Mrs. Baken Wants Her Husband to
Quit Position in the Mint.

Mrs. Ray T. Baker, who once was Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, and whose present husband is the director of the United States mint, thinks he has given up enough time to his country, and wishes him to quit his job, so he can come to Lenox. The water's fine in the Berkshire natoriums and the bride of a few months finds it mighty lonesome. There are few young men or even old ones at Lenox this summer, which would make it bad enough anyway, but when one has a perfectly good husband and a new one at that, and because of a pokey old government job he can't be around to turn the ice cream freezer, why its perfect—well, some ladies use the word. Mrs. Vanderbilt-Baker detests Washington, but nobody blames her for wanting to have a little family reunion in the old Bay State hills.

Mrs. Vernon Castle, as she still is known in the "fillums" is now off on a real honeymoon, with her newly acquired husband, young Capt. Robert Tremain, U. S. A., son of the head of the Federal Reserve Bank. You know the ardent fiance some time ago simply wouldn't wait any longer, so Irene to stop his clamor married him and took him up in the Jersey hills while her movie company was at work on the big war films, "The Firing Line." The picture is finished, had its tryout Saturday, has been passed and approved by all the censors and now that work is over they can go berrying and fishing.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, who landed at New York yesterday from Europe, where she has been in the interest of the official Y. W. C. A. paper, the Woman's Press, finds Europe fast placing women on the same plane with men. She reports women are receiving equal recognition in labor legislation and are taking a balanced part in politics. The movement soon will reach this country in full force, she predicts.

Mrs. Ella T. Gould, the third wife of the deceased paper king, G. H. P. Gould, has in the Utica courts, begun her part of the fight over the $12,000,000 estate. Gould, who in thirty years rose from a laborer and stage driver at 43 to be one of the richest paper makers in the world, made a pre-nuptial agreement with the final widow and she has been executrix. The children by former marriage want her ousted, and New York up-state legal circles are aquiver with anticipation, as this is the first really big will fight of years with plenty of fees for the attorneys.

HATS OF RIBBON

Smart little hats for sport wear, made of faille or moire ribbons, are now being shown here. Narrow strips of hemp braid are used on many of them at the joining of the rows of ribbon. Soft, easily adjusted shapes dominate the models of these hats and they are seen both in solid color effects and by combinations. Trimmings are simple, some of them consisting only of a band and bow of ribbons, or little ball tassels that dangle over the side. Others show the use of novel wool embroideries.

PRAISE FOR N. B. ROADS

(Houlton Times)

The roads in New Brunswick are better than ever before. The road from Houlton to Woodstock has been much improved and many of the bad hills have been rebuilt. Although there are some places that are a little rough, on the whole the 12 miles of road is a revelation on road improvement.

The roads on both sides of the river north and south from Woodstock are in much better shape than last year and any of these trips can be made with pleasure, either for a short run or a longer one.

From the number of Canadian cars seen in Houlton the people from New Brunswick appreciate good roads.

Nobody fits into his job better than a chronic loafer fits into idleness.

A minister in Indiana says "every man should pay his wife at least $175 a month for being a good wife." He's right, of course, but one naturally wonders if he practices what he preaches. So many of us do not.
