THE SHORTAGE OF SUGAR IS ALREADY PRESENTING A VERY SERIOUS PROBLEM IN AMERICA

New York to be Rationed by the Food Administration as in War Times—The Distribution to be Equalized Throughout the Entire Country—The Present Shortage is Due to Increased Consumption—Large Quantities Stored in Boston Warehouses—Prohibition Gets the Blame.

Boston, Oct. 18—It is well known that there are immense quantities of sugar stored in Boston warehouses but it is being held until the government orders a release of its price fixed for the war period. In the meantime sugar is being refined here and sent back to Cuba so the local market will not be glutted. The article is so scarce—some leading grocers having refused to sell any in a week—that sugar will be distributed under a zone system soon, according to Brigadier General John H. Sherburne, chairman of the state commission on the necessities of life.

New England will receive sugar from Cuba, as will other eastern sections, while the balance of the country will rely on Louisiana and places where beet sugar is manufactured.

The sugar equalization board, a subdivision of the food administration has recommended that bakers be allowed 70 per cent of their last year's requirements, confectioners and candy makers 50 per cent. There are similar restrictions against bottlers.

New York on Rations

New York, Oct. 17—The Herald says Temporary rationing of the city and a zoning of the entire country in order to equalize the distribution of Cuban and Porto Rica and beet sugar from Louisiana will be resorted to by the Food administration according to an announcement yesterday by Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator. The rationing will be almost identical with that put into effect by the Food Administration two years ago, when the consumer could buy only a small quantity at a time and no hoarding was permitted.

"The present shortage is due largely if not entirely to enormously increased use," Mr. Williams explained. "The sugar people say that it is the result of prohibition, people now consuming the so-called soft drink, which takes a great deal of sugar, and eating candy as never before. The increased consumption is estimated at 500,000 tons."

"The longshoremen's strike has aggravated the situation," Mr. Williams continued. "This morning there were twenty vessels at the docks of the refineries filled with the new product waiting to be unloaded. It is hoped that the required handling will begin almost at once and will relieve the situation."

"The city will be placed upon a temporary ration almost identical with the rationing of the Federal Food Administration of Sept. 1918. The city is to be supplied with about 50,000,000 pounds monthly and this supply is to be distributed proportionally between the homes and the manufacturers as was done a year ago. It is urged that sugar be used with the utmost economy by every one and that there be no effort to hoard sugar."

"Dealers are justified in limiting their sales so as to distribute their own supply as generally and fairly as possible but they must not offer sugar in combination sales, which will inevitably lead to the suspicion on the part of the public that some form of profiteering is taking place in the combination. Purchasers are also urged to buy in the store where they are accustomed to go, as dealers will be justified in refusing to sell to strangers as a fair measure of preventing sugar hoarding."

Mr. Williams said he received word from a member of the Fair Price Committee that four refineries here and one in Savannah, Ga., had closed down because there was no sugar. He predicted that by the end of this week, if the vessels now at the various piers in Brooklyn were not unloaded it would mean the closing of all the sugar refineries in this city and the throwing out of employment of some twenty-five thousand persons.

Pork loins at twenty-five cents a pound wholesale and for which the retail dealers must not ask more than thirty cents a pound will be offered to the public in a few days, Mr. Williams announced. The army has a large quantity of this meat to dispose of through Colonel Carson, U. S. A. Based on from the same source will be sold wholesale at not more than twenty-five cents a pound.

Shrine at Grand Pre

Oxford, N. S. Journal: In passing through King County last week, we were informed that the Catholics had purchased the Evangeline Memorial grounds in Grand Pre, and have begun the making of walks, planting trees, etc., with a view of making a shrine there similar to St. Anne's, in Quebec where thousands of the faith go every year.

Jack the Hugger Again

Jack the Hugger or Grabber as he is variously known has again made his appearance. His haunts are said to include Carleton, Brunswick and Regent streets. In appearance the man is said to be short and thickset with a "bad eye." He walks with his coat pulled up about his ears and his hat over his eyes. Several ladies have reported that they have been molested.

Moose Charges Car

St. John Telegraph: An experience similar to that reported from Sussex some weeks ago, in which Garfield White's car going along a road was charged by a moose, happened to a party of young men from the city recently while coming here from St. George. A moose came out of the woods in front of their car and charged into it, damaging the lights, and giving them quite a fright.

Will Go South

Mr. Fred Lawney a veteran soldier belonging to Waasis, has resigned his position as forest ranger under the provincial government and will leave in a short time for the Southern States. He has accepted the position of manager for a tobacco and cotton ranch in North Carolina owned by Mr. W. Gould Brocklaw, an American millionaire who spends his summers in New Brunswick. Mr. Lawney's friends are heartily congratulating him on his good fortune.

New Quarters at Halifax

Halifax Recorder: The buildings erected on Camp Hill in this city for military hospitals, and affording accommodation for 600 patients are to be closed as a hospital the middle of November. The Camp Hill buildings will be taken over and used as barracks by the R. C. R., who now occupy the Wellington Barracks. It is said that the latter building would cost too much to put it in condition owing to the damage done by the explosion and that eventually it will be available for housing purposes.

Provincial Bond Issue

The comptroller-general of New Brunswick announces that a provincial issue of bonds will be made in December. This will be for the purpose of refunding the issue of $2,000,000 of short term bonds falling due on December 1. Premier Foster, when asked about this matter said that an amount of more than $2,000,000 was falling due in December but that in what manner the government will place the new issue on the market has not yet been decided. He said that the bonds to be refunded have been issued from time to time for general purposes and that part of them were issued in 1914 for a term of five years, falling due in December of this year.
