

ACUTE NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

All Treatments Proved Useless Until He Tried "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

MR. JAS. S. DELGATY.

R.R. No. 4, Gilbert Plains, Man.
"In the year 1910, I had Nervous Prostration in its worst form; was reduced in weight from 170 pounds to 115 pounds.

The doctors had no hope of my recovery, and every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to take "Fruit-a-tives".

I began to mend almost at once; and after using this fruit medicine for 3 or 4 months, I was back to my normal state of health.

I never had such good health for twenty years as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' in the house'.

JAS. S. DELGATY.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ATTORNEYS REST CASE

New York, March 13.—Attorneys for the government today rested their case in the Federal court against Jeremiah A. O'Leary former publisher of the anti-British magazine Bull, after calling several witnesses in rebuttal of testimony offered by the defendant to refute the charge of violating the Espionage Act.

We saw a V-neck yesterday that seemed to be trying to cover a warm heart.

HON. MR. VENIOT LAYS BARE RECORD OF THE OPPOSITION

ing while standing on a stump. When the hon. member referred to "Stump Speakers" he probably meant him. He was not offended at the statement, and wished it understood that he was prepared at all times to meet the hon. member on the stump for a discussion on public questions.

The ex-Attorney General had expressed regret that more hon. members were not able to speak both languages. He (Veniot) was sorry more English people could not speak French. He hoped they would learn to do so, and if they needed assistance he would suggest that they call on the ex-Attorney General, who once a year went to a French Institution and made what he thought was a speech in the French language. He usually went there at night—so it would not become known to some of his friends, including the Gleaner and Standard. He had been informed that the hon. member contributed to the editorial columns of the Standard.

MR. BAXTER: That is not correct. HON. MR. VENIOT said he was glad to hear the hon. member say so, but he had been led to believe it was true because of the venom in the Standard's articles. He would not have dwelt upon the subject so long, had not his hon. friend made an attempt to ride the French horse. He (Veniot) had every respect for the English speaking people of New Brunswick, and felt sure that the great majority of them desired to live on terms of unity and harmony with the French. The speaker here quoted from an article published in the Fredericton Gleaner immediately after the general election of 1917, which made a strong attack on the French people of the province. The article stated that the election had placed the Acadians in control of provincial affairs, and had added that the people faced a serious condition of affairs.

HON. MR. VENIOT continuing said that when he looked across the floors of the House at the sanctimonious countenances of his hon. friends he was unable to believe that they really desired unity with the French people. They would not be able to convince him of their sincerity until they repudiated the slanderous articles which he had read in the Fredericton Gleaner. He wished to point out that the St. John paper of which his hon. friend was a director, had also published slanderous attacks on the French people, scarcely an issue of that paper appeared which did not contain in large headlines the words "Peter Veniot, the French Boss." He would be sorry to believe that the ex-Attorney General approved of such tactics, but it was done with the idea of pointing out to the English-speaking people that a Frenchman was filling a high position in the government of the province.

He wished to take issue with the statement that the Conservative Party was the first to recognize the rights of the French people in this province. It was true that the late Sir Pierre A. Landry was the first Acadian to occupy a seat in a government. That government was Conservative. The late Hon. A. G. Blair had recognized the right of the Acadian people when forming his government. His friend Hon. C. H. Labllois for many years represented the Acadians in the government prior to 1908. In that year the Hazen Government came into power and included in its membership Hon. Dr. Landry. When the Foster government came into power two years ago, the Premier recognized that justice should be done to the Acadian race owing to the large increase in their numbers, and gave them two positions in his cabinet. This was a Liberal government and the only one that had recognized to that full extent the rights of the French people. While he mentioned this matter he was aware that the Standard and Gleaner would come out and quote Veniot as saying that the French dominated the government. If they did so now it would not be consistent as the Attorney General was on record as saying that the French race deserved justice.

He had been interested in what the ex-Attorney General had said in regard to purity in elections. When he heard him advocate purity last session he felt that there must be something in the air and subsequent developments had convinced him that his suspicions were well founded. He trusted that the ex-Attorney General would never again allow the vault in his office to be used as a repository for boodle. He had been taught a useful lesson, and was now so repentant that the probably wished the Lenten season would come twice a year. The next thing he knew the hon. member would want to cross the floors of the House.

MR. BAXTER: Do you want me? HON. MR. VENIOT: We would welcome you as long as you behaved yourself. He had never seen such an exhibition of Kaiserism as had been put on by the ex-Attorney General. He thought at first it was a case of "Me und Gott." It had looked as if the time had arrived when the ex-Attorney General would almost thrust the Delfy

MAMMA! DON'T YOU SEE YOUR CHILD IS SICK, CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Move poisons from liver and bowels at once.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a small bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Co."

aside and take His place himself.

The hon. ex-Attorney General had referred to the fact that the twenty-one opposition seats were in the constituencies nearest the residence of Dr. Flemming. It was difficult to account for that but possibly it was on the principle that contamination is spread by diffusion. He believed that that was the real cause and lived in hope that after the contamination had been sufficiently diffused those counties would return to their first love and teach the gentlemen opposite the lesson they sorely needed. He believed he succeeded not too badly in exposing the deception of members of the opposition. He proceeded to devote some attention to one of their newspapers. He quoted from the St. John Standard March 7th an article relative to public meetings held in Carleton County in connection with the bridge across the St. John River between Kent and Wicklow. No more daring misstatement of fact ever appeared in a newspaper. It is true meetings had been held and reports of them had been sent to both Telegraph and Standard. The Telegraph had published it in full the Standard did not. The report showed that the Act under which the bridge was to be constructed had been passed in 1907 eleven years before the present Minister of Public Works took office. That Act had been passed by the Robinson Government which had been defeated the following March. The Hazen Government ordered a survey at Bath and passed an Amending Act to locate the bridge in the Parish of Wicklow. Under that Act another survey was made at Upper Kent and there the matter remained. Another survey at Beechwood was demanded by Mr. Flemming and Hon. John Morrissey Minister of Public Works at that time had replied by a letter now in the files of the Department that money for a survey was not available. The ex-Minister of Public Works on his return to the County of Carleton could explain that to the people. The secretary of those public meetings upon reading the article in the Standard had written to him (Veniot) a letter correcting it. He was pleased that there were fair minded people in the County of Carleton who would come to the defence of the Minister of Public Works when unfairly attacked. He wished to draw attention to the scurrilous attack on Royal Commissioner James McQueen in the speech by the ex-Attorney General. The language used by the hon. gentleman had not been worthy of him and he had lowered himself in the estimation of those who knew James McQueen to be a gentleman. The ex-Attorney General had been actuated by spleen and in his sober moments would regret the words that he had used. James McQueen was a gentleman of honor and integrity who in his activities in the sphere of the legal profession in which he moved had distinguished himself as much as had the ex-Attorney General in his. There was no question about Mr. McQueen's poetics but was it because he was a Liberal that the ex-Attorney said what he did.

MR. BAXTER: I don't.

HON. MR. VENIOT: Then you have no right to use the words you did.

MR. BAXTER: I base them entirely upon his conduct during the investigation.

HON. MR. VENIOT—When you were on the stand did he not use you as a gentleman?

MR. BAXTER—Absolutely.

HON. MR. VENIOT—Well you were not present at any other time.

MR. BAXTER—I base my remarks on information I received.

HON. MR. VENIOT—You got your information from the Standard's report which was most unfair and misleading.

MR. BAXTER—I was informed by F. R. Taylor.

HON. MR. VENIOT—A shareholder of the Standard.

Continuing the Minister of Public Works said it was curious that another lawyer took over Mr. Taylor's duties after he said he could not continue them. Mr. Taylor merely wanted to get out of the mess in which he found himself. The attempt to belittle Mr. McQueen in the eyes of the public was for the purpose of injuring the effect of his report whatever it might be. It ill became the ex-Attorney General to belittle another member of the bar. It did not uphold the dignity of the law or of the House.

THE SOLDIER SETTLEMENT BOARD CANADA

Returned Soldiers

who desire to SETTLE ON THE LAND and receive assistance under THE SOLDIER SETTLEMENT ACT must first satisfy their

District Agricultural Qualification Committee that they are qualified as "Settlers" within the meaning of the Act, and receive a Certificate of Qualification

before they may enjoy the full provisions of the Act. Every returned soldier who expects the Soldier Settlement board to assist him in settling on the land should ascertain at once whether or not he is qualified. This applies also to all men who have already received an "Attestation" from the Board.

Agricultural Training Courses will be available for men who, while otherwise qualified, lack sufficient agricultural experience.

WE were among the first to put up tea in sealed packages.

We were the first to use automatic electric weighing machines so as to insure accurate weights.

We were the first to make known the qualities of the now world-famous ASSAM teas.

And we are now the first to adopt a new package for the better protection of these fine quality teas.

The lead package has served its purpose well for generations, but it was easily broken or torn, allowing not only a loss of tea from the package but exposing the tea to the air, odors and dust that it was so necessary to protect the tea against.

Our new package—the waxed board carton—is stronger, more secure and more completely air tight; altogether the best container for tea that has yet been devised.
