Regina Leader: "The people of the West have every reason to organize to the limit and rise in their might in opposition to Robert Rogers. He has been the worst enemy of Canada, and more particularly of Western Canada, that ever secured a place of influence and power in the public life of this country. Looking over the years that he occupied a position in the government of Manitoba, the people of that province can today partly realize what his ascendancy there meant to them and how the whole political life of that Province was lowered to a plane which made Manitoba a by-word among the provinces. The people there, by painful experience of their own financial problems, know of the results of his reckless administration."

GERMANY'S FORLORN HOPE.

The New York Herald quotes a Prussian expert as saying, just before the collapse of Germany in the great war, that it did not matter what happened because even if the Fatherland was beaten she would win in the long run. What he implied by this was that the Allies would be sure to squabble among themselves. The Herald does not believe it conceivable that there will be any disagreement in essentials among the Big Four of the Entente nations. It points out that they shared each other's resources in men and treasures. The one Red Cross ministered to all. A combined Allied fleet in the Atlantic, the North Sea and the Mediterranean kept the great sea lanes open and saved civilized Europe from starvation and strangulation.

In further discussing the subject, the Herald says:

"There may be differences as to details, but of one thing we may be sure, when it comes down to this or that main question, the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy will see light together, for the very good reason that they will have to police a disturbed and turbulent world for a long time to come.

"No theory put forward by any Germans, royal, political or ecclesiastical, since the fatal August of 1914, has worked out. Therefore there is no reason to expect that the Allies will be such fools as to disagree on details. The gathering at Versailles is not a meeting of diplomats who are setting their wits against each other. It is a council of friends who have to decide as to points of agreement, not as to points of disagreement. So it is no peace conference in the old sense of the word, as it was at Berlin after the Russo-Turkish war, or at Portsmouth after the war between Russia and Japan. In a word, it is a discussion between friends.

"If the complications raised by the small nations, through an exaggerated sense of their own importance, are not allowed to upset everything, there is no reason why the gathering at Versailles should not be one of the most harmonious affairs of the sort ever held anywhere."

Although very heavy demands have been made upon the people as a result of the war, the needs of the church have not been overlooked. Reports submitted at the annual meeting of St. Paul's last evening show that the church has had one of the most prosperous years in its history. There has been an increase in the number of communicants, and the revenue for all purposes reached the handsome total of $10,372. The members of the church and congregation should be proud of the showing made.

Another evil heritage of the war is the dearth of domestic servants and a consequent proposal to "standardize" housework, to put it on an eight hours a day footing, and fix for it a minimum wage. This is the project as outlined by Miss Louise Odencrantz, of the United States Employment Service, who fears that despite the release of women war workers there will be continued scarcity of "help" unless household service is made more attractive. "An eight-hour day" and "a minimum wage!" The notion is enough to make the old-fashioned housekeeper's hair stand on end.

An Ottawa despatch states that 1,500 Canadians reported missing and presumed to have died, have been located in German prison camps. A report on the whole question is now being prepared.

THROUGH OUR SIEVE

We often hear of the sweet simplicity of childhood, yet every mother considers her baby cunning.

"Sinners walk in slippery places," but these icy days the sinners have no monopoly of slippery sidewalks.

Yes, money talks, but it is the lack of money that does most of the complaining. You have noticed it.

The Toronto Telegram's wedding notices are headed "Brides of the Hour"—and it's a blamed truthful light on the modern marriage.

It is all right for a girl in fiction to have a trusting nature, but the minute she steps out of the covers of the book she is well posted on the wiles of human nature.

It is estimated that 1,250,000 men are digging coal throughout the world—as against about 196,000,000 "digging for coal." It's an unequal world.

A Cleveland woman has married the man to whom her first husband willed his fortune in case his widow married again. Tell this to the old fellows who declare "women have no capacity for business."

It's a ten-to-one shot that Rev. L. D. Bass, who prayed "Lord deliver us from the kissing evil," is one of those shriveled up, weakened little shrimps who do not need deliverance. 'Twas ever thus!

Veniot-Coleman

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Dunstan's Church yesterday afternoon when Rev. F. L. Carney united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Jennie Alice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Coleman, of this city and Lawrence Edward Veniot son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Veniot of Bathurst. The bride was very becomingly attired and was attended by her sister Miss Helen M. Coleman and Miss Lola Tracey. The groom was attended by Pte. George J. Glasier of Campbellton. After the ceremony a recherche luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents. Many elegant and appropriate gifts were received, among them a substantial cheque, a gift from the bride's uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Veniot left last evening for Bathurst. On their return they will take up their residence in this city.
