GREAT PEACE CONGRESS IS NOW OPEN IN PARIS

Eyes of the Civilized World Now Centred on the French Capital—Premier Clemenceau is Elected Permanent Chairman—Accepts the Honor in a Brilliant Speech—Proceedings Opened with a Blare of Trumpets.

Paris, Jan. 19—The peace congress destined to be historic and on which the eyes of the world are now centred was opened yesterday afternoon in the great Salle de la Paix. The proceedings, which were confined to the election of Georges Clemenceau, the French Premier, as permanent chairman of the conference; an address of welcome by the president of the French Republic, Raymond Poincare, and speeches by President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Baron Sonnino, were characterized by expressions of lasting friendship and the apparent determination of the representatives of the various nations to come to an amicable understanding with respect to the problems to be decided by the conference.

When President Poincare spoke the entire assembly stood and the fact that according to custom, no applause greeted his utterances gave greater solemnity to the scene.

Premier Clemenceau's acceptance of the presidency of the congress was both an expression of personal gratitude and a definite outline of the great questions immediately ahead. Three of these larger general subjects he defined as responsibility for the war, responsibility for crimes during the war, and international labor legislation. The league of nations, he declared was at the end of the programme for the next full session.

"Our ambition is a great and notable one," said M. Clemenceau. "We wish to avoid a repetition of the catastrophe which bathed the world in blood. If the league of nations is to be practicable we must all remain united. Let us carry out our programme quickly and in an effective manner."

Referring to the authors of the war, he said, he had consulted two eminent jurists on the penal responsibility of the former German Emperor, and each delegate would receive a copy of that report.

Seventy-Two Seats

In all seventy-two seats were provided for the opening session of the peace conference. On the outer side of the great horse-shoe table were arranged the Japanese, the British and colonial delegates, and the seat for the fifth British delegate. A chair for the fifth American delegate was reserved immediately to the right of the table of honor.

The Italian, Belgian, Brazilian, Cuban, Haitian, Peruvian, Portuguese, Serbian, Czecho-Slovakian and Uruguayan delegates sat in the order named. Across at the left wing of the table sat the Siamese, Roumanian, Polish, Liberian, Hedjaz, Guatemalan, Equadorean, Chinese and Bolivian delegations.

As the delegations arrived they were made known by fanfares of trumpets and accorded military honors by the troops. The Japanese were among the earlier arrivals and were followed by the Siamese and East Indians in picturesque turbans.

President Wilson's Arrival

President Wilson arrived at ten minutes to three. He was conducted to the council room by M. Pichon, the French foreign minister, where greetings were exchanged with the British and many other delegates.

Just at 3 o'clock a ruffle of drums and blare of trumpets announced the approach of M. Poincare. The French president was escorted by the group of premiers to the head of the table while the hush fell upon the assembly.

blage as the moment arrived for the opening of the congress.

It was exactly three minutes past three when M. Poincare began his address and the peace congress came into being. The entire assemblage stood as the president spoke. M. Poincare spoke in an earnest, easy manner, without declamatory effect.

M. Poincare spoke in French, and when he had concluded an interpreter read the presidential discourse in the English.

As M. Poincare closed he turned to receive the congratulations of President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George and then withdrew, greeting each delegate as he retired. President Poincare closed his address at 3.25 o'clock.

President Wilson rose as M. Poincare made his exit and nominated Premier Clemenceau for chairman of the congress. The nomination was seconded by Premier Lloyd George in an earnest tribute to the French premier.
