OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

WHAT A HEN CAN EARN.

Can 300 hens return a profit of $1,000 in one year? A Connecticut poultry specialist insists that it can be done in that state. To prove it he is planning to work with four clubs of boys and girls during the next year. If the boys and girls can make poultry pay, Prof. Jones believes there will be no grounds left on which to dispute the hen's claim as a profitable investment.

The plan is to interest a club of at least ten boys or girls in a poultry raising. It will be known as the $1,000 poultry club. The ten members must own a total of at least 300 and not more than 500 hens, although there is no provision as to the way the number is to be distributed among the club members. The children will be expected to handle their flocks under the direction of the poultry specialist.

The project is limited to four clubs because it will be impossible to give proper direction to a larger number. The clubs will meet once each month and the children will be expected to keep cost accounts and to bring their figures of expenses and sales to each meeting.

WINTER TIME RECIPES.

Cheese Fondue.

One cup soft stale bread crumbs, ¼ lb. mild cheese (¾ cup grated), 1 cup scalded milk, 1 tablespoonful fat, ½ teaspoonful salt, 3 eggs. Mix first five ingredients; add yolks of egg beaten thoroughly. Cut and fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs; pour into oiled baking dish; bake about 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Cabbage and Celery Salad.

Beat well together 5 tablespoonfuls of vinegar, 4 tablespoonfuls oil, one tablespoon of chili sauce, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of mustard and ¼ teaspoon of pepper, pour the mixture over 2½ cups of chopped cabbage and 1 cup of finely cut celery, mix thoroughly, let stand one hour and garnish with stuffed olives before serving.

Potato Gingerbread.

One cup mashed potatoes, ¾ cup cornmeal, ¾ cup barley flour, 1 teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, half teaspoon cloves, half cup sour milk, 1 cup molasses, 2 tablespoons fat, 1 egg. Sift together the dry ingredients, combine the mashed potatoes, molasses, melted fat, milk and beaten egg. Add the liquid ingredients to the dry; stir well; turn into a greased shallow pan. Bake in a moderate oven.

Pot Roast.

Put into a deep kettle some suet or other fat and a medium sized onion cut up. In this thoroughly brown your meat (about three or four pounds of beef) turning it from side to side so all sides are brown and seared. Season with salt and pepper before browning. Then add four cups of boiling water or enough to almost cover; add half a bay leaf and six or eight whole cloves. Cover tightly and let cook slowly three hours.

The gravy should then be cooked down and browned. It may need a bit of thickening. Strain gravy before serving. This is very nice.

Cup Cakes.

One cup of sugar, small tablespoon of butter, one egg, one cup of milk, one and a half cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla. Mix in order given. Do not beat the egg, but mix it with butter and sugar. Bake in gem pans and frost with chocolate or white frosting. Currants may be added if liked.

Corp. Roy Feeney Home

Sussex Record: Corp. Roy Feeney who spent twenty-nine months in German prison camps, and for a time was interned in Holland, who returned home from overseas last week, reached here on Saturday, and is being warmly greeted by his many friends. Corp. Feeney who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Feeney, went overseas in the 6th C. M. R. in 1915 and served about eleven months in the trenches prior to his being made a prisoner. An interesting interview with Corp. Feeney regarding his prison life which is held over this week for want of space will appear in next week's Record. Corp. Feeney is looking well, but his nervous system is much run down by his experiences in German detention camps. (Corp. Feeney enlisted in Fredericton and worked here as a presser for several years.)

PTE. DANNY PROVED THAT MUSIC CHARMS

Chicago News.

Music is a kind of a funny thing after all. A fellow will let some fool tune of other haunt him half his life and it will stick close to him just like a wart on his nose.

Even in war times music is always singing around making a doughboy happy and sad by turns. Sometimes you wish there wasn't any at all and then the very next night you'll just naturally turn up your toes and pass out if you don't hear some right away.

But I guess about the funniest story of music that's been told in this war is what happened to a doctor in one of the guard regiments. The way he happened to tell it was one night when he was in a Y. M. C. A. hut near the front and somebody started to play Poor Butterfly on the phonograph.

"I wish you'd put on another record if you don't mind so awful much?" the medico asked real nice—and then to sort of make good he told his yarn.

"Maybe you won't think I'm so foolish if that tune was sticking in your mind like it is in mine," he went on.

"I was running a first aid station right behind front line trenches and one night we had a h—l of a raid preceded by a terrific bombardment. It was more than a raid—it was an attack. Of course I had my little dugout filled with wounded before I knew it. And then, so help me, the shells began falling right on me. One clogged up my one door and the stairs leading down to it, and there we were penned like so many rats in a trap ready for the huns to capture us when they came over.

"I had two assistants down there with me and the rest of the fifteen were wounded men. It was dark and half the roof had fallen in and the only way we could escape was to dig our way out. I put my two good men doing that and I started in trying to dress the wounds in the dark. Then I happened to think of the little phonograph I had there so I cranked it up and got a fellow who wasn't hurt so very bad to keep it running. We could only find one record, so we played that over and over again. Hours, it seemed to me, it went on while I tried to help those injured men lying there in the darkness.

"I don't think I could have stood to have heard that tune one more time when my two men worked their way out and then we lifted up our wounded. A little ambulance stood near the dugout and it was blown apart, but it would still run, so we piled our wounded in there, made two trips back three miles to safety, and got them all out. All the while that tune was running through my mind, and it still haunts me. It was 'Poor Butterfly.'"

It is to be noticed that a lot of discharged soldiers have almost gone back into civilian costume, but not quite. They still retain the wrist watch.

Now that the Kaiser is out of a job he can devote himself to wearing out some of the fine clothes he was so fond of collecting.

MAY AVENGE
THE DEATH OF LIEBKNECHT

London, Jan. 17.—There are apprehensions in Berlin of a general strike and uprisings to avenge the death of Dr. Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, the Spartacan leaders, according to a Copenhagen despatch. It is doubtful if the elections to the National Assembly can be held on Sunday because of the tremendous excitement.

Several more Spartacan leaders have been arrested, but the former chief of police, Eichorn is still at large.

MURDERER
SENTENCED

Haileybury, Ont. Jan. 18.—For the murder of Theodore Taylor on the night of May 24, or on the morning of May 25, Charles Cooper was sentenced late last night by Mr. Justice Logie to be hanged on April 18.

Joshua Fuller and Lyman Morrison who pleaded guilty to robbery with violence, were sentenced to fourteen and ten years respectively.

Taylor was found at an early hour on the morning of May 25, in a dying condition lying in a pool of blood in his bed. He was killed by a big birch club.
