ARMOUR ASKED
FOR A WHOLE
WARDROBE

(Chicago News)

J. Ogden Armour, leading backer appreciates the philanthropy of the Builders and Traders' exchange in passing the hat to buy his shoes, but feels that their generosity might be extended to supplying him with a full wardrobe, which he says he needs badly. In his letter to John J. Sullivan, president of the exchange he encloses a list of articles of clothing which he would like to have the kindly builders contribute.

Mr. Armour's letter follows:

"My dear Mr. Sullivan: I learned on reading this morning's paper of the intention of the Builders and Traders' exchange to send me a pair of shoes. I am enclosing my address so that by no chance will the shoes go astray. Your touching indorsement of the principle of conservation is much appreciated.

"When I peruse the bids which have been submitted by the Builders and Traders on various building projects in which I am interested, and when I note how high these bids are, I marvel that your generosity stops at a mere pair of shoes. It seems to me that such a prospect as your bids indicate me to be is deserving of a little more attention. It is as though you were asking me to the movies, when the circumstances warrant a box at 'The Passing Show.'

"Instead of stopping with a pair of shoes why not present me with a wardrobe for a year? My wants are very reasonable because I regard clothes from a utilitarian standpoint rather than the decorative. One overcoat usually lasts me for two years when I must have a new one. You will not need to buy me a hat because the felt one which I have used for the last five years is still in good condition and the application of a little black ink now and then enables me to use the derby which I like so well and which feels so comfortable on my head.

"Ordinarily, I am content with two suits of cloth each year and you will not need to pay more than $75 each for them, because I am not keen for fancy stuff. My other needs may be summed up like this:

One straw hat at $3.
Six shirts at $5 each.
Three neckties at $1 each.
Six suits of underwear (I find part wool and part cotton more comfortable than all wool.)

Two dozen pairs of black hosiery socks
Two pairs of silk socks for state occasions.

You need not bother with such things as handkerchiefs or collars because I am pretty well fixed in this respect.

I may seem a little immodest in thus making known my annual requirements in wearing apparel but I feel sure from the newspaper reports of your meeting, that the Builders and Traders do not want to be regarded as 'pikers.'

Please convey my best regards to the exchange and ask them to excuse me for thus calling their attention to the mediocrity of their well intended gift.

"Very truly yours, J.O. ARMOUR."

Say That Again, Please.
