N. B. WATER POWERS.

An excellent contribution on the subject of a cheaper power was presented to the public by Mr. C. O. Foss, C. E., of Rothesay, in a paper which he read at the engineering convention in St. John this week. Mr. Foss has made an examination of available water powers in the vicinity of Fredericton and believes that sufficient power for the needs of Fredericton can be generated on the Pokiook and Shogomoc Rivers. The following summary of his paper is of particular interest to this city:

"With reference to the power possibilities of New Brunswick, he said that it was considered by the people generally that there are no power possibilities of any value outside the Grand Falls of the St. John river and the very moderate possibility of the Grand Falls of Nipisiquit. He said that the centres of population, requiring and not present supplied with hydro-electric power, were Fredericton and vicinity, St. John and vicinity and the towns of the North Shore, Chatham and Campbellton. Other towns in the province such as Moncton and Woodstock, had either gas or electric power. Referring to the requirements of Fredericton, he said these were two streams, the Pokiook and the Shogomoc, falling into the St. John river above Fredericton, following a highway which parallels the river. The Shogomoc falls three hundred feet in the last two miles, and the Pokiook falls two hundred feet in one and a half miles and one hundred feet more in about five hundred feet. He said that both these streams have excellent opportunities for storage, as they drain a country which is comparatively flat to a point about two miles from the St. John river, and there is therefore opportunity for storing large quantities of water by the building of comparatively inexpensive dams. He claimed that these two streams, if fully developed, with all possible storage provided, would yield at least 7,000 horse-power for twenty-four hours, or, assuming that the working day of the future will be eight hours, they will yield 21,000 horse-power. The pondage at the different plants is sufficient to take care of the fluctuations. He said the plan was to develop a small unit on the lower one hundred foot drop of the Pokiook protected by the storage already provided by the existing dam at the outlet of Lake George, and that this would give power enough to cover the present requirements of Fredericton. When this is outgrown, the 200 foot fall can be developed, and when that has been absorbed the Shogomoc can be developed."

A plan to harness and develop the water powers of the Pokiook and the Shogomoc is now on foot and it to be sincerely hoped that it will be carried through to a successful issue. Mr. Foss is personally interested in the enterprise and we believe has the energy and experience necessary to put it through.

A ROYAL LESSON.

"At Montreal, as well as Quebec, the Prince of Wales spoke in excellent French when replying, in each instance to the mayor's expressions of welcome on behalf of the citizens," says Le Pays. "Throughout the lunch which was tendered to him at Montreal, His Royal Highness carried on a conversation in French with Archbishop Bruchési and other French-Canadians sitting near him, speaking English as the occasion arose, when addressing English-speaking citizens. In this the Prince set us a good example to follow in order that the union of the two races may be realized. With tact and delicacy the Prince of Wales has given a splendid lesson to the fanatics who are to be met among both races of the people who are called to make Canada a nation united, prosperous and happy. The popularity which His Royal Highness has enjoyed since he set foot on Canadian soil indicates that the lesson has been understood, and will produce splendid results."

of Lieut. Governor Pugsley, the pleasant duty of opening the Provincial Exhibition here on Saturday afternoon fell to the lot of Hon. J. F. Tweeddale, Minister of Agriculture. The Minister acquitted himself well and his practical address was followed with close attention by the large crowd present. A report of his remarks will be found in another part of this issue.

St. John Globe: Fredericton calls the people of New Brunswick next week to an exhibition. Fredericton exhibitions are always worth while, and Fredericton itself is now looking its prettiest, which is only another way of saying that there is no prettier place than Fredericton. St. John attendance at the Fredericton Exhibition should be large.

Calgary Albertan: The Prince of Wales has an idea that he will see the day when the Canadian Parliament will have as wide an influence as the Imperial Parliament. His vision is clear and his reasoning good. Canada should have a population as large as Britain before the Prince of Wales is forty years older than he is today.

The Provincial Exhibition got away to a good start on Saturday evening. It is a splendid show—easily the best ever—and if the weather man is any ways considerate there is pretty sure to be a record-breaking attendance.

You will perhaps notice there is an exhibition on.

The optimist is there, expecting to win a dollar by investing a dime.

On the Midway, watch out for the stranger who will take you in.

Talent is one thing; tact is everything.

The girl who looks good isn't necessarily good looking.

Some people make a specialty of believing the impossible.

The age of romance for a woman is anywhere between 6 and 65.

An ounce of prevention is worth a book full of apologies.

After trying in vain to shorten or abbreviate the word exhibition, the Yankees simply call it a fair.

It is easy for a man to manage his wife. All he has to do is to follow her instructions.

One-half the world knows more about how the other half lives than it is willing to confess.

Even the man who is in no particular hurry to get anywhere frequently makes the excuse that he didn't stop to think.

"It's got so," says an old friend, "that a fellow can't save any money without doing something." While this is perfectly true, we hold to the opinion that it always was the case.

Considering that they are wiping on brand new towels, wearing brand new shoes and cooking in brand new pots and pans, newly married folks get along pretty well after all.

HIS BRIDAL NIGHT HAD BIG HOUSE

A large audience witnessed the performance of "His Bridal Night" at the City Opera House Saturday night. The play proved a most laughable farce comedy with music interspersed. The first act was spoiled by inability on the part of many to hear what was being said on the stage but as the play progressed that defect was rectified. The dancing of the Crisp Sisters was greatly appreciated by the audience as were also the musical numbers. Twin sisters one of which has just become a bride were the feature about which the comedy revolved, the groom being made to start his honeymoon with the wrong twin. The comic situations which resulted were most laughable.

Frank Cullen as the butler Albert and Robert Knight as Joe Damoral and Charles Bennett as Lent Trevett were frequently applauded.

Exhibition Freaks Here.
Some of the side-shows for the Exhibition are already on the grounds and the occupants of some of them, including the proverbial giantess, a colored lady, and a dwarf, Baron Pancci, who is at the Queen. When seen on Queen street they aroused the interest of the pedestrians to a great extent.

Tried to Force Entrance
When three men tried to force an entrance to a house in the western end of Charlotte Street Sunday night a lively fight ensued between them and others who happened along. The scrap finished soon after it started with a number of black eyes and several other marks being pretty evenly distributed among the combatants.
