

Thought It Was a Boil Doctor Said Abscess

Mr. Gleason R. Young, Kingscroft, N.B., under date of February 9th, 1918 writes us as follows: "About five months ago, a lump came on my jaw-bone. I thought it was a boil, and after it had been there quite a while it began to get larger. I went to a doctor and he said it was an abscess, and lanced it. He gave me a wash for it, so I went by his directions until it healed up, but it commenced coming again, and in about three weeks it broke itself. I thought it would get better, but it didn't. A neighbor advised me to get a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I sent and got a bottle, and by the time it was all gone, the abscess had disappeared, and now it is all better."

Burdock Blood Bitters will heal and dry up sores, ulcers, and abscesses, no matter how large or of how long standing. If you have never applied it to a cut, wound, sore or ulcer, just try it and see what soothing, healing, cleansing power it possesses. It takes out itching, stinging and burning, and promotes the growth of healthy flesh. So, too, when taken internally, by its power of eliminating all impurities from the blood and making that vital fluid rich, red and pure, it cuts off the origin and source of the foul matter that goes to make boils, pimples, sores, ulcers, abscesses and the like, and at the same time the purified and enriched blood creates healthy tissue where there was formerly, perhaps a sore full of pus.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 40 years. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A VERDICT OF MURDER

Toronto, Ont. Jan. 15.—The circumstances in detail which preceded the murder of Mrs. Charlotte Huntley in her home at 127 Campbell Avenue on the afternoon of January 4 were furnished to coroner Russell at the morgue tonight. A verdict that Mrs. Huntley came to her death by having her throat cut with a razor wielded by John Cook, who had attempted suicide was returned by the jury.

MUST SEE TO IT THAT THE GREAT WAR REMAINS WON

American Lecturer Sounds a Note of Warning—
Pays Eloquent Tribute to Worth of the Allied Leaders—Marshal Foch a Man of Simple Faith—Sir Douglas Haig a Man of the Same Type—Paris Saved by the Yankees.

(Buffalo News)

"It is one thing for us to have won the war—it is equally important for us to see that it stays won." That, in part was the message brought by Isaac F. Marcossion, renowned American reporter and lecturer who addressed several hundred persons at the 20th Century club yesterday. Mr. Marcossion's extensive travels during the five-year period of the war and his contact with some of the most prominent men of Europe enables him to paint intimate word pictures of many of the great war leaders and to describe realistic happenings during the war.

"The average man or woman has the idea that war is brutal, ruthless," said Mr. Marcossion. "It is. But beyond and behind it there is something big and fine. Those great armies marching into battle carried spirituality and the big vision of a great soul. I have, in mind that great French leader, Marshal Foch. He is a quiet man. We did not hear much of him early in the war when he was established in the headquarters of Marshal Joffre."

"These great leaders seldom speak except in terms of action. When next he saw him he was field marshal of France. He is a man of simple faith and a devout Catholic. When the time came to press the button, figuratively speaking, that sent four or five million men into the second battle of the Marne, Foch went for a quiet walk into the fields and quietly discussed world economy."

Leads Simple Life

"Douglas Haig is a man of the same type with the same big spiritual outlook. Like all these war chiefs, he leads a simple life, retiring and rising early and eating sparingly. They dedicate all their energies and genius to the great task of saving the world. General Haig once said to me, "War is the greatest shaper of character in the world." And so it has proved with those great armies that have entered the conflict. These men have become world citizens, better equipped for the battles of life.

"Then we come to that man bound to us by the most patriotic of bonds, the great economical statesman, and with Haig and Foch, one of the three great figures in the war, our own shouldered and deeper chested even than Haig—on his face can be traced the lines of grief resulting from the great tragedy of his life."

"General Pershing has made a study of the business of war. Seated alone in his headquarters during our early days in the struggle, he solved one of the greatest problems that confronted a man in the war—how many troops it was necessary to bring to France, how those troops were to be fed and clothed, how to bring those troops and supplies across 3000 miles of sub-infested sea. At that time it was generally thought that 500,000 men were ample for our needs."

Yanks Save Paris

"Pershing was not a dangerous optimist," continued Mr. Marcossion. "He looked beyond the security of the

HEAD AND NOSTRILS STUFFED FROM COLD

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and sniffing! A dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end gripe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

hour, when everything looked well. He saw that the time would come when the allies would need not only 500,000 but four or five times that many men. When that great hour did come, he was ready. In the great battle of Chateau-Thierry, the Americans did not expect to take part. When however, the French line was broken and the great "hurry, hurry" call was sent to General Pershing, the Americans were ready and they not only saved Paris and the war, but they saved the world.

"That is the glory of Chateau-Thierry. I tell you frankly, there has never been another illustration of such courage and heroism to approach that shown in the battle of Chateau-Thierry. The part that America has played in the war must not be underestimated. That is a great mistake."

"They turned the tide of the war at great sacrifice and with great suffering."

Here Mr. Marcossion spoke a word for the khaki-clad fellows behind the lines who never smelled gun-powder but who labored as earnestly and as faithfully as any who went over the top in battle—the men in charge of the supplies that made victory possible, the clerks, the men in office and out on the ground, the diggers, and others, "I am proud to pay tribute to the men of the S. O. S.," said he.

Pays Tribute to Doughboys

"When I look back over the human gallery of great men I have had the honor of knowing in that war, I am impressed with the character of those great souls who devoted their lives to making the world safe for democracy. And when I saw our American youth the flower garden of our country, marching joyously into battle and coming back maimed and bruised and bleeding, still courageous and smiling bravely, I felt it was a privilege to be a member of the face that produced these men."

"And when I think of the suffering and bravery of the women of France and all that has been sacrificed to help win this war, it seems to me that the greatest part of the reconstruction of the world is this—the American people should not too soon forget the war. There never was a time when it was so important for us to remember the war. This is as much a time for rededication as for reconstruction."

Mr. Marcossion said that the real tragedy of the war is that the Germans have not been beaten badly enough; that they are going home as armies of conquest. "Since 1917," he said, "I have been traveling in the neutral as well as warring countries of Europe, and I tell you that in Serbia, Holland and Switzerland there are warehouses full of cotton, and in Spain I saw stores of copper, steel and rubber. The Germans there boast that their plans for peace were laid with the same thoroughness as their plans for the war. I believe there is a great deal of camouflage in their claims of being down and out."

Cannot Trust Germany

"No human being will ever believe a German again. If we let the Germans swing back to power it will mean great future disaster. The German business machine always cooperates with the German war machine to the end of world conquest."

Mr. Marcossion believes that the Germans were so well equipped commercially that if it were not for their stupidity in forcing the world into war, they would in ten years have owned the world. "They have not accepted defeat," he said. "More economic conditions forced them to stop the war not end it. German propaganda is not stopped. The Bolshevik movement was framed, financed and backed in Germany. They would plunge the whole world into Bolshevism if they could."

The so-called melting pot in this country, Mr. Marcossion said, is a menace. "It should be turned into a straining pot."

"As I had faith in the early days of the war that sooner or later the United States would see and do her part in the big struggle, so now I have faith that the president of the United States when he sees and realizes the suffering of the people of Europe, will see the light and play his part in the drama of peace that will have a fang in it to put the fear of God into the hearts of the German people forever."

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS GOOD INVESTMENT

Make Saving Easy and Pay the Investor Over 4½ per cent Interest, Compounded Half-yearly.

The paying of $4 now for a War Savings Stamp and getting $5 for it from the government in January, 1924, is a method of investing that appeals quite strongly to the average person. Nor is this surprising, for the money thus invested yields a little over 4½ per cent, compounded half-yearly. With a War Savings Stamp goes a War Savings Certificate to which the stamps are attached.

Obviously this is an excellent return when the nature of the security is taken into account. There is nothing safer in the world than Canada, and these stamps are backed by all the resources of the Dominion.

A person does not need to have $4 in cash in order to take the first steps towards purchasing a War Savings Stamp. Thrift Stamps, which sell at 25 cents each, have been provided. When 16 of these have been purchased they may be exchanged for a War Savings Stamp. With the first Thrift Stamp purchased goes a Thrift Card, to which the Stamps should be fixed as soon as received.

After the 16 Thrift Stamps have been exchanged for a War Savings Stamp, the person doing so should start in again to buy Thrift Stamps,
