gave up $1,760,746 and some odd cents for the privilege of marrying the man of her heart, Raymond T. Baker, director of the mint, so it was disclosed when auditors reported the sum of a trust fund left by her first husband, who went down with the Lusitania. The money goes to her two boys, George and Alfred Vanderbilt.

Countess Szeczenyi, who until she went abroad and almost broke by becoming a Hungarian's bride, was Gladys Vanderbilt, finds the old land good enough these days. The Countess, with her children, is at Lenox, where she has taken a house and will remain in America. "This is my country and my home," she says.

Miss Justina Wayne has made London gape and gasp. She suggests renaming Shakespeare's plays to meet popular demands for stimulating titles. She suggests for instance, "How Could You, Juliet?" as more appropriate than plain "Romeo and Juliet." She would substitute "Call of the Flesh" for "The Merchant of Venice," "The Nutty Prince" for "Hamlet," "Hon. Whom Do You Love?" for "Henry V.," "Big Dick" for "Richard the Third," and "Moonlight and Honey-suckle" for "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Miss Mary Garrett Hay, chairman of New York's league of women voters, let men in on a big secret during the recent election. The women were advised to be non-partisan and to vote for men, not parties or issues marooned on an island of fear in a sea of doubt. "Ain't women the enigmas?"

Mrs. Mary M. Lilly of New York, one of the two women members of the State Legislature is in hot water explaining why she believes she has a perfect right to draw two salaries—one from the state as a lawmaker and the other from the city as director of women prisoners at Blackwell's Island. She is learning much of political methods as practiced by opponents.

Miss Gaby Deslys is on her way back to Paree and knows now that Uncle Sam's love for la belle France was camouflage. Didn't he bring over herself with all her pungent, contortionistic, histrionic attributes? Wasn't she ready to show the Yankee public what wonderful limbs she had? And didn't she have a real live young Duke in tow, as well as other press agent fixin's? Didn't she give the American managers a fair chance for a contract? She did, but alas, the contracts came not. Gaby learned that the war has cured Americans of a whole lot of things besides sinful thirsts—and the bald-headers are fretting too much over them cussed boltheveek to give any thought to ordinary limbs when the limbs of the law are watching so intently. So Gaby departs.

Major Falchi is known in Canada and the United States as he did war work for Italy here and in Washington. The Major and his wife are to reside in Florence, Italy.
