Irritable Nerves Restored and Health Regained in a Simple Way

The man or woman who is run-down, not feeling up to the mark, perhaps irritable, nervous or sleepless can well afford to learn about the wonderful results the newly discovered blood-food is giving to folks that use it.

There is wonderful power in this new blood-food, and every weak, pallid person can be quickly nourished back to health that uses it as directed.

After each meal, with a sip or two of water, you simply take two little chocolate-coated tablets, sold in all drug stores under the name of "FERROZONE."

The effect is noticeable at once. You feel happier, brighter, more contented. That old-time feeling of weariness departs—you forget your "nerves" and no longer get irritable or cross over trifling annoyances.

There is a reason for this change and that reason consists of the fact that Ferrozone contains blood-making materials you can get in no other way. Ferrozone makes the blood tingle and sing with new vitality. This ensures lots of nourishment and strength being supplied to every part of the body.

No wonder the eyes brighten and the cheeks radiate color and happiness: With abundance of strength, a keen appetite, good digestion and plenty of sound sleep—all the result of Ferrozone—you quickly feel as if life held new charms and pleasures.

At sixteen a girl tries to win a man's heart by dazzling him; at twenty by "luring" him and at 30 by flattering him; when if she had just started by "mothering" him she could have dispensed with all the rest.

Most men who rush into marriage are blinded not so much by love as by the fascinating street car advertisements depicting perfectly marcelled ladies in pink negligees doing their own cooking.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER HAD A POETIC TEMPERAMENT

His Felicity of Expression, Which Gave Him Power to Sway the Multitude, Came From the Study of the Masters of English Verse and Prose—Was Steeped in the Traditions of British Liberalism—His First Knowledge of English Acquired in the Household of a Scot.

(Toronto Globe.)

Canadians mourn today the greatest Canadian of his generation, stricken amid the manifold activities that were his as leader of the Opposition. Sir Wilfrid died in harness—the representative to the very end of the people in whose service he had spent almost fifty years of his life. In that long span of time there had been alternations of success and failure, of victory and defeat, of the flowing tide and ebb of popularity, but vicissitudes of fortune never affected the mental serenity of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In the intimacies of confidential intercourse few men ever saw the chief of the Liberal party moved to anger, and none ever heard an unworthy word pass from his lips. His English, acquired when he was but a lad in the household of a Scot who lived near his father's home at St. Lin, was the stately tongue that had its highest expression in the Bible of the Authorized Version. Among the Proverbs he must have found the words that became the rule of his conduct through life: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city."

Poetic Eloquence.

The eloquence of Sir Wilfrid had its root in a poetic temperament that blossomed early and never withered, but the felicity of expression that gave him his power to sway the multitude came largely from the study of the masters of English prose. He was steeped in the tradition of British Liberalism, and in all his projects for political and social reform was governed by the belief that too much exercise of authority must always be a far greater hindrance to the ordered progress of a free people than too little. It was for this reason rather than because of hostility to progress or of a failure to appreciate the trench of the times that Sir Wilfrid sometimes stood out against the progressive programs presented by colleagues in the government and opposition.

Those of his old friends and associates who parted with him on the conscription issue recognized that in his opposition to that measure Sir Wilfrid felt he was following along the line of historic Liberalism, and had no confidence that if he cast loose into the tide he would ever again find so good a mooring.

Knowing his habit of thought, there was no bitterness on the part of those who could no longer follow, and who believed that in a world where all things were changing with inconceivable rapidity, Liberalism could not remain immovable and unresponsive.

A Place in History.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's place in history is secure. There are relatively few outstanding names in the political annals of post-Confederation Canada. MacDonald, Brown, Mowat, Cartier, Tupper, Mackenzie, Blake, Cartwright, Thompson, Fielding, and Borden have been the leading men of public affairs. Among them MacDonald and Brown alone held in the popular mind the place of undisputed leadership that for almost thirty years has been Laurier's.

He shared with MacDonald the quality of making personal friends of his political foes. From the Government benches will come tributes to his worth as sincere and heartfelt as those of his political associates. The House of which for a generation he has been the most distinguished member will be strangely different when Laurier's seat is filled by another. His place in the hearts of his countrymen cannot be filled until many years have passed. There is left in the public life of the Dominion no man who can wear with dignity the mantle of Sir Wilfrid.

Influence For Good

And none can hope to win or hold the unique place in the love and admiration of the French-Canadians that has been his since the far-off days when he first entered the Legislature of Quebec. Papineau, Lafontaine, Cartier, Dorian, Joly De Lotbiniere, Chaplain, Mercier, Bourassa, and Gouin have all in their time and place left their imprint upon the people of French Canada, but it is no exaggeration to say that the influence of Laurier has been greater than that of any other popular leader since the Cession. And Sir Wilfrid's influence in Quebec has been unmistakably for good. He fought a good fight against clerical

ALL CHILDREN LOVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious, for bad breath or sour stomach.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

domination when political Liberalism was anathema in high places. He strove manfully against the separatist tendencies that were disclosed during the Mercier regime. He was the spokesman of national unity in season and out of season. He risked all in Quebec in opposition to the coercion of Manitoba at a time when an English-speaking Protestant Premier was prepared to force separate schools upon the unwilling people of that Province.

He stood for a better understanding with the United States throughout the perilous days of the fisheries and boundary controversies. During his Premiership the foundations were laid for the good relations that now exist between Canada and the United States relations which made participation by the Republic in the war for freedom much less difficult than it would have been had a hostile Canada been regarded with aversion at Washington as the output on this continent of an Imperialistic Britain.

Peace, unity, religious liberty, racial harmony, ordered progress—these were the outstanding notes of Sir Wilfrid's career. May those who come after him in the leadership of Canadian Liberalism keep their shields as bright as that which Sir Wilfrid Laurier has laid down.

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air, as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Funny, everything is more rapid nowadays, from transit to morals; but it takes a husband just as long to get home from the office evenings as it did twenty years ago. (And when airplanes replace the subway, dearie, the only difference will be in the "alibi.")

SHE TRIED THEM AND FOUND SATISFACTION

What Mrs. McKay Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Gives the Real Reason Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Continue to Grow in Popularity as a Kidney Remedy.

Salt Springs, N. S., Feb. 21st.—(Special.)—"I have found satisfaction in using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I recommend them to all who suffer." This is the statement of Mrs. Howard P. McKay, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. That statement goes straight to the point, even as Dodd's Kidney Pills go straight to the kidneys.

For Dodd's Kidney Pills are long past the experimental stage in Nova Scotia. For more than a quarter of a century they have been in use as a household remedy for kidney diseases and those other ills that come from sick kidneys.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have done just what Mrs. McKay says. They have given "satisfaction."

They have been used to treat rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, dropsy, sore back, gravel, and other similar ills. That they continue to give satisfaction is evidenced by their ever-growing popularity.

If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills, ask your neighbors about them.

C.P.R. OFFICIAL HONORED

THE appointment of Lt. Col. G. McLaren Brown as Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire is the result of the very fine services rendered by the European Manager of the C. P. R. to the British Government, for whom he acted as Assistant Director of Transport during the last three years of the war. "G. McL." as he is popularly known, both in Canada and the Old Country, is the son of Adam Brown of Hamilton, Ontario, and was born in 1865. In 1887 he was appointed agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Vancouver, promoted five years later to be Asst. General Passenger Agent, Western Division, and subsequently became in turn Executive Agent, Superintendent of Hotels, and Dining and Sleeping Car Dept., and General Passenger Agent C. P. R. Atlantic Steamship Lines. In 1908 he was appointed General European Traffic Agent, and in 1910 General European Manager, with head offices at 62-5 Charing Cross, London, S.W.

Col. George McLaren Brown, says a friend writing in the "Montreal Gazette," is one of those rare men whose friendships are equal to the number of their acquaintances. To all in that wide circle the announcement of the new honor which has been conferred upon him comes as pleasant and very welcome news. It is a recognition of qualities and services which they all know him to possess and to have rendered. The reputation which he enjoyed in Canada, not alone in the railway world, has been enhanced in proportion to his larger opportunities as European Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway in London, and the value of his service in the organization and direction of troop transportation during the war can hardly be overstated. It was as successful as it was onerous, and although given with no other thought than that of duty, was none the less deserving of recognition now accorded. It was but one, if the chief of his war activities, which were in fact as varied as were the demands upon his help and counsel. In all this McLaren Brown has been true in both impulse and action to the stock of which he comes. Similar impulses, finding similar expression having regard to place and circumstances, have characterized the long and honorable career of Adam Brown, his father, now and for many years postmaster at Hamilton. Active and successful in commercial life, a pioneer in railway development, and one of the fathers of the National Policy, Adam Brown at ninety-six, is still young in spirit, giving largely of his time and substance in philanthropy, and to the support of war relief organizations. As is the father, so is the son, strong in his undertakings and, withal, a thoughtful, kindly gentleman.

Sir George McL. Brown.
