"Pape's Diapepsin" at once
ends Indigestion, Gases,
Sourness, Acidity

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

When your meals don't fit and you feel uncomfortable, when you belch gases, acids or raise sour, undigested food. When you feel lumps of indigestion pain, heartburn or headache, from acidity, just eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the stomach distress is gone.

Millions of people know the magic of Pape's Diapepsin as an antacid. They know that indigestion and disordered stomach are so needless. The relief comes quickly, no disappointment, and they cost so little too.

MANURE FROM POULTRY THE BEST OF ALL

Agricultural text books and bulletins contain many analyses and much information respecting the manures of the larger farm live stock, but the matter of poultry manure has received scant attention in investigatory work and farm literature. Probably the chief reason for this has been the thought that poultry manure, on the ordinary farm, is not produced in sufficient quantities to make its consideration of any practical importance. It will not be difficult to demonstrate that poultry manure may be a valuable, if not a large, asset on the farm and that with those making poultry keeping a specialty it ought to be regarded as a by-product which can measurably increase profits.

Poultry manure is undoubtedly the richest manure produced on the farm. In common with all other manures it has not a fixed composition, but the fact that the liquid and solid excreta are voided together as a moist mass insures against the loss from drainage of urine, unavoidable to some degree with the larger domestic animals, and explains in part its high nitrogen content. Another reason for its richness in nitrogen and phosphoric acid may be found in the character of the feed used. This is especially true with respect to laying stock, to which it is customary to feed meat scraps, green bone and similar products with high percentages of nitrogen and phosphoric acid.

The Division of Chemistry has recently analysed a series of samples of poultry manure, collected without litter or absorbent, produced in the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, obtaining results given in the following table. For the purposes of comparison the average composition of various farm manures, excreta plus bedding, (fresh) is appended.

From these data it may be concluded that, speaking generally, poultry manure as deposited beneath the roost is from two to three times richer in nitrogen and three to eight times richer in phosphoric acid, than the ordinary farm manures. On the basis that the excreta that can be collected beneath the roosts per annum per adult fowl, amounts to twenty-five pounds—a conservative estimate—the value of the plant food in the manure from a flock of twenty-five hens that can be obtained and employed for garden or field use per annum, at pre-war prices of the fertilizing elements, would be $2.31. At present prices the value would be approximately $4.00.

Poultry manure ferments very quickly, losing, if left exposed, a large proportion of its nitrogen as ammonia.

IRISH PEOPLE WILL REJECT THE HOME RULE BILL

Dublin, Dec. 23—The Irish Times says that for many reasons "some good some bad, some wise and some mad," three quarters of the Irish people will reject the bill.

"Its principle is hateful alike to the Unionists and Nationalists," the news paper says. "They know national ideals and the ancestral spirit of a common patriotism cannot persist in a divided country. They know the fantastic homogeneity which the government proposes for Ulster Unionists would be an excrescence on the map of Ireland and would be ruinous to the trade and industry of the northern provinces. We yearn for peace but in the Lloyd George offer we see not peace, but the sword."

The Freeman's Journal says Lloyd George in the absence of every representative of the majority of the Irish people, explained to the House his panacea for the ills of Ireland.

"Even the few Irish Nationalist members who have survived the Prime Minister's past treacheries and betrayals absented themselves," the newspaper continues. "They probably had a forecast that their gesture of contempt would be warmly approved by the whole Irish nation and race. As a matter of fact, they were merely obeying the command of their dead leader, given when he said they withdrew from the House upon the first declaration of the Premier's intention to permanently partition their country."
