

OTHER TABLETS NOT ASPIRIN AT ALL

Only Tablets Marked with the "Bayer Cross" are Genuine Aspirin—Others Acid Imitations

"Bayer" Now Canadian Made—No German Interest—All Rights Purchased from U. S. Government

Aspirin means made by Bayer—has meant this for over eighteen years.
The only genuine Aspirin!

The world's greatest physicians, jealous of their own reputation and careful of the health of their patients, prescribe "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin."

Aspirin is not German but is made in Canada, by Canadians, and is owned by a Canadian company. Unless you see the safety "Bayer Cross" on package and on tablets you are not getting Aspirin at all!

Look for the "Bayer Cross"! Then it is real Aspirin.

Don't accept Aspirin in a pill box. Buy a "Bayer Package"!

There is no substitute for genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin," which have been proved safe by millions for Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Grippe, Joint Pains, Neuritis.

Proper and safe directions are in every "Bayer" package.

Boxes of 12 tablets—Bottles of 24—Bottles of 100—Also Capsules.

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoceticacid ester of Salicylic acid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

DANGERS OF SPECULATION IN THESE DAYS OF RECONSTRUCTION

With the war over and with easy financial conditions among farmers and certain classes of workmen, the insidious temptation to speculation is again brought into prominence by those always ready to supply the means.

All kinds of highly speculative stocks are now being offered for sale. The prospectuses are composed of enticing arguments showing how a stock at a few cents per share may return the investor many hundred per cent.

It is only necessary to ask the question: If these stocks are so valuable and so promising, why does it require so much effort to dispose of them? Further, some of these stock jobbers are offering to accept—and would be very glad to do so—Victory bonds in exchange for their stock certificates, although Victory bonds draw but 5½ per cent interest. These adroit manipulators are wise enough to know what is really a good investment; they have no faith in the stocks they offer for sale.

It is of great importance in these days of reconstruction that the people should practice thrift and not throw their money away on worthless enterprises. By thrift is meant not hoarding but the wise investment of surplus capital. There are plenty of gilt-edged stocks and bonds earning 6 per cent, or better.
For example, cities which have had to curtail their expenditures during the war are now floating loans to catch up with arrears of necessary public improvements. These loans are offered at attractive rates of interest and the man with money to invest can, besides profitably placing his funds, thus aid in one necessary branch of reconstruction work.

Even very small sums today can be advantageously invested by buying War Savings Stamps which give a return of 5 per cent compound interest, $4.00 will only amount to $4.63 at the end of the 5th year, instead of $5.00 as offered by the plan of buying the Government stamps.

THE RUMOR MONGER HAS A BUSY TIME

I am the Rumor Monger.

Borne on the winds of Hades from the Halls of His Satanic Majesty, I wander amid you credulous mortals and spread dissension.

Suspicion and envy are my body-guards, and I am the sworn enemy of Industrial Content.

From North to South, and from East to West, I carry my whisperings to the ears of the workers and I revel in hellish delight in the social unrest that I bring about.

I am the devoted follower Ananias, and oh, how I hate the Truth!

I delight in fanning the red flames of anarchy with the seeds of malcontent.

My propaganda is conceived in restless minds and given shape and life by fertile imaginations. Veracity and facts are strangers to me, and I seek only the ears of the impressionable sons of Adam. Sometimes I almost blush at the ease with which I arouse their suspicions through my airy vap-orings, and I am forced to admit that

A SEPARATION GRANTED.

silent working of "Putnam's" are corns separated from aching toes.

a thrill of pride runs through me from the tips of my pointed ears to the end of my tail.

Whenever I begin operations, production immediately slackens, for my limps are indefatigable in their efforts to obstruct.

After the first injection of my serum willing muscles lose their pep, and a frown replaces the smile of contentment.

My campaign thus far in the world has been fairly successful, and if the workers who are possessed with common sense and wisdom do not expose my methods I expect to be decorated upon my return with the Medal of Dissension and Legion of Untruth by His Satanic Majesty, the King of Hades, the last ruling survivor of the House of Beelzebub.

Some men are more afraid of being reformed than of being shot.

It is a great waste of effort to pretend to be richer and more elegant than one really is, for nobody is ever hoodwinked except the pretender.

Confessions of an Every-Day Wife By Idah McGlone Gibson ELIENE LOSES HER COURAGE.

It seemed to me that everyone in town had loved Mother Eliene. I took it upon myself to answer the 'phone, receive the flowers and talk to the callers.

Aunt Margie's grief seemed to me the most heartfelt of all; their lives had been so closely intertwined and Mother Symone had been one of the few remaining who were thoroughly acquainted with Aunt Margie's first romance. Every time I went into the room where Mother Eliene lay I would find Aunt Margie bending over her. She was not as demonstrative in her grief as was Eliene, but it seemed to me she had received a hurt from which she would never recover.

It was very pathetic to see Uncle Jim Edie trying to comfort his wife. I am sure that Aunt Margie's second husband has never given her a moment's sorrow or anxiety, and yet I am almost sure that down deep in her heart she wished for the young lover-husband and his impulsive words of comfort at this time. I was very glad when Aunt Margie confided to me that Richard Waverly III and his bride were on their way home as I knew this would help her to bear the pain of separation from Mother Eliene. You can trust Dick to furnish enough diversion to keep his mother busy.

After all that Eliene had said about mourning I was really much surprised to find her closeted with her dressmaker and milliner and hearing her order the most elaborate habiliments of sorrow and she seemed rather surprised when I quietly said I would not dress differently than usual.

"But Margot, you loved mother, didn't you?" she asked.

"Too much," I answered "to make a display of it." Instantly I was sorry for having spoken so brusquely, but my nerves, too, had been subjected to a good deal of strain, not only the last few days, but ever since Theo had returned.

"I am sorry, Eliene," I said quickly. "I didn't mean to hurt you, but you and I have always said so much against the custom of wearing mourning that it rather surprised me when I found that at the first opportunity you go into it so deeply."

"I know I'm not consistent, Margot," answered Eliene, "but somehow I feel that I can do so little to show that I have loved and lost so much."

"That's just it, Eliene, dear," I began, and then I stopped, for I knew that now was not the time to tell Eliene that after all all our love, all our grief, all our joy, all our hate, was just one continuous show.

If we could take from our consciousness the everlasting bugbear "what will people think" and get away from the desire to impress people whom we do not know and would not care for if we did, many little hypocrisies and conventions would slip away from us like a cast-off cloak. So habitual have these little conventions and hypocrisies become that we do not recognize them ourselves. We call them "respectability," whereas if we but knew it one can never find respectability in the speech of others; it must grow only in our own consciousness.

I had a very great sympathy, however, for Eliene. I realized just how she felt in the matter. Knowing these last sad tributes were all that could be paid her dead mother, she was anxious that not one should be in any way slighted or forgotten. She had but forgotten the satirical inconsistency of donning mourning, thereby announcing to the world: "I grieve," and some time discarding it and consequently saying, "I have ceased to grieve."

Grief, like love, is too sacred a thing to be shared with every passer-by.

C.P.R. OFFICIAL HONORED

THE appointment of Lt.
Col. G. Mc-Laren Brown as Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire is the result of the very fine services rendered by the European Manager of the C. P. R. to the British Government, for whom he acted as Assistant Director of Transport during the last three years of the war.
"G. McL." as he is popularly known, both in Canada and the Old Country, is the son of Adam Brown of Hamilton, Ontario, and was born in 1865.
In 1887 he was appointed agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Vancouver, promoted five years later to be Asst.
General Passenger Agent, Western Division, and subsequently became in turn Executive Agent, Superintendent of Hotels, and Dining and Sleeping Car Dept., and General Passenger Agent C. P. R. Atlantic Steamship Lines. In 1908 he was appointed General European Traffic Agent, and in 1910 General European Manager, with head offices at 62-5 Charing Cross, London, S.W.

Col. George McLaren Brown, says a friend writing in the "Montreal Gazette," is one of those rare men whose friendships are equal to the number of their acquaintances. To all in that wide circle the announcement of the new honor which has been conferred upon him comes as pleasant and very welcome news. It is a recognition of qualities and services which they all know him to possess and to have rendered. The reputation which he enjoyed in Canada, not alone in the railway world, has been enhanced in proportion to his larger opportunities as European Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway in London, and the value of his service in the organization and direction of troop transportation during the war can hardly be overstated. It was as successful as it was onerous, and although given with no other thought than that of duty, was none the less deserving of recognition now accorded. It was but one, if the chief of his war activities, which were in fact as varied as were the demands upon his help and counsel.
In all this McLaren Brown has been true in both impulse and action to the stock of which he comes. Similar impulses, finding similar expression having regard to place and circumstances, have characterized the long and honorable career of Adam Brown, his father, now and for many years postmaster at Hamilton. Active and successful in commercial life, a pioneer in railway development, and one of the fathers of the National Policy, Adam Brown at ninety-six, is still young in spirit, giving largely of his time and substance in philanthropy, and to the support of war relief organizations.
As is the father, so is the son, strong in his undertakings and, withal a thoughtful, kindly gentleman.

Sir George McL. Brown.
